AFTERMATH.

BY LONGFELLOW.

When the summer fields are mown,
When the birds are fledged and flown,
And the dry leaves strew the path;
With the falling of the snow,
With the cawing of the crow,
Once again the fields we mow
And gather in the aftermath.

Not the sweet, new grass with flowers
Is this harvesting of ours;
Not the upland clover bloom;
But the rowen mixed with weeds,
Tangled tufts from marsh and meads,
Where the poppy drops its seeds
In the silence and the gloom.

CHINA REFUSES CZAR'S DEMANDS.

Government at Pekin Firmly Rejects the Proposal to Surrender Province of Manchuria.

RUSSIA ENTERS A DENIAL

United States Files Formal Protest and Insists That All Treaty Rights Must Be Respected.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 28, 3 a. m.—It is officially announced here that the Chinese government has sent to the Russian government at St. Petersburg a formal refusal to grant the latter's demands in regard to the evacuation of Manchuria.

American Protest Presented.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PEKIN, April 27.—United States Minister Conger has sent a note to Prince Ching, the grand secretary, protesting against two features of Russia's proposed Manchurian agreement, which are considered particularly antagonistic to American interests.

The note objects to China promising not to open more towns to foreign trade, because negotiations are progressing in connection with the American commercial treaty for the opening of the ports of Mukden and Taku-Shan, and it objects to promising that the foreign employés in China shall only be Russians.

The United States withholds expression regarding the other demands, but is prepared to insist on its treaty rights if infractions occur.

Russian Guards Removed.

The Russian officials and guard at New Chwang have been removed, but they declare that the surrender of the customs and municipal administration never has been conceded, and that the matter is still to be negotiated.

In the meantime Russia is dispersing some of its army by sending large numbers of officers and soldiers in civilian dress to the mining works in Manchuria and to the timber concessions on the Yalu river.

It is stated that Russia has engaged 2,000 mounted and armed robbers and is drilling and organizing them for service in the Yalu river concessions. Russian hatred of the Japanese in Manchuria is violent.

Russia Determined to Persevere.

LONDON, April 28, 3 a. m.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says, "The Russian government has resolved to persevere to the end, and it will only recoil before actual hostilities. Russia does not apprehend, however, that the present misunderstanding will lead to war with any state or group of states."

The Pekin correspondent of the Times says this morning that he is able to confirm his reference yesterday to Mongolia. He adds that Russia alleged than any change in the administration of Mongolia would provoke a disturbance likely to affect neighboring territory.

"Russia's real motive," continues the correspondent, "is to prevent China from doing anything to strengthen its position in Mongolia, which doubtless will be the next Chinese dependency to be absorbed by Russia."

"I can also confirm the other demands as telegraphed, but the third demand, concerning the exclusive employment of Russians, comprises all Mongolia. It specifies, as an example, that if China wishes to employ foreign mining experts in Manchuria, Mongolia, and apparently in Chi Li—though the text here is obscure—such experts must be Russian. It further specifies that the commissioner of customs and the health officer at New Chwang shall be Russians."

Russia Explains Demands.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, April 27.—The Russian foreign office, when shown the Pekin dispatch of April 23, setting forth the eight demands made by Russia regarding Manchuria, entered a denial of a number of the points and minimized the imoprtance of others.

The foreign office quotes each point separately, with its comments, as follows:

FIRST—No more Manchurian ports or towns are to be opened. Comment: "Absolutely false. Not our affair."

SECOND—No more foreign consuls are to be admitted into Manchuria. Comment: "Depends upon China. Not mentioned in our pour parlers."

THIRD—No foreigners except Russians are to be employed in the public servics of Manchuria. Comment: "False."

FOURTH—The present status of the administration of Manchuria is to remain unchanged. Comment: "Unimportant."

FIFTH—The customs receipts at the port of New Chwang are to be given to the Russo-Chinese bank. Comment: "Such is the present arrangement."

SIXTH—A sanitary commission is to be organized under Russian control. Comment: "Extremely important, since an English vessel in 1902 introduced the plague."

SEVENTH—Russia is entitled to attach the telegraph wires and poles of all Chinese lines in Manchuria. Comment: "False."

EIGHTH—No territory in Manchuria is to be alienated to any other power. Comment: "The integrity of China is already adopted into the Russian program. No need to discuss that now."

Will Not Close Open Door.

Regarding the whole negotiations, which have been dragging on since January, the foreign office says:

"There is nothing directed in any manner against the interests of the other powers or their commerce; others enjoy the same rights of commerce in the interior as we.

"Of the towns not opened to trade the railway will carry Russian and foreign goods alike through the country, but we or they cannot sell them in the unopened towns. If the towns are opened all will benefit alike.

"It is in the railways' interest to demand the widest possible developments of trade. The pourparlers concern multitudinous detailed questions, which were not foreseen when the evacuation was decided upon."

Chinese Merchants Fear Russia.

Advices from Blagovechensk, capital of the Amoor government, say the Chinese merchants there are closing their businesses, selling out at a loss, and are emigrating to Manchuria. This and other indications, it is added, have aroused apprehensions that trouble is brewing.

OPPOSE RED CROSS LAWS.

SUSPENDED MEMBERS ISSUE A STATEMENT TO PUBLIC.

Claim They Were Put Out of the Society Under Rule Adopted in Illegal Manner—Declare Their Only Purpose Has Been to Benefit the Society and Introduce Business Methods in Handling Funds—Are Not Attacking Clara Barton.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—The twenty-three suspended members of the National Red Cross society have issued a public statement in which they say they were ordered out of the society because they sought to conserve its best interests and because they objected to the unbusinesslike methods being applied to the management of affairs.

The suspended members deny the authority of Mr. Phillips' committee to act and say that committee is proceeding under bylaws illegally adopted, and which bylaws contravene the "charter of the society by providing in their first article and section that the 'annual meeting of the American Red Cross shall be held each year, the time and place to be determined by the executive committee,' whereas Washington is the proper meeting place, and that the new bylaws "violate the purpose and intent of the charter granted by congress in that they constitute a system which invades the chartered rights if it does not practically disfranchise all the members of the association, except the few whom the president may appoint on committees; and, as one person may serve on several committees, it is in the power of the president to commit all the real power of the corporation into the hands of less than one-tenth of the membership."

Intent of Congress Disregarded.

After further comment on the "new bylaws," the statement continues: "These bylaws which begin by asserting the power of the executive committee to remove the home of the American National Red Cross from the District of Columbia, in which congress declared it should be, end by vesting effectively in one person all those powers which congress intended should be exercised by the corporations it had named and their successors, with an added provision that rendered them practically irrepealable.

"Such a system, we submit, would not meet the approval of the American people, even if these bylaws had been regularly adopted after fair debate. But, secondly, these 'new bylaws' were not, we insist, fairly or legally adopted.

"The extent of our offense is—and the new bylaws seem to have been designed to punish this offense at present and prevent its repetition in the future—that we ventured to criticise the business methods of the society, to insist that these methods should be improved, and that there should be a more complete accountability, so that the philanthropists who give and raise moneys for charitable purposes should have more implicit faith in the efficiency of our organization and make it not only useful in relieving the evils of war but also make it what it has not been for some years, the great, practically the one, conduit for their donations for the mitigation of, in the language of our charter, 'the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods, and other great national calamities.'"

Not Attacking Clara Barton.

The members deny the charge that in their efforts to effect a reorganization of the association along business like methods they are attacking Miss Barton.

The statement then takes up the circular sent out by Mr. Francis Atwater, representing Miss Barton in October, 1902, asking for proxies because the latter was desirous of having "some slight changes" made in the bylaws, and declares that his letter was misleading and that the changes made at the December meeting following were radical and revolutionary.

It is asserted that the "new bylaws" were rushed through without opportunity for explanation, and the statement concludes:

"The known misleading effect of Mr. Atwater's letter on the minds of members who did not attend the meeting, but could and would have done so if they had known the facts; the probable effect of the Atwater letter in procuring proxies, and the conduct of the friends of these bylaws at the meeting when it is claimed they were passed, are enough, we submit, when taken all together, to invalidate them as a body.

Work for Society's Interest.

"We therefore insist that we were acting not against but for the best interests of the Red Cross society when we stated to congress, which gave us our charter, how that charter had been used. Unless present methods are abandoned the society cannot retain public confidence, which is essential to its success.

"For making such a protest to congress, and for that alone, twenty-three of us have been suspended by a committee of which three or, on occasion, two may constitute a quorum. This is the consummation up to which these 'new bylaws' have led.

"From the above plain statement of facts the public will judge for itself of the extent to which the purpose of resorting to expulsion, for the prevention of debate as to stricter methods of accounting, controlled in the preparation of the new bylaw and in the selection of the methods by which these bylaws were 'put through.'"

The general public statement is signed by the twenty-three suspended members, as follows:

John M. Wilson, Mabel T. Boardman, Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, Mrs. Sara A. Spencer, Bessie J. Kibbey, A. C. Coffman, Simon Wolf, B. H. Warner, N. L. Tanner, Mrs. Henrietta M. Rose, Thomas F. Walsh, Amy L. Wolf, Hetty Harrison, William H. Michael, Anna R. Cowles, Ellen Spencer Mussey, Elizabeth T. Pierce, Mary B. Hague, F. M. Ramsay, W. K. Van Reypen, John W. Foster, H. A. Herbert, and Harriet Blaine Beale.

The meeting appointed a special committee, consisting of Simon Wolf, former secretary of the navy; Hilary A. Herbert, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, Mrs. T. Ellen Foster, and B. H. Warner, to collate all the facts at their command to show the "abuses that have been practiced by the old management and the unbusinesslike manner in which the finances have been collected and disbursed."

DOCTOR LOSES HIS TROUSERS.

C. F. Stewart Wishes Some One Would Return the Garment Which Disappeared Most Mysteriously.

Dr. C. F. Stewart, a veterinary surgeon living at 1561 West Monroe street, is shy one pair of trousers, which have been missing since Saturday night. Although he inserted advertisements in several newspapers, even the offer of a liberal reward has failed to bring the missing article to light.

"I can't understand what has become of my pants," said the doctor yesterday. "I visited a barber shop on Madison street early in the evening, and I know I had them when I was there. The place is only a couple of blocks from where I live, and I went from there directly home.

"On the way home they disappeared, and I have not seen them since. It seems strange that one of the neighbors did not find them."

DEERING PLANT FEELS A STRIKE.

Harvester Trust Employes, 2,000 Strong, Quit There; 500 Out at the McCormick Works.

MANY POLICE ON GUARD.

Issue Over the Right to Organize and International Officers of Union to Take Charge.

Organiged labor opened war on the harvester trust yesterday by stampeding to a strike over 2,000 of the employés of the Deering division and over 500 men in the McCormick plants. The leaders hope to spread the fight today and get every worker to join them. Officers of the Deering company minimize the importance of the movement and believe it will amount to little.

The only issue is a demand for the right to organize. When this was refused discontent appeared. Then followed the discharge at the Deering division of the men who have been agitating, and as a result the stampede was started. International officers of the various unions were notified, and promptly assumed control of the situation.

Many Policemen on Guard.

Last night the north side plants of the Deering company were under police protection. Six policemen stood at each gate, but the union pickets found a way into the buildings and succeeded in getting over 200 girls to leave the night shifts. As they passed out they yelled and cheered, attracting the attention of some of the laborers, who, on being notified, joined the strike.

The main body of the strikers gathered at Social hall, Belmont and Paulina streets, as soon as they quit work and while the police were arriving at the plant they were holding an enthusiastic meeting. Over 1,800 were crowded into the place and made vague plans for continuing the struggle. These were later crystallized by the leaders.

Story of the Strikers.

A week ago, according to the story of the strikers, Supt. Chris Borg began discharging men who were metal workers and members of the United Metal Workers' union. A meeting of that organization was called and it was decided to protest. A committee, headed by F. C. Franke, was appointed.

When they arrived at Mr. Kennedy's office, Franke was asked to step in and the others were left in an anteroom. Franke was in the office two hours and then a messenger came with his tools and shop clothes, and he was told that his services were no longer needed. As soon as he announced this to the committee preparations were made for the stampede.

As the men passed out of the shops at noon many of them were stopped and told to quit. The union men promptly obeyed and the nonunion men, catching the spirit, joined with them. The enthusiasm spread to the twine girls and 200 of them went out. The engineers and firemen talked to their officers and asked to be allowed to strike, but were held back to await developments.

At 5 o'clock members of the following unions had left their places:

Metal workers.	Machinists.
Woodworkers.	Blacksmiths.
Painters.	Shipping room employés.
Twine girls.	Freight handlers.

Girls Pass Police Lines.

All but a few of the strikers, who remained at the plant for picket duty, marched to Social hall. While there two of the twine girls said they would go through the police lines and get the night gangs to join. This they did, and the 200 girls who work at night obeyed the summons, and with them a few of the laborers.

Pickets will be placed about the plants today to stop all those who come for work. Massmeetings will be held both morning and afternoon, and a demonstration at night. Labor leaders from downtown will be invited to attend and form a joint committee to engineer the strike.

Less Serious on West Side.

The McCormick situation is not so serious. Cots have been taken to the plant for the nonunion firemen, who are being served with food from the restaurant of Ald. Zimmer. The metal workers have picketed the shops and will attempt to get the employés stirred with the enthusiasm that marked the Deering walkout. Representatives sent to the Deering meeting last night declared that this would be done.

Both Formerly Nonunion Plants.

In both the Deering and the McCormick plants the companies in the past have been able to keep out the labor organizations. During the last three weeks the metal trades have gained something of a footing, and their members are the ones now planning the scheme of battle. It is proposed that the other workers shall be formed into unions as soon as they come out, and representatives of the various trades will be on hand today, hoping to initiate them.

Leaders of the local labor movement, such as M. J. Deutsch and J. J. O'Donnell of the Building Material Trades council, were on hand last night, and seemed pleased at the prospect. The declare that the fight will be the worst the companies have ever experienced unless they agree to let the unions be formed.

Company's Side of It.

Burr A. Kennedy of the Deering company made this explanation:

"A small labor demonstration occurred today at the works. A committee of the metal workers met the superintendent and declared that, while they had no grievance, and were entirely satisfied with hours and wages, they must demand recognition of the union. Afterwards the members of this union were called out, and other men, not in it, went with them. A few hundred men out of the 6,000 employed quit."

SCANDAL DRIVES HER TO DEATH.

Woman at Bridgeport, Conn., Kills Herself in Order That Estranged Husband and Wife May Be Reunited.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 27.—[Special.]—Miss Jane E. Hawkins committed suicide at her home near here last night in the hope of reuniting an estranged husband and wife. She left a letter explaining that, although innocent of any intended wrongdoing, she had been responsible for separating the husband and wife, and had decided that in order to prove her innocence she had better kill herself and by her death bring together her friends. She had not the money, she wrote, to go far away, where she would cease to be a barrier to the reunion.

POLICY KING IN SING SING.

AL ADAMS, WORTH MILLIONS, UNABLE TO ESCAPE LAW.

Known as Meanest Man in New York, He Built Up Huge Fortune with Pennies of the Poor—Had Hoped His Gold Would Buy Place in Respectable Society for His Children—Loses His Nerve When He Enters Prison Gates.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—"Al" Adams, the convicted policy king, arrived at Sing Sing prison this afternoon, handcuffed to Frank P. Price, who is to serve three years for forgery. The policy king collapsed when he was being led from the Tombs to the prison van which carried him to the Grand Central station, but had regained his composure when he reached the prison. The convict's son, Walter, was with him. When they parted at the prison door the elder Adams wrung his boy's hand and said: "Good-by, my boy. It is hard for me to go in here, but I suppose I'll have to. I'll get used to it." Adams is worth not less than $5,000,000, but his wealth could not save him.

A Real Jekyll and Hyde.

Had Robert Louis Stevenson made a careful search of the civilized world he could have found no better character model for his "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" than Albert J. Adams—Mr. Adams, the successful real estate operator, banker, and retiring man of business affairs—"Al" Adams, the policy king, whose fortune of millions was built out of the pennies of the ignorant and weak, the pitiful earnings of old men and women, and of the urchins of the street. Few men possess a dual character as does this man.

It is because of the vile form of gambling out of which his fortune has been amassed, as well as his peculiar habits of personal economy and the manner in which he has forsaken, as soon as they got into trouble, the creatures who have been his willing or unwilling tools that "Al" Adams has come to be known as the meanest man in New York and the greatest disappointment that has ever come into the life of this man has arisen out of his inability to purchase with his great wealth a position in society for his children. He has believed until recently that gold would wipe out any stain that might attach itself to his character.

Adams was formerly a brakeman, and when he left off railroading and came to New York he lived with his wife and young children down in lower Eighth avenue.

There his neighbors knew him for what he was. When he grew rich and built a block of apartments the structure was known as "Policy Flats," and Adams, in disgust that he could not separate himself from his vile business, moved farther uptown, taking a fine house.

Then there was a fire, which called public attention to him, and again he was referred to as the "policy king," and he made another move. Ostrich like, he thought to escape notice by hiding his head.

Fortune Grows Steadily.

But, as years progressed, the Adams army was ever industriously at work, and his fortune swelled so rapidly that he could hardly realize the change of circumstances. He made large investments in real estate, and, being possessed of real shrewdness, his investments prospered, until today his real estate holdings in New York are easily worth $2,000,000.

He purchased shares in several banking institutions, until he became a factor of influence in more than one. He was elected to directorates, and men who knew little of him except that he had money shook him by the hand, yet they would have refused to recognize him had they known the real man. He purchased a brewery. Downtown merchants borrowed from him.

The fight that ended in Adams' conviction and sentence to Sing Sing was started by Capt. F. Norton Goddard, who took an interest in those who worked for him and were being ruined by policy. Adams fought, but the law beat him.

CROWD BEATS A PEDDLER WHO HURTS LITTLE GIRL.

Child Struck by a Brick and Then Onlookers Pursue Fruit Vender, Who Fails to Escape.

A brick thrown by James Georgepoponlas, a Greek fruit peddler, struck 10 year old Martha Herzstrom yesterday, fracturing her skull. A moment later the Greek was being pursued by a crowd of enraged men and boys, who overtook him and were beating and kicking him when the police arrived and put the Greek under arrest.

The trouble grew out of the action of a number of boys who stole apples from the peddler's wagon. The wagon had been stopped in front of C. Herzstrom's cigar factory, 4045 Armour avenue, and Martha was standing in the front yard watching the boys.

When the Greek returned to his wagon and found some of his apples were missing he made a threatening motion with his whip and the boys replied by pelting him with his own apples.

Stones, too, were thrown, and finally the Greek picked up a brick and hurled it. The missile flew wide of the boys and struck the girl on the side of her head.

Seeing the girl fall, the peddler jumped into his wagon and whipped his horse, while several men who had seen what had occurred ran in pursuit and caught him. Others joined the crowd, and there was talk of lynching the peddler.

While the chase was in progress Herzstrom, attracted by the commotion in front of his place, ran out and saw his daughter lying as if dead. He carried her into the house, and Dr. John A. Lyon, 4118 State street, and Dr. John Eigenmann, 3857 State street, said that even if the injured girl lived she probably would be disfigured for life.

INSURED FOR MAN SHE LOVED.

Develops That Mrs. Roma Snowball, Suicide, Carried a $10,000 Policy in Favor of C. E. Jordon.

Discovery was made in Galesburg yesterday that Mrs. Roma Snowball, who killed herself in Chicago last week, carried a life insurance policy for $10,000 in favor of C. E. Jordon, for love of whom she is supposed to have ended her life.

The policy was carried in the Farmers and Mechanics' company of Galesburg, and in the light of Jordon's alleged advice to the woman "to use gas," the insurance company will make a searching investigation before the policy is paid. In a letter, supposed to have been written by Jordon, and found in Mrs. Snowball's room in La Salle avenue, this passage appeared:

"If anything happens to you do it in bed and with gas, so I can find you and bury you nice."

The policy is said to have been taken out by Mrs. Snowball a year ago. The adjourned inquest over the woman's body will be continued by Coroner Traeger today.

HINMAN GIVES NAMES OF FOUR IN BRIBE CASE.

Chicago Editor Says Detective Told Him Nohe, Mitchell, and Barnes Called on Colonel Bliss.

YATES MAY BE A WITNESS

Committee Determined to Find Out the Details of Conference in the Governor's Room.

Springfield, Ill., April 28, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—George W. Hinman, editor of the Inter Ocean, from 10 o'clock last night to 1 o'clock this morning testified before the house committee investigating the charges of bribery in behalf of the Mueller bill.

Names Two Legislators.

Mr. Hinman's testimony was not explicit or convincing, but mentioned names and as soon as the committee adjourned subpoenas were ordered issued for Col. E. R. Bliss, general counsel for the Chicago City railway, and several legislators and employés of the legislature. They are:

*Representative Augustus W. Nohe.
Representative Benjamin M. Mitchell.
Assistant Clerk John W. Barnes.

Others to Be Subpoenaed.

Subpoenas will be issued for the following:

Gov. Yates.
Lieut. Gov. Northcott.
Mayor Harrison.

The leaders of the senate who helped pass the Mueller bill.

The members of the Chicago city council now in Springfield advocating the passage of the Mueller bill.

Shadowed Col. Bliss.

The testimony of Mr. Hinman was entirely based on reports brought to him by the detectives he had employed to shadow Col. Bliss for three days after the Lindly bill had been introduced.

They had kept watch of Col. Bliss' office and reported that the members and officers of the house in question had visited Col. Bliss' office the Saturday before last. From that he had drawn the deductions he had.

Mr. Hinman asserted that if these members and Clerk Barnes, who, by the way, is a son-in-law of the late ex-Gov. Tanner, were brought before the committee they could give valuable testimony as to the matter under investigation. It was on this testimony that the subpœnas for them and Col. Bliss were issued.

All That Hinman Knows.

All that Hinman had to offer as evidence was based on what to him seemed the suspicious circumstances that Nohe, Mitchell, and Barnes had called on Col. Bliss on the Saturday in question. He knew nothing about what had been said or done in Bliss' office, his information being confined to the fact that they had been there. His information was simply what had been told him by his detectives.

Representative Nohe is and has been a strong opponent of the Mueller bill and one of the supporters of the Lindly bill. Mitchell has nominally been in favor of the Mueller bill lately.

Representative Nohe Is Furious.

Nohe is a close friend of Congressman Lorimer and was in consultation with him all night, the two sitting up until the committe had adjourned.

Lorimer seemed badly worried at the turn things were taking, while Nohe this morning is furious and says any attempt to connect him with the matter may result in his having a few things to say on his own account.

Story Told by Hinman.

Mr. Hinman was debarred from reading a long statement which he had prepared about "boodle" in previous legislatures, but was told to make a statement corroborative of the editorial in the Inter Ocean of April 22. He then said that Auerbach and Govin of New York, representing the Union Traction company, called on him some months ago, evidently to enlist his cooperation to get an extension of franchise for the Union Traction company.

He then told them about the Allen bill, and of its scandal, and that he didn't believe the Illinois legislature would grant a longer right than twenty years. He said they talked with him about coming to Springfield to put a bill through and he deprecated the action and it aroused his suspicions.

Kept Careful Watch.

From that time out he kept a careful watch of all traction legislation because he felt there was boodle behind anything that looked like more than twenty year franchises.

Of late, Mr. Hinman said, he had had reports from his correspondents in Springfield. There was "boodle talk" about the traction bill, and that he sent his local men, including a man named Armstrong and others, to watch the office of Col. E. R. Bliss.

He told of the reports these men and women had made to him, of Bliss' movements on Saturday, April 19, and on Sunday, April 20; of Bliss' visit to the bank, and of the fact that Nohe, Mitchell, and Barnes called on Bliss.

Basis for the Editorial.

There were to his mind suspicious circumstances of the highest order, and for that reason he felt that he was justified in making the editorial he did, and he stood by it.

Mr. Hinman was firmly cross-examined on all these propositions, but gave out nothing farther than the facts above stated, saying that it was all he had on this question. He gave the names of the reporters who shadowed Bliss and every one of them will be summoned to appear before the committee.

Telegrams have been sent to Chicago to Col. Bliss to appear, and he is expected here tomorrow. The Inter Ocean reporters who played the detective will also come, the idea being on the part of the committee to exhaust every possible clew offered by Mr.

Hinman, so that nobody can ever cry "Whitewash."

It is not without the bounds of probability that Chairman Cicero J. Lindly, the Lorimer may be called as witnesses. The committee intends to go into all questions regarding the speaker's charges, especially that part made prominent by the testimony of the speaker himself, that he had been incited to make his charges by Lorimer and others anxious to kill off all municipal ownership legislation. Witnesses will probably be called on this line. Lindly is quoted as saying that an agreement was made before Miller was elected speaker that all legislation regarding traction questions should be in the hands of the men who chose him, and while last night he denied he was a party to it, it is getting well established that the bargain was made and that Lorimer's reward for electing Miller was that he was to determine what legislation affecting traction matters should be passed. Miller has testified it was Lorimer who forced him to make the bribery charges to the house.

Yates Writes to Rinaker.

When Gov. Yates heard tonight that he might be called he at once addressed a letter to Chairman Rinaker stating that he much desired to be in St. Louis in connection with the world's fair dedication on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday; that it was especially important that he be there on Wednesday and Thursday, and that if his testimony as a witness was desired by the committee he would esteem it a personal favor if he could be heard on Tuesday or Friday of this week. This letter was delivered to Chairman Rinaker by Col. John J. Oglesby, the governor's secretary.

Mr. Rinaker sent back word that the committee had not at that time considered the question of calling the governor before it, but that if it should be determined that his testimony was desired he would be heard on one of the two days mentioned.

Direct Question to Hinman.

Mr. Hinman was examined by Representative Bundy on this line;

"What information have you to justify the editorial in your paper stating that the Mueller bill would be passed by bribery and corruption, and that some members of the legislature have already been bribed?"

This was not exactly the line of testimony Mr. Hinman had prepared. He, through his attorneys, former Solicitor General Aldrich and former Judge Wing, presented a long, typewritten statement from Mr. Hinman, in which the latter went into everything he knew, or thought he knew, concerning the existing situation in Springfield, as well as what had happened here for a number of seasons back.

This was objected to strenuously by the committee, the point being made that Mr. Hinman had made specific charges that "boodle" had been used and what the committee wanted was the knowledge he possessed, and not a thesis on the street railway situation.

Hinman After the Session.

At 1 o'clock Mr. Hinman and his attorney came from the room and G. B. Albert was called in. Mr. Hinman said there would be no statement given out tonight.

"You have been on the stand several hours," was suggested.

"Yes," replied Mr. Hinman, smiling, "I have spent a pleasant evening."

The other witness besides George W. Hinman examined was George Albert. Albert is the man who was quoted as one of the men who had told another man, who had carried it to the speaker, that an attempt was made to bribe him. When Albert was put on the stand it was found he knew nothing about the matter at all.

At the conclusion of his testimony the committee adjourned.

Committee Is Not Through.

When Representative Johnson came from the committee room he was asked:

"Will the committee hold another session during the day?"

"Yes."

"Then they are not through with the investigation?" was asked.

"O, no," he said.

"When will you meet again?"

"As soon as we can get some material to work upon."

"Then you have a prospect of getting something more?"

"Well, we have to follow up the trail."

The question of calling Mr. Hinman before the bar of the house tomorrow will be decided by that body when it meets today.

Will Yates Veto Bill?

It was hinted frequently last night that Gov. Yates will veto the Mueller bill, even if it succeeds in passing both branches of the legislature. His newspaper organ intimated as much.

The thing creating considerable interest is the statement credited to Cicero J. Lindly to the effect that Speaker Miller was elected to his present position with the understanding that there should be no traction legislation at this session. Lindly denies he was a party to the bargain, leaving the inference that it was Lorimer who insisted on the condition. But in justification of Miller's action he says:

"What was Miller to do when the men who gave him his position, with the understanding that there was to be no traction legislation, insisted that he carry out his bargain?"

Speaker Miller was elected by the influence of Congressman William Lorimer and Gov. Richard Yates.

Will Ask More Time.

Under the resolution authorizing the investigation the committee is directed to report to the house this morning, but it is exceedingly doubtful that it will be able to report at that time. The chances are that a preliminary report, while meager in its scope, will be submitted, and that further time will be asked.

Scope of the Investigation.

When the investigating committee met Chairman Rinaker announced that the scope of the investigation would cover all the matters in connection with traction legislation during the present session of the house which properly could be heard. This was taken to mean not only that the inquiry would be had whether there had been an attempt to advance the Mueller bill by wrong methods but also whether improper means had been used to defeat it, as well as any evidence which might be brought forth as to the Lindly bill and the reasons for its prominence.

It was also announced that the committee, under the resolution appointing it, could not take up other than traction matters connected with the present session of the legislature.

Miller Recalls a Name.

Speaker Miller was called in first and allowed to go over his testimony given on Friday night and Saturday morning, in order to correct any errors which might have occurred in the stenographer's notes. He also recollected that there was a man named Harry Andrews who told him that another man named Albert J. Appel had told Andrews that another man had told Appel that it would be "cheaper to buy the speaker" than members of the legislature. So a subpoena was sent out for Mr. Appel, who has a job in the state house.

Then it developed that Appel was not the right man, and that the man who was supposed to be second hand in the reported conversation was named George B. Albert, an insurance agent from Des Moines, Ia., who has been here during the session watching some insurance legislation in which an Iowa company is interested. He was subpoenaed.

Albert was in bed at his hotel when Assistant Doorkeeper Blue found him. Blue returned to the committee rooms for instructions, and was ordered to bring Mr. Albert forthwith.

When brought to the Leland hotel Mr. Albert was apparently in a state of wonderment as to why he had been summarily pulled out of bed to testify about a matter of which he declared he knew nothing. He had received no previous intimation that he was supposed to know anything in connection with the matter. When shown a newspaper clipping connecting his name with the remark quoted, he said that he recalled having heard such a remark in the hotel some time ago, and that he repeated it to Charles Anderson, the speaker's clerk. He was unable to give any information as to who made the remark and had not attached any importance to it.

Albert says he had no connection whatever with the traction legislation and not the remotest interest in the subject.

Hinman's First Appearance.

At 9:30 George W. Hinman, accompanied by his attorneys, Judge R. M. Wing and Charles H. Aldrich, and his stenographer, was called before the committee.

The committee was divided as to whether or not Mr. Hinman should give his testimony before the committee. The attorneys for Mr. Hinman took the ground that as he had been summoned before the bar of the house tomorrow he would not be required to give his testimony before this committee.

A legal argument as to the scope of the committee's authority was in progress at 10 o'clock, when the discovery was made that several newspaper men were on the roof of an adjoining building within hearing distance. A hasty adjournment was then taken downstairs.

Here there was a resumption of the legal argument as to the testimony of Mr. Hinman. It was finally decided that his attorneys should be permitted to be present, but that no one else would be allowed to be present, and accordingly Mr. Hinman's stenographer was excluded from the room.

Big Mass of Manuscript.

Then Attorney Aldrich took the floor and produced a large mass of manuscript. He wanted to read it to the committee. It contained everything Mr. Hinman knew or guessed as to what happened in Springfield this session, last session, the session before that, or the session before that.

Representative Bundy, however, raised the point that Mr. Hinman was here to answer specific questions as to what he knew about bribery in connection with the Mueller bill, as charged in the editorial embodied in the resolution of the house, and furthermore his reason for his statement that not only had bribery been attempted to secure the passage of the Mueller bill but that bribery actually had been accomplished and money paid to members of the legislature. The committee, he said, should not be diverted from the main issue by attempts to lug in extraneous matter.

Hinman and Attorneys Arrive.

Hinman arrived in Springfield in the afternoon. He brought with him Congressman William Lorimer and his two lawyers—ex-Judge Wing and former Solicitor of the Treasury Charles Aldrich. As soon as the four men got out of the train they were driven to the executive mansion. After a consultation with the governor, in which the lawyers participated, they came to the hotel, and Mr. Hinman announced his willingness to go before the committee, providing his attorneys accompanied him.

The reason given by the friends of Mr. Hinman for his demanding the presence of his lawyers while he was being examined by the committee was that Friday night Speaker Miller, not being thus protected, was asked and answered a number of questions which a lawyer would have objected to as not being relevant to the subject matter.

These questions were those which brought out the fact that before the speaker made his written statement to the house, charging bribery in connection with the Mueller bill, he had been in consultation with Gov. Yates, George W. Hinman, Congressman Lorimer, Lieut. Gov. Northcott, and Cicero J. Lindly, and had been persuaded by them to do what he afterwards did.

It is now reported that Hinman himself was the man who dictated the statement which the speaker made containing the bribery charges, and that it was written on the governor's typewriter by the governor's stenographer. This is one of the things, the governor's friends declare, that is not a proper subject of inquiry by the committee, and the lawyers are needed at the committee meeting to prevent Hinman from being led into admissions similar to those made by the speaker.

Lindly Tells His Position.

Before the meeting of the committee everybody connected in any way with the Lindly bill, from Cicero J. Lindly down, began to get much excited. Cicero J. stated for himself that he never was in favor of the use of the gavel, which had caused all the trouble. Friends of Representative Shanahan made a similar declaration as to the position of the temporary speaker.

Mr. Lindly also said he had been opposed in the conference to the speaker making the charges of bribery he had, and that the thing was done without his advice and approval on the insistence of other members of the conference in the governor's office.

Altogether an attempt was made to allow Representatives Lindly and Shanahan to "get out from under" and leave with the governor, the lieutenant governor, Congressman Lorimer, and Mr. Hinman the responsibility for the charge that money had been used to advance the Mueller bill.

Earlier in the day Cicero J. Lindly was interviewed by a correspondent of a Chicago afternoon paper, and was quoted as making the following statement:

When the speakership question began to get hot along in December it was charged in the Chicago papers that Lorimer was organizing the house for the purpose of passing another Allen bill. A meeting of the organization leaders was then held, and it was agreed that absolutely no traction legislation should be tampered with at this session. Miller was made speaker with this understanding, and I took the municipal corporations committee chairmanship on the same basis.

When things got warm in Chicago I plainly saw that some action was necessary and asked to be allowed to report out a municipal ownership bill. There was no end to the pulling and hauling on this question in the ranks. The trend of events shows that it was not the intention to report out the Mueller bill, and I will say here that I intend to fight for my own bill as long as I have a breath left. I am not dependent upon politics for a living and I believe I am right. I am willing to take my chances now.

I finally secured permission to report out a bill now known as the Lindly bill. I wanted to go before the house with it and give roll calls. I thought I could win, and the speaker and I were together on nearly every emergency proposition which has arisen on the subject.

What was Miller to do when the men who gave him his position with the understanding that there was to be no traction legislation insisted that he carry out the bargain?

I believe that any brave, courageous man, under the same circumstances, whether a mistake was made or not, would do as he did.

Lindly Denies an Interview.

Last evening when the interview was read here to Lindly he denied it. He said:

"When I took the chairmanship of the committee on municipal corporations, I made the statement that I would not allow any municipal ownership legislation which did not strictly limit all franchises to twenty years. The matter was not talked about at the time of the contest over the speakership. I also have insisted that a full debate should have been allowed over the consideration of the Mueller bill in the house."

Asked if the agreement made by the members of the "organization" was not that no municipal ownership of any kind should be had at this session, Lindly replied that what he had had to do with the matter was when he accepted the chairmanship of the committee. Asked again how it happened that if he was in favor of a free debate and roll calls on the Mueller bill, he had forced the Lindly bill through to a third reading under the gavel, he said that was a matter for the speaker to answer.

Lindly's assertion that he (Lindly) had nothing to do with any agreement to control traction legislation before the election of Miller as speaker is borne out by a well authenticated story told here last night. It is declared the agreement with Miller on this point was made by Congressman William Lorimer. According to the story, Miller promised in consideration of the support of Lorimer that Lorimer should have full control of all legislation pertaining to traction matters. He was to be "boss" as to anything the house might do on such subjects. It was in accordance with this promise of Miller that the speaker was forced by Lorimer, in the governor's room, Thursday afternoon, after he practically had been deposed from the chair, to go back to the house and attempt to kill the Mueller bill by making the statement he did regarding the alleged attempts to bribe him. Lindly insists that he advised Miller not to do it.

Yates May Veto Mueller Bill.

Governor Yates yesterday practically announced that he would veto the Mueller bill if it is passed. The local paper which is recognized as his official organ contained this prominently displayed paragraph:

"There is no fear of this vicious or spiteful piece of legislation becoming a law by the combined vote of Sherman and his following and the democratic members. Gov. Yates stands between the people of Illinois and the combination."

This is taken as an inspired utterance by the governor, and "the vicious or spiteful piece of legislation" referred to is the Mueller bill. Nothing has appeared, however, to make plain the governor's position as to the Lindly bill.

The warning here is understood to mean that the governor is in full accord with Congressman Lorimer and his friends in their determination that no municipal ownership bill of any kind shall be passed at this legislature. In fact, the warning is considered so plain that the governor's letter, coincident with the speaker's charge of bribery, was referred to yesterday in a local paper as follows:

"Honest Jawn Hennery, the man the governor of the great state of Illinois honors because he has violated the constitution and thereby got into the same class with the governor himself."

In fact, there are many people here of the opinion that, in spite of the farcical result attending the examination of Speaker Miller when he failed to "make good" his charges of bribery, enough dust has been thrown in the air to defeat any kind of municipal ownership bill. If this should prove to be the case, Lorimer will have carried his point, although in doing so he sacrifices the speaker, whom he elected, and the governor, who has always obeyed his orders.

Gov. Yates, Cicero J. Lindly, Representative Shanahan, and other forces opposed to any kind of municipal ownership legislation are now seeking to shorten the session. They recognize the fact that they cannot adjourn on Wednesday, but are still sticking to the cry for a recess to give members a chance to show themselves at the dedication of the St. Louis fair. If they succeed it means but a few working legislative days next week, as the senate is now in condition to adjourn, and the governor might, if he were sufficiently primed to do it, prorogue the legislature if the two bodies could not agree on a date for an adjournment.

CHICAGO PARTY IS ON HAND.

Mayor Carter Harrison, John M. Harlan, and Others Ready for Work at Springfield.

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—A number of the Chicago people who are interested in the street railway matter came to Springfield this afternoon and evening. Others are expected tomorrow. Among those who arrived tonight were Mayor Harrison, John M. Harlan, State's Attorney Charles S. Deneen, City Attorney John F. Smulski, City Sealer James A. Quinn, Martin Becker, Ald. A. W. Beilfuss, Nicholas R. Finn, and Thomas Carey, and George E. Cole, president of the Legislative Voters' league. It was announced that Graeme Stewart and Ald. Bennett would arrive in the morning.

Following are expressions from some of them concerning the situation in regard to the traction matter:

Mayor Harrison—I think that when these awful charges of boodle, bribery, and corruption are sifted and the legislative conscience has been satisfied Chicago will get what she desires.

City Attorney Smulski—If Speaker Miller fails to make good his charges, I cannot see how the legislature can afford to kill the Mueller bill.

Gegore E. Cole, president of the Legislative Voters' league—Chicago is still demanding the passage of the Mueller bill. Despite the storm of dust which has been raised, it is still faithful to that measure. After the storm is over we hope and believe that the legislature will reward its faithfulness by passing this measure.

John M. Harlan—I think that after this scandal is cleared away the Mueller bill or a similar measure can be passed. Something ought to be done to relieve the situation in Chicago, and I feel convinced that it will be done. I think the majority of the members of the house are ready to grant Chicago the relief desired.

State's Attorney Deneen—I think the passage of street railway legislation for Chicago will depend on the report of the special investigating committee. If the speaker's charges are true and it develops that Chicago has sent a lot of bribe givers to Springfield to influence legislation, any bill on this subject will have a rough road to travel in the assembly. On the other hand, if the charges are found to be untrue, then there is no good reason why an enabling act shall not be passed. Just now it is the duty of Chicago to show that she is deserving of legislative aid. When she has done that, I have no doubt she will receive it.

HOUSE FINDS LITTLE TO DO.

Lower Branch of Illinois Legislature Holds Brief Session—Advances Bills to Second Reading.

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—Less than a quorum was present at the session of the house at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and little business was transacted.

The bill for three additional Circuit court judges in Cook county was read a first time and ordered to second reading.

The following senate bills were read a second time and advanced to third reading:

Senator Mueller's, to enable park commissioners to condemn riparian rights of owners of lands bordering upon public parks.

Senator Mueller's, to provide for the enlargement and extension of parks.

Mr. Kleeman made an effort to call up the senate bill prepared by the committee on waterways and drainage, which provides for the annexation of the Calumet territory to the Chicago sanitary district. Mr. Mitchell objected and after considerable wrangling the bill was made a special order for consideration tomorrow morning immediately after the reading of the journal.

PLUNGES INTO THE RIVER TO ESCAPE DETECTIVES.

Joseph Roseau, Alleged Bumboat Proprietor, Swims Under Clark Street Bridge, but Finally Is Arrested.

In his effort to escape from two detectives of the East Chicago avenue station who held warrants for his arrest, Joseph Roseau, said to be the proprietor of a bumboat, jumped into the Chicago river at the Clark street bridge yesterday afternoon. He swam to the piles under the bridge and for nearly ten minutes he clung to one of them.

Finally, seeing that he would be unable to escape, Roseau swam back to the dock and was arrested.

He was taken to the police station and booked on three charges, assault and battery, disorderly conduct, and resisting an officer.

FAVORS A CHANGE IN CREED.

Two-Thirds of the Presbyteries in the United States Vote to Revise the Confession of Faith.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—The Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian General assembly, announced today that two-thirds of the presbyteries had voted in favor of revising the confession of faith and of the declaratory statement elucidating chapters 3 and 10 of the confession. The subject will be finally disposed of by the General assembly, which meets in Los Angeles, Cal., next month.

RECEIVER ECKELS URGES HARMONY.

Statement Deprecates Separate Action by Underlying Traction Companies.

PLEDGES EQUITY TO ALL.

West Side Shareholders Will Meet Today to Discuss Their Interests.

United support on the part of both creditors and shareholders of the Chicago Union Traction and the West and North Division street railway companies is asked in a formal statement issued last night by James H. Eckels, one of the three receivers placed in charge of the properties. The statement was issued because of the inclination of many shareholders in the underlying north and west side lines to unite in behalf of their own properties and thus, possibly, cause friction with the receivers.

A meeting of west side stockholders, as stated in THE TRIBUNE, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the office of W. H. Gray in the Masonic temple. The meeting, Mr. Gray says, will not be a hostile one, but will canvass fully the position of the west Chicago system and probably will file with Judge Grosscup a formal statement and petition asking that its interests receive the fullest protection. Then, if the Union Traction defaults in the quarterly rentals due these stockholders on May 15, more aggressive action may be taken.

Statement of Mr. Eckels.

The sole object of the receivers, says Mr. Eckels, in his statement, is to conserve the properties, so that none shall be wasted or its value in any wise lessened. Every one's right—creditors, bondholders, noteholders, and stockholders—will be protected with absolute impartiality and fairness is the pledge given.

"There is not now and there will not be any attempt to work out an element of advantage for the one corporation over the other," says the statement, "but the aim will be to maintain unimpaired the existing rights of each as they now are, so that at the end all stockholders, whether of the North Chicago, the West Chicago, or the Union Traction company, will be satisfied with the justice of the acts performed under the sanction and with the advice of the court.

"The receivers have heard that here and there are some shareholders who, evidently from misinformation of the conditions surrounding the stocks of the three companies, are advocating separate action on the part of the North, the West, and the Union Traction shareholders. It must be self-evident to any one who will give the matter careful attention that there is a necessary dependence of relations between the three companies, with the Union Traction company occupying the position of least advantage. It being but a leaseholding company, with its capital wholly invested in the stocks of the north and west side companies, must work out its own salvation by first working out the salvation of the others.

Cause of the Receivership.

"An investigation of what has been done during the last four years shows that it has not added a single dollar of indebtedness to that already existing in so far as the underlying companies are concerned when the new company was formed. It has expended from a $2,000,000 fund which it provided $1,800,000 in improvements and equipment, thus adding to the value of the property in which it has but a leasehold interest. The dividends continuously paid to the North and West Chicago shareholders have been 12 and 6 per cent, thus leaving the debts of those companies unpaid.

"The burdens which have led to the receivership have been of outside creation. The receipts of the North Chicago system within a year and one-half from the time of the combination with the West Chicago company were curtailed for the succeeding year by the building of the Northwestern Elevated road at the rate of $1,500 each day; the amount of taxes to be paid was steadily augmented until an increase of almost $300,000 a year is reached; the increase in the wages of the employés now requires yearly $200,000 more, while loss has necessarily followed the giving of transfers between the systems, as ordered by the Supreme court of Illinois. These increases in expenditures have outrun the increase in receipts."

Stockholders Call on Mr. Gray.

More than fifty stockholders in the West Chicago company called on Mr. Gray, who holds almost $50,000 worth of that stock, and half as many others gave telephone promises to attend today's meeting.

"We shall discuss the situation fully," said Mr. Gray. "We are anxious only that our interests shall be fully protected. I want to say that I—and I believe other stockholders—have every faith in the members of the protective committee. It is not for lack of confidence in these men that this meeting is called. We wish to canvass the situation, however, and to be assured that the West Chicago will not suffer that the leasing corporation—the Union Traction—may benefit."

City Railway Meeting.

Directors of the Chicago City railway company had a meeting during the day, but only routine matters were considered. President D. G. Hamilton renewed his assertion that the company is ready to enter upon franchise renewal negotiations at any moment the city may give the word.

Man Who Accepts "Interchangeable" Slip Fights with Conductor and Then Pays Fine.

Instead of bestowing benefits, a so-called "interchangeable transfer" was the cause of the arrest of John Tapescott, and yesterday he was fined $3 by Justice Prindiville. Tapescott says he was given the transfer Sunday evening by a conductor on the Twenty-second street line, who told him it would be accepted on the State street cable line. The conductor on the cable line rejected the transfer, however, and a fight followed, resulting in the arrest of Tapescott.

RENEW HYDE PARK LIQUOR WAR.

Protective Association Men Question Goedecke and Griesbach Licenses—Quo Warranto Suit Begun.

War against the sale of liquor in Hyde Park was renewed yesterday, when quo warranto proceedings were begun in the Circuit court by State's Attorney Deneen against Fritz Griesbach, 5014 Cottage Grove avenue, and Frank Goedecke, 5008 Cottage Grove avenue. It is alleged that both have been operating under licenses that were illegally issued by Mayor Harrison on March 4 last.

The applications for licenses, it is alleged, were not signed by a majority of the frontage owners on both sides of the street. It is alleged that both Goedecke and Griesbach have signed for property representing fifty feet of frontage both on their own petitions and on each other's. In an affidavit Arthur Burrage Farwell declares that he believes several signatures were paid for by Griesbach and Goedecke.

The licenses issued to Goedecke and Griesbach last year were declared void by court and were revoked by Mayor Harrison.

MAY STOP SCOWS TODAY.

D. F. CRILLY DETERMINED TO CHECK LAKE POLLUTION.

Despite His Careful Watch Two Barges Carry Cargoes of Mud Out of River and Result May Be an Immediate Appeal to the United States Court for an Injunction—End of Dredgers' Strike Means More Activity in the Work.

D. F. Crilly put in a busy day yesterday looking for scows bearing river dredgings out into the lake. In spite of his vigilance two barges belonging to the Lydon & Drews company got away from the river mouth and unloaded off Thirty-first street. Mr. Crilly stands by his declaration that he will ask for an injunction to prevent further pollution of the lake from this source.

The strike of dredgemen on the Lydon & Drews barges has been settled and from now on it is expected that a constant string of scows will be hauling the dredging refuse into the lake. Mr. Crilly said yesterday that he might proceed against the company today. As soon as he is notified that more barges are going out he will direct his attorneys to take instant action to stop the abuse. It is probable that an injunction will be asked for in the United States District court.

Crilly Keeps a Close Watch.

Mr. Crilly received reports at various times during the day stating that there had been no attempt on the part of the Lydon & Drews company to haul dredgings to the lake, but later it transpired that two barges had gone out unnoticed. The greatest mystery prevailed about the matter and Mr. Lydon himself professed not to know whether any dumping had been done in the lake during the day.

"I would not be surprised if there had," he added, "for the strike is off and regular work will be in progress in a few days."

How the Canal Board Figures.

It appears that the drainage board is implicated in the lake dumping. The Lydon & Drews contract for widening and deepening the river is based on two bids, one of 24 cents a cubic yard for removing the excavated matter to any dumping ground such as the lake, the other of 32 cents for depositing the material in Grant Park. The drainage board is at present paying the cheaper price, and the material is, consequently, going to the lake.

The permission to dump in the lake is granted by Maj. Willard, chief of the government engineering corps, and is indorsed by the health department. The government maintains dumping grounds between Twenty-sixth and Thirty-ninth streets, extending 1,000 feet into the lake. Should the drainage board decide to have the excavated material dumped in Grant Park the Lydon & Drews company, under its contract, could do nothing but obey.

ALDERMEN URGE 'CLEAN UP' DAY

Several Expect to Adopt the Twentieth Ward Plan—Litter Streets and Are Arrested.

It is likely that the plan of a special cleaning day, launched by Ald. Patterson in the Twentieth ward, will be taken up by many other members of the council and pushed as the most practicable means of making the city presentable this spring. Ald. Scully thinks it a good idea and will present it this week to the local improvement association of his ward.

"I am already doing something in this line," said Ald. Minwegen just before leaving for Springfield yesterday. "The people have got to get out and help clean things up this year if it is to be done at all. My idea is that it would not be practicable to have a cleaning day for the entire ward, but would suggest several days and clean the ward by sections. In that way the street cleaning department can better coöperate with the citizens."

Two teamsters were arrested during the day for dropping refuse in the streets from overloaded garbage wagons. In less than fifteen minutes after his arrest at Van Buren and Clark streets, Otto Carlson was arraigned before Justice Prindiville in the Harrison street police court and fined $2. He was also required to make a solemn promise that he would respect the clean city ordinance in future. Gustave Decker was arrested at Dearborn and Randolph streets and taken to Central station.

The South Central Improvement association will perfect its organization tonight at the Lexington hotel.

Cure for Hand Bill Evil.

Chicago, April 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Apropos of the street cleaning crusade, I should like to call the attention of suburban residents to one of the most prolific sources of street littering in our own suburb of Ravenswood, and I presume the same is true of other parts of the city—viz: that caused by the distribution of handbills, which are thrown on the porches of dwellings or in the yards and carried by the wind into the streets and alleys. I am sure every citizen will be only too glad to furnish a pouch or box for the receipt of advertising matter circulated in this manner if an ordinance were passed making it compulsory for distributors to place their bills and papers in these pouches. Certainly, if deposited in this way, a larger number of them would reach the persons for whom they are intended than if they are thrown on the porches in haphazard fashion and never picked up by the residents, and there is no doubt that it would facilitate materially the street cleaning work. SAY HERMAN STIERT'S DEATH WAS A MURDER, NOT SUICIDE.

Friends Present Their Evidence to Coroner Traeger and Ask That the Ironworker's Body Be Disinterred.

The possibility that Herman Stiert, who was found dead in a hotel at 318 State street, was murdered was raised by his friends yesterday. They asked Coroner John E. Traeger to have the body disinterred for further investigation. The coroner will meet these persons again today to hear more evidence.

Stiert was an ironworker, and when found in the hotel on April 14 his mouth and lips were burned with carbolic acid, and a glass which contained some of the poison was found near him. A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner's jury and the body was taken to Peotone, Ill., for interment. At Peotone, it is declared, evidence opposing the suicide theory was discovered. A physician there made a post mortem examination of the body and, it is claimed, found that, although there was carbolic acid in the stomach and the mouth was burned, there were no traces of the poison in the œsophagus.

From these facts friends of the dead man have evolved the theory that the acid was forced into the stomach through a tube after death, and some of the poison poured into the mouth to give the case a semblance of suicide. This theory was advanced to the coroner yesterday by Peter H. Conrad, 767 Augusta street.

ARMY CRUELTIES FOUND BY MILES.

General Reports That He Discovered Many Cases of Torture by Soldiers.

SEES NO JUSTIFICATION.

Officers Are Declared Responsible for Treatment of Natives in Numerous Instances.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—That much cruelty has been practiced by the United States soldiers in the Philippines is stated in Gen. Miles' report on his recent tour of the islands, made public by the war department today.

Certain cases of torture and misconduct by the troops and several officers are cited in the report, Gen. Miles stating that these methods are unwarranted and unnecessary.

Although the greater portion of the report is given up to the stories of cruelties and a protest against permitting such conduct to continue, Gen. Miles makes recommendations on a number of other subjects. With the report are replies of officers whose departments these recommendations affect.

Gen. Miles, who had been furnished copies of the replies of the different bureau officers, sent each a note of a few lines, stating that replies to his comments on affairs in the Philippines were all of a gentlemanly character, save that of Gen. Hughes, the commanding officer in the islands. This document has not been made public.

The report of Gen. Miles was made public as the result of several requests for it, some of these requests being from Boston, and they stated that the writers understood that the report contained much matter that never had been brought out in the investigation. The secretary has held that such reports were confidential, in order that the officer making them might be free to make such comments as he desired, but as it was learned that Gen. Miles had no objection to the publication it was made public.

Whole District Devastated.

Gen. Miles' report says that in going from Colamba to Batangas in November last he noticed that the country appeared devastated and that the people were much depressed. Stopping at the Lipa he says a party of citizens, headed by the acting president, met him and stated that they desired to make complaint of harsh treatment of the people of that community, saying that they had been concentrated in towns and had suffered great indignities; that fifteen of their people had been tortured by what is known as the water torture; and that one man, a highly respected citizen, aged 65 years, named Vicente Luna, while suffering from the effects of the torture and unconscious, was dragged from his house, which had been set on fire, and was burned to death.

They stated that these atrocities were committed by a company of scouts under command of Lieut. Hennessey, and that their people had been crowded into towns, 600 being confined in one building.

A doctor of the party said he was ready to testify that some of the 600 died from suffocation.

Small Building Houses 600.

Gen. Miles says he looked at the building, which was one story in height, eighteen or twenty feet wide, and possibly sixty or seventy feet long. He asked for a written statement to be forwarded him at Manila, but says he never received it, and adds:

"I have no reason to disbelieve their statements; in fact, the instances of torture in the case of the man Luna having been tortured and burned to death are confirmed by other reports."

Concerning the failure to receive the statement, Gen. Miles says:

"Whether any influence was brought to bear to prevent their statement, either by persuasion or coercion, I am not prepared to say at the present time."

Gen. Miles then refers to other cases, saying that on the island of Cebu it was reported and published in November, 1902, "that two officers—Capt. Samuels, Forty-fourth Infantry, United States volunteers, and Lieut. Fester, Nineteenth infantry—had committed similar atrocities against the people of that island. It is also reported that at Lacag, on the island of Luzon, two natives were whipped to death.

"At Tacloban, Leyte, it was reported that Maj. Glenn ordered Lieut. Caulfield, Philippine scouts, to take eight prisoners out into the country, and that if they did not guide him to the camp of the insurgent Quison he was not to bring them back. It was stated that the men were taken out and that they either did not or could not do as directed. One of the men who had a son among the scouts was spared, but the others were separated into two parties numbering three or four, and while tied together were all murdered by being shot or bayoneted to death, some being in a kneeling position at that time. The pretense was made that they were killed while attempting to escape, but so far as I know no official report ever was made of the circumstance. These facts have been reported by Maj. Watts, who investigated the case. Besides Lieut. Caulfield, Civilian Scouts Ramos, Preston, Corn, and McKeen were participants.

Finds Victims of Water Cure.

"At Calbayog, Samar, it was reported that several men in that district had been subjected to water torture. I saw three men who had been subjected to this treatment. One was the presidente of the town, Mr. Rosales, who showed me long, deep scars on his arm, which he said were caused by the cords with which he was bound cutting into his flesh. The second man was José Borja, and the third was Padre José Diazmes, who stated he was one of three priests who had been subjected to torture by the troops under the command of Lieut. Gaujot, Tenth cavalry; that his front teeth had been knocked out, which was apparent; that he was otherwise maltreated and robbed of $300.

"It was stated that these priests were taken out to be killed, and were only saved by the prompt action of Maj. Carrington, First infantry, who sent out for them. Lieut. Gaujot was tried, pleaded guilty, and was given the trivial sentence of three months' suspension from command, forfeiting $50 per month for the same period. His pleading guilty prevented all the facts and circumstances being developed.

"It appears that Maj. Glenn, Lieut. Conger, and a party of assistants and native scouts were moved from place to place for the purpose of extorting statements by means of torture, and it became notorious that this party was called 'Glenn's brigade.'

Says Commander Must Know.

"Whether it was possible for officers to be engaged in such acts without the personal knowledge of the general upon whose staff they were serving at the time—namely: Brig. Gen. Hughes—I leave for others to conjecture.

"These facts came to my notice in a casual way, and many others of a similar character have been reported in different parts of the archipelago. In fact I was informed that it was common talk at the places where officers congregated that such transactions had been carried on, either with the connivance or approval of certain commanding officers. It is, however, most gratifying to state that such atrocities have been condemned by such commanders as Gens. Lawton, Wade, Sumner, Lee, Baldwin, and others.

"I found that with certain officers the impression prevails that such acts were justifiable, and I felt it my duty, in order to correct such an erroneous and dangerous impression and to prevent the possibility of such acts being committed in the future, which must impair the good name of American arms and bring discredit to our service for all time, to address to the division commander the following letter of instructions."

Then follows an order addressed to the commanding general of the Philippines under date of Feb. 28, 1903, in which Gen. Miles calls attention to the reports of atrocities and directs that any orders or circulars of personal instruction which would inspire or encourage any act of cruelty be annulled. The order says that "the excuse that the unusual conditions justify the measures herein condemned is without foundation."

Tells of Reconcentration Order.

Gen. Miles directs attention to the acts of reconcentration by Gen. Bell and claims that they were in direct violation of law. He says that the law also was violated in handling and buying large quantities of rice, which was sold at a profit. The people who were in the reconcentration camps were, says Gen. Miles, "considered prisoners of war, but were compelled to buy food from those who held them at a large profit."

Gen. Miles characterizes this as unprecedented. He speaks of the magnitude of the transaction, which involved 21,000,000 pounds of rice and other supplies, at a cost of $306,320. He says that "an extraordinary feature of this transaction is the action which was disapproved by a division commander who assumed command and who turned the matter over to the civil authorities and that it has been carried on under an act of the Philippine commission."

Soldiers Working as Laborers.

Of the roads to Lake Lanao he says:

"At the time of my visit there were 600 of our men at work on this road. The heat was intense, and there were at the time seventy men sick, and some 200 men on sick report. Heavy timbers were being cut, and in every respect a road of a permanent character was being constructed.

"Unless there be some great military necessity—and I know of none—this work should not be performed by troops. I was informed that the Moros had made propositions to furnish the necessary men. There appeared to be great dissatisfaction and just ground for complaint. I was informed that no men can be reënlisted at this point. The performance of such labor by troops unless absolute military necessity exists for it is wrong and contrary to law."

Miles' Chief Recommendations.

The more important observations and recommendations of Gen. Miles are as follows:

"The general condition of the troops in the archipelago was creditable to themselves and to the country. The officers and soldiers made a good appearance.

"The effect of the climate is a most serious detriment to the service. The men go there in perfect health and in the prime of manhood, but, as a body, are seriously affected in the course of two or three years' service. Few escape. The majority are debilitated.

"As the military stations, with few exceptions, are remote and the troops are required to be in communities that are neither beneficial nor congenial to them, the service is depressing, and, to some extent, has a demoralizing effect. There are scarcely any amusements or recreations for the soldiers, and life under such circumstances becomes most monotonous. During my visits to the garrisons it so happened that I did not see a single soldier under the influence of liquor.

"The following statement shows the exact condition of the troops at 122 stations in the Philippine islands, being all but nineteen remote stations, on Nov. 27, 1902: Troops on duty, 17,574; sick, 1,415.

"As the result of my observations it is my judgment that the discontinuance of the liquor feature of the canteen has been beneficial to the army. Now that the temptation has been removed from the immediate presence of the young men of the army they are less likely to indulge in the use of liquor.

"The number of troops that will be required to occupy the Philippine islands is still problematical. While it is claimed that the people are pacified, evidences of hostility toward American sovereignty are apparent. The newspapers published, in both Spanish and English, contain almost daily accounts of hostilities, depredations, or disturbances of the peace. Against these armed bands the civil government is employing the constabulary, a force of about 6,000 men.

Cavalry Needed in Islands.

"There is quite as much, if not more, need for cavalry in the Philippine islands than in the United States, and as some of the cavalry regiments never have served in the Philippines, I think it advisable that they should share their proportion of the duties in that country.

"I found a large proportion of the troops occupying church property, monasteries, colleges, and convents. This I believe to be entirely wrong, and it should be discontinued without delay. It is a serious detriment to the property, and while it may prevent destruction by fire to some extent, yet the damage done to the buildings will be extensive, and it simply will result in claims for millions of dollars being brought against the United States, which undoubtedly will have to be paid."

Of the supplies furnished the troops he says:

"While the supplies, as a rule, have been abundant and of good quality, there is, in my opinion, too much cold storage meat used for the good of the troops. Its constant use becomes distasteful, and, in the opinion of many eminent physicians, it is not the most healthful. In my opinion it would be advisable to send government steamers to Australia and have them loaded with live stock, which can be distributed in small quantities near the different garrisons, so that they could at any time have fresh beef and mutton as a part of the ration."

Gen. Miles renews a recommendation made prior to his Philippine trip that at least one strategic position be fortified beyond the possibility of capture by any foreign fleets. Of the condition generally he says:

"In my journeys through the archipelago I was frequently appealed to to aid in assisting the people to obtain a food supply, of which they will be in great need in the near future. I do not think there is today a people so sorely afflicted as the 8,000,000 of inhabitants of this archipelago."

Replies Made to Report.

In reply to Gen. Miles' statement regarding torture of natives by the troops, Judge Advocate General Davis says:

"The incidents which are set forth in the enclosed special report have been made the subject of special investigations; in some instances these have been conducted by courts martial and their findings and sentences have been duly promulgated in orders; in others the inquiries have been intrusted to inspectors or to officers designated for that purpose."

Gen. Davis explains that the inquiries are especially difficult because the incidents complained of were not made known at the time and officers and soldiers of the volunteer army have been named to be discharged.

Gen. Gillespie, chief of engineers, and Gen. Crozier, chief of ordnance, say that lack of authorization by congress is the only reason why adequate fortification of important ports has not been completed. Both agree that such works are necessary.

Gen. O'Reilly, surgeon general, says:

"The bad effect of the climate on the health of the army is a simple fact. Just as the troops serving on the Texas border always have shown a greater sick rate and a higher percentage of deaths than those in the Rocky mountain district or the northern United States, so in a greater degree will the army in the Philippines always exceed in sickness and death the army at home.

"The prevalence of alcoholism in the army as shown by the sick report (which is by no means an exact index of the habits of the men) is much greater in the United States than in the islands.

"The value of the canteen has always been considered to be as a means by which the average soldier, not a drunkard but a user of liquor, can get a few glasses of beer at home and every day in the month if he so desires, instead of being attracted to saloons, where he is tempted to spend his month's pay at once for vile liquor and gambling."

Gen. Weston says his office never has received any complaint about fresh beef, but, on the contrary, uniform commendations. Gen. Weston adds:

"Native beef is out of the question, even if it were possible to procure it, and there would be danger in using it, besides its being poor, stringy, and tough. The experiment of bringing in cattle was tried and was an absolute failure."

Chaffee Denies Stealing.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, recently chief in command of the American forces in the Philippines, when shown extracts from Lieut. Gen. Miles' report said:

"The only part of it that interests me is that about the distribution of food in Batangas, and I would like to know whether or not he means to say we stole anything. At any rate, I will say that I was responsible. A serious condition of affairs was existing at the time and we decided on the concentration policy to put down the insurrection."

OMAHA LISTENS TO ROOSEVELT.

Nebraska Town Gives President Hearty Welcome and Crowds Hear Speech.

CITIZENSHIP HIS TOPIC.

Makes Journey from Grand Island with Stops at Lincoln, Hastings, and Other Points.

Omaha, Neb., April 27.—Ten thousand people were gathered at the Coliseum tonight to hear President Roosevelt.

The day has been a trying one for the entire party, the wind blowing the entire day, and at Lincoln a smart rain storm greeted the president on his arrival.

After leaving Grand Island, the first stop was at Hastings. Fairmont and Crete received short stops, and the train arrived at Lincoln at 1 o'clock. After brief stops at Wahoo and Fremont the journey was not again interrupted until Omaha was reached at 5:15.

The president was greeted by probably 50,000 people, who lined the streets on both sides for a mile and a half along the route of the carriage drive.

Imposing Reception Committee.

The reception committee which met the president was composed of the board of governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben, together with Senators Miller and Dietrich, Gov. Mickey, Congressman Hitchcock, ex-Congressman Mercer, Mayor Moores, and Gen. Manderson.

The military escort was a large one, headed by a platoon of police. It was composed of the Thurston Rifles, Omaha Guards, Millard Rifles, South Omaha troop of cavalry, and six companies of the High School cadets. The drive through the city lasted half an hour, several of the downtown business streets being traversed.

The entire distance was lined with thousands of people, who gave the president a most hearty welcome. From his carriage he nodded his approval. The drive ended at the Omaha club, where a banquet lasting an hour and a half was given the president and his party.

Crowds at Coliseum.

After the banquet at the club the president and his party were escorted to the Coliseum, which is two miles from the business portion of the city. Although the start was not made until 8 o'clock, thousands again turned out to cheer the president and catch a glimpse of his face. When he reached the big auditorium it was crowded to its capacity.

Talks of Citizenship and Grant.

The president devoted most of his speech to the question of good citizenship, and went over fully and thoroughly the ground he has heretofore covered on this subject. He also delivered a brief eulogy on the life of Gen. U. S. Grant, today being the anniversary of his birth.

Omaha is threatened with an industrial strike on May 1, and the president was asked to say something bearing on this subject. The following was delivered in response to this request:

"If I might give a word of advice to Omaha I should like to see your daily press publish in full the concluding portion of that report of the anthracite coal strike commission, signed by all the members thereof, by those in a special sense the champion of the wageworker, because, men and women of Omaha, those people did not speak first as capitalist or as laborer, did not speak first as judge, as army man, as church man, but they spoke, all of them, unanimously signed that report, all of them, as American citizens, anxious to see right and justice prevail. [Cheers and applause.]

Qualities Most Needed.

"No one quality will get us out of any difficulty. We need more than one; we need a good many. We need, as I said, the power, first, of each man honestly trying to look at the problem from his fellows' standpoint. Capitalist and wageworker alike should honestly endeavor each to look at any matter from the other's standpoint, with a freedom on the one hand from the contemptible arrogance which looks down upon the man of less means, and on the other from the no less contemptible envy, jealousy, and rancor which hates another because he is better off. [Applause.]

"Each quality is the complement of the other, the supplement of the other, and, in point of baseness, there is not the weight of the finger to choose between them.

"Look at it in the spirit in which they wrote it, and if you can only make yourselves, make the community, approach the problems of today in the spirit that these men, your fellows, showed in approaching the great problem of yesterday, any problem, or problems, will be solved.

Avoid Opposing Classes.

"Any man who tries to excite class hatred, sectional hate, hate of creeds, any kind of hatred, in our community, though he may affect to do it in the interest of the class he is addressing, is in the long run, with absolute certainty, that class' own worst enemy. [Applause.] In the long run and as a whole we are going to go up or down together. Of course, there will be individual exceptions, small local exceptions, exceptions in kind, exceptions in place, but as a whole, if the commonwealth prospers, some measure of the prosperity comes to us all.

"If it is not prosperity, then the adversity, though it may be unequally upon us, will weigh more or less upon all. It lies upon ourselves to determine our own fate.

Laws Only Furnish the Means.

"I cannot too often say that the wisest law, the best administration of the law, can do naught more than give us a fair field in which to work out that fate aright. If as individuals or as a community we mar our future by our own folly, let us remember that it is upon ourselves that the responsibility must rest.

"My fellow citizens, men and women of Omaha, let me close in expressing the abounding confidence I have that you of this city, that you of this state, will in the end work out your fate aright, because I hold you to be in a peculiar sense typical of all that is best in the American character. I believe in you with all my heart.

"The able, fearless, unscrupulous man who is not guided by the moral law is a curse to be hunted down like the civic wild beast, and his ability and his courage, whether in business, in politics, or anywhere else, only serve to make him more dangerous and a greater curse. We must have courage, we must have honesty, but with them both, and guiding them both, we must have the saving grace of common sense."

Business at Lincoln Stops.

The arrival of President Roosevelt's special train in Lincoln was announced by a chorus of factory whistles. At this signal all stores in town were closed and remained locked up until after the departure of the president and his party.

The military escort formed a pageant that has not been equaled in Lincoln since the recruiting of troops for the Spanish-American war. The capitol building from the dome down was a mass of red, white, and blue bunting, while many business houses also were decorated.

The president spoke from a stand erected on the capitol grounds. He said:

"Coming through the state of Nebraska today, I was rejoiced in your great prosperity; I rejoice in your fertile soil; I rejoice in the crops you raise, and, after all, the best product of the men and women. I was mighty glad to see your children, they seemed to be all right in quality and quantity. [Laughter.] I think you have a mighty good stock; I want to see it go on."

The president then spoke briefly on good government.

The president's train will leave Omaha at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for a trip through Iowa.

LATEST AMERICAN TO BECOME PEERESS.

COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

The marriage of Miss Alice Thaw and the earl of Yarmouth took place in Pittsburg, the home of the bride, yesterday afternoon.

MISS THAW AND EARL WED

MARRIAGE AT PITTSBURG IS A MOST BRILLIANT AFFAIR.

Church Magnificently Decorated and Lavish Display of Wealth Adds to Gorgeousness of the Ceremony—Guests Are Kept Waiting for Three-Quarters of an Hour for Some Unexplained Reason—Oldest Brother and Head of Bride's Family Absent.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 27.—[Special.]—Amid a lavish display of wealth and with the solemnity of the ritual of the Protestant Episcopal church, the marriage of George Francis Alexander Seymour, the earl of Yarmouth, of England and Alice Cornelia Thaw of Pittsburg, daughter of the late William Thaw, was solemnized this afternoon in the Calvary church.

The day was bright and just cool enough to be pleasant. The church was magnificently decorated for the occasion with palms, white hydrangeas, white lilies, and other potted plants. The bride wore a magnificent gown of ivory satin, trimmed with duchess lace, made high necked and with a court train. She carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, and wore the string of pearls that was her brother's wedding gift.

Brother Gives Bride Away.

Josiah C. Thaw gave the bride away. Dr. McEwen, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church, of which Miss Thaw is a member, performed the first part of the service and Dr. McIlvaine, rector of Calvary church, finished and pronounced the benediction.

Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie was her sister's matron of honor, while Miss Nancy Carnegie, Miss Martha Ferguson, Lady Jane Seymour, Miss Isobel May, Miss Elinor Wilson, and Miss Mary Thaw Thompson acted as bridemaids. They wore white chiffon gowns, white leghorn hats trimmed in white flowers, and carried bunches of white and purple lilacs. Lord Edward Seymour was his brother's best man and his ushers were J. Dennis-ton Lyon, Dallas Byers, H. C. Norman, second secretary of the English embassy; Count Della Gharardeska, H. Persch of Philadelphia, and R. Haven Tebb of London.

Mysterious Delay Unexplained.

Preceding the ceremony an elaborate organ recital was given, while the 300 invited guests were being seated. When the scheduled time for the ceremonial—4 o'clock—arrived the wedding march was begun, but the bridal party did not appear. For some reason the party was delayed and did not arrive at the church until 4:45. In the meantime, the wedding march had been repeated several times and the audience plainly showed its anxiety. Many rumors were put in circulation, but nothing tangible could be learned to account for the delay.

When the waiting became irksome, the doors were thrown open to the public and the edifice was quickly filled almost to suffocation. Finally the bridal party arrived and at 4:45 the ceremony was begun. Harry Kendall Thaw, the bride's brother, who was to have given her away, failed to put in an appearance, and another brother, Josiah, performed that portion of the ceremony, while Dallas Byers took the place of Josiah Thaw as one of the ushers. Aside from these unlooked for changes, the wedding program was carried out to the letter.

After the church ceremony there was a reception at Lyndhurst, the Thaw residence, for 150 people. The house was splendidly decorated and the collection of gifts was magnificent.

The bride gave to her attendants diamond and amethyst bracelets.

The newly wedded couple left this evening for a brief honeymoon trip before sailing for England. Earl Yarmouth's father, the marquis of Hertford, and his family, who came from England for the wedding, are to return to London at once.

Head of Family Not Present.

Noticeable among those absent from the wedding were Benjamin Thaw, his wife, and family. Benjamin Thaw, the oldest son and head of the family, both socially and financially since his father's death, evidently could not countenance the wedding by his presence. It has been understood from the beginning that Mr. Thaw has opposed the alliance on the ground that the earl was not a fit suitor for his sister's hand.

Mr. Thaw, when interviewed about the marriage, has made only one reply: "I have nothing to say." His friends all comment that his silence speaks most forcefully. A man of his standing and caliber must have reasons for taking this unusual position after having given the matter the most careful consideration.

Attachment Served on Earl.

The earl of Yarmouth during the morning at his apartments in the Hotel Schenley was served with a writ of attachment issued by the Court of the King's Bench, London, Eng., last March. The writ was obtained by the Revisionary and Security Guaranty company of London for a debt of $1,685, principal and interest, on money borrowed in 1902.

FOUR CARRIED OUT AT 165 WASHINGTON STREET.

Building Filled with Smoke from Burning Gramophone Cylinders—Mrs. Anna Jones Is Lifted from a Sick Bed and with Three Others Borne to the Street — Workman Burned While Trying to Save Companions at South End Blaze.

Four women and girls were carried out through the smoke filled hallways of a building at 165 Washington street yesterday afternoon, one of them having been lifted from a sick bed.

The Rescued.

Covinski, Miss Josie, 19 years old, 400 Noble street; fainted in the office of the Fernandez Cigar company on the third floor. Carried to the street by Fireman Clearey.

Cuneo, Mrs. Mary, 65 years old; fainted in her apartments on the fourth floor and was assisted to the street.

Jones, Mrs. Anna, 60 years old; taken from the bed on which she lay ill on the fourth floor and carried to the main floor by Fireman Clearey of truck 40.

Paxton, Mabel, 12 years old; carried from the second floor by Mail Carrier Poole.

The fire originated in the rear of the United States Graphophone company's quarters, on the first floor. Hundreds of wax graphophone records were consumed and although the damage was not more than $500, the four story building, occupied by 100 persons, was filled with dense smoke.

On each floor there are several rooms occupied as living apartments, and in a short time men, women, and children mingled in the rush down the wooden stairways. Mail Carrier Poole discovered the smoke in the building and used his metal call whistle as a fire alarm. For several minutes the piercing notes of the whistle resounded through the building and proved effective in arousing the occupants.

Jacob Geisardich and George Gordon are the proprietors of the Graphophone company. Mr. Gordon sustained slight cuts on his hand from glass. They said the fire started in a rear room, but could suggest no explanation of its origin.

In the police report it was stated that the fire was of accidental origin.

Heroism Nearly Results in Death.

An explosion following an outbreak of flames in the Morden frog and crossing works, Ninety-fourth street and Commercial avenue, early this morning demolished the rear of the building and destroyed much machinery. Frank Wanager, one of the workmen, in attempting to shut off a supply of gas and prevent injury to his fellow workmen, suffered burns from which he may die.

The loss on the building and machinery is said to be $25,000.

The factory is by the Baltimore and Ohio tracks and is a one story brick structure. In the rear are tanks of gas and gasoline. In this part of the plant the fire started. The flames were shut off from the front by a thick wall, but the explosion wrecked this.

When the fire started forty men were in the building, and Wanager, hoping to check the spread of the flames and to lessen the danger, ran to the rear and attempted to shut off the gas. As he entered the room a tank of gasoline exploded and he was hurled into the main building, burned and unconscious.

Series of Saloon Fires.

Three saloon fires, and all of incendiary origin, lead the police of South Chicago to believe that some enemy of the liquor traffic has given up trying to convert the world to his way of thinking and is applying the torch.

The first fire was at 319 Ninety-third street, the second at 9207 Anthony avenue, and the third at 9116 Commercial avenue. Last night another fire of incendiary origin was discovered at 9328 Ontario, at the residence of James Matthews.

FOREST FIRE IN WISCONSIN DESTROYS TOWN OF KIMBALL.

Citizens Escape Only with the Clothes They Wear—Bayfield in Danger—Millions of Feet of Lumber Gone.

Ashland, Wis., April 27.—[Special.]—Kimball, a small town near Hurley, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. Most of the citizens escaped only with the clothes they wore, and many of them are homeless and destitute.

Forest fires are raging in the vicinity of Ashland, and, fanned by a forty mile gale, threaten to destroy several towns, and will burn millions of feet of timber.

Citizens of Bayfield are fighting the fire, which is within a short distance of the town. The telephone wires between Ashland and Duluth are down, caused by the fire, and many homesteaders are believed to have been burned out

TYNER TO FACE A GRAND JURY.

Government to Prosecute Former Official Because Wife Rifled a Safe.

PAYNE WRITES TO KNOX.

Postmaster General Declares Law Clearly Has Been Violated and Wants Action.

POSTAL FRAUDS—James N. Tyner, former assistant attorney general, to be prosecuted for action of his wife in rifling a government safe. Charles H. Robb appointed his successor.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—[Special.]—James N. Tyner, former assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, will be prosecuted for the action of his wife in rifling the government safe and abstracting public letters and documents. All doubt on this point was dissipated today when Postmaster General Payne transmitted to Attorney General Knox a letter strongly recommending that the matter be referred to the United States district attorney here with instructions to submit the case to the grand jury.

This course was decided upon at a conference between the attorney general and the postmaster general. Accompanying Mr. Payne's letter was a sworn statement made by acting Assistant Attorney General Christiancy, giving a detailed account of the action of Mrs. Tyner and those who were with her when the safe was rifled. The papers returned by Mr. Tyner's attorneys were also transmitted to the attorney general with the statement on behalf of Mr. Tyner that the documents were all that were abstracted from the safe. Mr. Payne in his letter said:

"I am unable to conclude that no other papers were taken than those submitted and returned, inasmuch as it clearly appears that certain papers of the government were taken, and since, in my opinion, all the facts presented tend to show a willful violation of the law, I recommend that the matter be referred to the United States district attorney for this district, with instructions to submit the case to the grand jury, as we decided in our recent interview."

***

There was some surprise over the action of the postmaster general, as it had been believed that he would content himself by dismissing Mr. Tyner and not insist on prosecution, owing to Mr. Tyner's age and the fact that his health is bad.

Charles H. Robb of Vermont was today appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the dismissal of Mr. Tyner. Mr. Robb has assumed the position with the distinct understanding that he will return to his old position as assistant attorney general in the department of justice when the investigation of Tyner's office is completed.

George A. C. Christiancy, acting assistant attorney general for the postoffice department, who failed to report the safe rifling incident promptly, has been given an indefinite leave of absence. His conduct of the office, as well as the safe incident, will be investigated during his absence. There is considerable doubt as to whether Christiancy will resume his duties.

Miss Roosevelt was the guest of honor at a dinner given tonight by Postmaster General and Mrs. Payne, and intended as a compliment to their niece, Miss Jones, who goes to her home in Milwaukee on May 1. With Miss Roosevelt and Miss Jones were Mr. and Mrs. Payne Whitney, Counselor of the French Embassy and Mme. de Margerie, Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, Countess Cassini, Miss Margaret Hitchcock, Miss Josephine Boardman, Mr. Van Roijen of the Netherlands legation, Mr. Van Ness Philip, Mr. Dering of the British embassy, Maj. McCauley, and Mr. Woodbury Blair.

Mrs. L. Z. Leiter, who went to India as the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Lord and Lady Curzon, to attend the durbar, will arrive in New York on the Oceanic Wednesday and will come at once to Washington. Mrs. Leiter was accompanied on her eastern trip by Miss Daisy Leiter, youngest daughter of the family, who will arrive here in time to take part in the out door horse show, which takes place at Chevy Chase May 1.

At the horse show last year Miss Leiter carried off the three highest prizes awarded to women participants. She is said to be one of the best horsewomen in Washington, and has had experience in racing elephants and camels in India. Mr. and Mrs. Leiter will go to Bar Harbor for the summer quite early in the season.

***

Sir Michael and Lady Herbert left here this morning for New York, taking with them their two young sons, who sail in a few days for England to enter school. Ambassador and Lady Herbert will join them abroad in June. Mr. Raikes, first secretary, becoming charge d'affaires at the embassy home at Newport for the summer.

***

Archbald Roosevelt has recovered from his recent attack of measles, and took his first drive today, accompanied by his mother. He is entirely well, and has only to gain strength to put him in his accustomed good condition. Quentin, younger member of the family, is doing well, but has fully two weeks more of the disease to contend with. Mrs. Roosevelt has enjoyed the companionship of her children, even though they were ill, and looks much better than before going into the nursery as their attendant.

Miss Roosevelt will return to the White house tomorrow and occupy her old suite of rooms in the north front of the house. All entertainments for the season except those of a most informal nature are practically at a close, and Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Roosevelt will spend their time quietly until they take their departure for New England and Oyster Bay.

NEGRO VOTER DENIED RELIEF.

United States Supreme Court Refuses to Decide Case Affecting New Registration Law in Alabama.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—The United States Supreme court today decided the case of Jackson W. Giles vs. the board of registrars of Montgomery county, Ala. Giles is a colored man, who was denied the privilege of registering as a voter under the new constitution of Alabama, and the case was brought to test the validity of the portion of the state constitution bearing upon this question. The relief sought was denied on the ground that the case was political.

Justice Holmes' written opinion was not made public, but he made an extended statement from the bench, reciting at some length Giles' petition, in which Giles claimed to speak not alone for himself but for 5,000 other negro adults of Montgomery county, who, he claimed, would be disfranchised as a result of enforcement of the suffrage provisions of the state constitution of 1901.

The case had been dismissed below for want of jurisdiction, but Justice Holmes said a minority of the court were of the opinion that the Supreme court should not confine itself to the question of jurisdiction but should consider the case on its merits. He then announced that it would be impossible to grant the relief asked. He pointed out that while Giles is contending that the franchise system of Alabama is a fraud, he declares his competency as a voter under it, and closed by saying that it was beyond the power of a court of equity to grant the petition.

Justice Harlan in dissenting said that in his opinon the case should have been dismissed for want of jurisdiction alone, and he criticised the court's opinion, saying that it left the question of jurisdiction in the air, and that he was not willing to be a party to such a proceeding.

Justice Brewer delivered the other dissenting opinion in which Justice Brown concurred. They expressed the opinion that the Circuit court should have been reversed and that it should be directed to assume jurisdiction of the case.

HOSTILITY TO THE MUELLER BILL.

Chicagoans have announced themselves in favor of the municipal ownership of street railroads, and have demanded enabling legislation. Corporations administering other "public utilities"—the gas business, for instance—are opposed to that legislation, not because they are interested in traction companies, but because they do not wish to see the camel of municipal ownership sticking his head into the tent in which they dwell. They are apprehensive, and perhaps with reason, that the grant of authority to operate street railroads will be followed by a demand for additional grants.

The "organization" was appealed to to defeat dreaded legislation, and it agreed to do so. The matter called for delicate handling. It was not considered expedient to deny bluntly and brutally the request of the city of Chicago for an enabling act. There was need of finesse. The senate was allowed to pass the Mueller bill. Only one vote was cast against it. Then a pretext was sought to justify the house in passing a different bill. The pretext agreed on was that the Mueller bill was a dishonest measure—that it was in the interest of the traction companies and that money was to be used to put it through. The scheme was to sidetrack the Mueller bill and force the Lindly bill to a vote. If it did not pass, the people were to be told that friends of municipal ownership who refused to vote for it were alone responsible for the failure of legislation. In the event of its passage the program was for the senate to stand firmly by its bill while the house would have declined to recede. This is a method of preventing legislation which, if dexterously managed, is likely to blind the people. They think they see the desire of both houses to legislate on a particular subject thwarted by an unhappy disagreement as to details. Not being able to see beneath the surface, they are ignorant of the insincerity of the disagreement.

The speaker and the "steering committee" made a mess of their part of the program. They undertook to put it through in too high handed a way. The situation now is that the house has the Mueller bill. It is not a corrupt measure. There is no money behind it. The speaker's stories about offers made to him are tales for the marines. Nobody believes them. If the house shall pass the Mueller bill without one amendment there will be municipal ownership legislation unless the governor vetoes the bill. If the house shall pass the Lindly bill, or the Mueller bill with amendments, the senate will get hold of the subject again and there will be an opportunity to put through the original program of a disagreement between the two houses.

What inducements have been held out to the authors of the program it is easy to imagine though impossible to prove. They were such as will not be revealed by the authors.

THE PRISON LABOR QUESTION.

The Bloomington Pantagraph deprecates the passage of the bill for the regulation of prison labor now before the senate. It says a million dollars will not pay for the experiment it is proposed to make. Attention is invited to the costly failure of the attempt to work the Joliet convicts on state account between 1867 and 1871 and to the loss of money due to the attempt of the Altgeld administration to run the penitentiaries under that system. The Pantagraph predicts that if the bill is passed the income of the penal institutions will be destroyed, their operating expenses will be increased, and the "just indignation" of every taxpayer may be called down upon the republican party.

The Pantagraph is undoubtedly correct in its assertion that under the proposed plan of restricting the labor of the prison inmates to hand labor and to the manufacture of articles needed by state and county institutions the taxpayers will have to pay a great deal more than they do now for the maintenance of the prisons. The amount will depend considerably upon the business ability of the men selected to manage affairs under the new system. If they are mere politicians the expense will indeed be enormous, and the country taxpayers who look closely at state taxes will complain. The utter failure of the 1867 experiment was due in part to a total lack of business capacity.

The present method of handling prison labor is unconstitutional. That was known before the attorney general gave an opinion to that effect. There must be a change in spite of the fact that it means increased expense. Fortunately, the taxpayers are better able to stand the expense than they would have been a third of a century ago. The state cannot honestly plead poverty as an excuse for exploiting the labor of convicts to the utmost so as to make the prisons self-supporting. The modern, humane policy is to provide work for the prisoner of such a nature that when he is released he may be self-supporting. As the prison becomes less of a penitentiary and more of a reformatory, the cost of management increases necessarily. All that taxpayers have a right to demand is that the business affairs of the prisons shall be managed by men who combine humanity and business ability and can enforce discipline. The administration which fails to appoint such men will be severely and justly condemned.

The bill the Pantagraph criticises may have defects. Perhaps no bill which may be passed providing for the necessary change of system will be free from them. Experience will reveal them and subsequent legislatures remove them. The taxpayers must resign themselves to increased expenditures for prison management, and they should not hold a political party or labor unions responsible. The responsibility will rest on the spirit of humanity and intelligence which demands a change in prison methods.

CIVIC PRIDE AND BEAUTY.

Last week Mr. Franklin MacVeagh depicted to the members of the Commercial club the shortcomings of Chicago. He told of stagnation, or retrogression, where there should have been progress. He deplored the lack of effort to make the city interesting and attractive. The bad condition of the streets and of the transportation system was not overlooked by him. He assigned as one of the causes which clog the progress of Chicago the character of its legislative leaders. The club members were so moved by Mr. MacVeagh's exposure of the city's deficiencies that they resolved to appoint a committee to coöperate in mapping out a comprehensive plan for the beautification and rehabilitation of Chicago.

Consideration for the feelings of those whom he addressed caused Mr. MacVeagh to pass over the fact that there are members of the club who have done something to bring about the bad conditions he complains of and that there are others who have made no effort to remedy the conditions. The members, with two or three notable exceptions, have often acted as if destitute of civic pride, of consideration for their fellow citizens, and of respect for the laws.

Mr. MacVeagh speaks contemptuously of the character of "legislative leaders." It is bad. What have the eminent merchants and bankers who belong to the Commercial club done to make it better? They are not the men who reformed the council, driving from it the fellows who sold valuable privileges to respectable purchasers. If the Chicago delegation in the general assembly is improved, as the council has been, the work will not be done by a committee of the Commercial club. Men who wish to secure laws discriminating in their favor, or to defeat legislation which may touch their profits, see advantages in a legislative "boss" with whom they can make bargains which morality condemns but the commercial spirit condones.

Transportation facilities are insufficient and bad. What has the Commercial club done to improve them? There is a controversy between the traction companies and the people. Is the Commercial club for the companies or the people? If it were actuated by civic pride it would be for the people, but it is silent. It would be more to the purpose to appoint a committee to coöperate with the mayor and council against the traction companies than to appoint a committee to study the esthetic development of the city.

The streets are in bad condition. Some of them are in extremely bad condition. Mr. E. S. Adams said in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE: "The worst piece of driving I ever saw is Michigan avenue between Rush street bridge and Randolph street. That is where the teams of the wholesale houses block half the width of the thoroughfare." The head of one of the wholesale houses that, in defiance of law, blockade street and sidewalk is a member of the Commercial club, and has been its president. Another former president of the club was, if we mistake not, the author of "Jim Nye's shed," and his fellow citizens were never sufficiently grateful to him for this contribution to municipal beauty. The police have been ordered to arrest the petty law breaker who throws an apple core or a piece of paper into the street. What shall be done with the men who, on a greater scale, set the example of contempt for law and indifference to the right of their fellow citizens? Nothing, apparently.

If the members of the Commercial club wish to see a luxuriant growth of civic pride they should raise some in their own backyards. If they desire reform they should begin by reforming themselves—by plucking the beams out of their own eyes instead of appointing a committee to report how motes may best be removed from the eyes of their little neighbors. If the low tone of political life offend them they should take the decent citizen's interest in politics and work to mend matters. If the city as a whole seems ugly to them they may at least beautify their own premises. It may occur to them that skids and oil barrels do not beautify a sidewalk.

The gentlemen of the counting room who scorn municipal or political activity, and who take up abuses with a committee as a woman takes up a dead mouse with a pair of tongs, are not fit for the rough, hard work of reform. They may be competent to find out why only one new theater has been built in Chicago in ten years, but when great municipal problems are to be solved one does not go to them for advice or aid.

The Commercial club has among its members some who defy city ordinances, some who have profited unfairly through legislation promoted by their agents, and others who are heartlessly indifferent to the comfort and welfare of their fellow citizens.

THE UNION LOOP DECISION.

The decision of the Supreme court that the Union Loop company is liable for the damage it may do abutting property may prove a serious matter for the corporation and the other elevated roads. Ever since the suit in behalf of the owners of the Monadnock building was begun in the Circuit court property holders along the right of way of the several elevated companies have watched the proceedings closely. Now they are ready to swoop down on the roads. The lower court sustained the loop's demurrer to the claims of the property owners on the ground that the structure was authorized by the city of Chicago through the mayor and council.

Substantially the Supreme court reverses the decision of the lower court on the ground that, although the city may dispose of its streets, it cannot alienate any of the rights of owners of property. It is as if a railroad built by authority of the state were to omit the formality of condemning and paying for the property through which it passed. The damages to property will vary just as the value of condemned land varies, and in each case the owner, if he does not agree to a compromise, will have to submit his evidence to a jury and let it decide as to the extent of the damage, if any there be. If the property owner can prove to the satisfaction of a jury that the rental value of his building has been diminished or its selling value decreased by reason of the operation of an elevated road—the noise, the vibration, or the exclusion of light—he will recover damages. That is the law in New York City, and the Supreme court has settled that it is the law here. So it should be. It will not be denied that the elevated roads are a great public convenience, but even when extreme pains are taken it is impossible to operate them without injury in some instances to abutting property. Where such injury is inflicted the road should pay for it. That is a liability the corporation assumed when it began business.

INCOMPETENT OFFICERS AND MEN.

A few weeks ago a mob of rowdies and hoodlums broke into a business house in this city and, after stealing and destroying what they pleased, set fire to the establishment, and were even bold enough for a time to defy the authority of the police and to resist the efforts of the firemen to save the property from total destruction. Now another gang of rowdies and hoodlums, without any provocation, have broken into a Congregational mission church and destroyed everything of value it contained, even going to the extent of tearing up its records.

Apparently the Congregational church of Chicago, which supports this mission, will have to make good the loss. The total may not be large, for the mission was not a rich concern, and its possessions were of the plain and practical kind. This, however, is of small account. The principle involved is the important thing. If one mercantile establishment and one church can be looted without redress, what is to hinder rowdies and hoodlums from seizing and destroying any other property? Is it not about time to bring these pests up with "a round turn"? These neighborhood gangs of hoodlums are well enough known by the police. Why are they not suppressed?

The attention of the chief of police is invited to the fact that the officers and men on duty in the precinct in which the Congregational mission is situated should not be retained where there are roughs they evidently cannot keep in order and do not try to keep in order. They should all be transferred tomorrow to outlying, peaceful rural precincts where the chicken thief is the most dangerous criminal. New officers and men should be sent into the precinct where the incapables are on duty now with orders to put down the hoodlums with an iron hand. The chief of police cannot afford to overlook the palpable and gross incompetency of north side subordinates. It may not be possible under the rules to dismiss them, but they should at least be sent out on the prairie to meditate.

WAS Speaker Miller's indifference as to the identity of the persons who "approached" him with offers of a bribe due to the circumstance that he regarded it merely as an ordinary business transaction?

MISSOURI jurors are not allowed to eat peanuts while in the jury box. This seems to be carrying the thing too far. No alum has ever been found in peanuts.

SENATOR MORGAN says "the principles of the democratic party have received the indorsement of the people of this country." Like the death of the lamented Uncle Ned, however, this happened long ago, along ago.

HOW CAN you blame Lieut. Gov. Lee for resigning? He "hasn't made a cent this session."

ONE of the few, the immortal, names that were not born to die: Jozwiakowski.

BUT, really, is not alum unwholesome as an article of diet?

IN short, Gen. Miles finds there has been some war in the Phu Philippines.

IT may be said without any violation of confidence that there is no probability Andrew Carnegie will complete the Chicago orchestra fund.

MR. ROOSEVELT may be interested in knowing that the Sixteenth ward in this city is running to some extent on "skis."

AFTER holding the forms open to the latest possible moment, we are compelled to go to press without the announcement that Senator Stone has resigned.

A SPEAKER, when tempted to receive a bribe, should punch in the presence of the traction tribe.

IN A MINOR KEY.

All That's Necessary.

"You take orders from both the colonel and Mrs. Allgore, do you, Gabriel? Don't you know a man can't serve two masters?"

"Yes, ye kin, boss. You jist do what de missus tells ye, an' you'll git along all right."

Think of It!

"You never register and never vote?" exclaimed the man with the heavy watch chain. "Why is that?"

"Voting's all done for political effect," replied the man with the watery eyes.

The Ninety-seven.

There were ninety and seven that would not stay
In the "organization" fold,
And one fine morning they broke away—
Away from the bosses' hold.

Soothed Him.

The man with the subscription book and the plaintive voice asked Rivers for a donation, but got nothing, and went away.

"I suppose," said Brooks, with something like resentment, "he thought I looked as if I were too poor to be able to give him anything."

"As nearly as I could judge from the expression of his face," responded Rivers, "he took you for one of these rich but stingy fellows that never give a cent to anybody."

"Then it's all right."

And he heaved a sigh of relief.

Interiorly.

"You told me Hibbs was an accomplished musician. He says he doesn't play any instrument whatever."

"He's a musician, just the same. He understands music, and can tell good music from bad. Can't a man be a good theologian without being a preacher?"

Would Never Do.

"What name?" asked the Boston butler.

"Chief Kicking Horse," said the Indian caller.

"Dear me! That will not do at all. I shall take in your name as Chief Recalcitrant Equine Quadruped."

Which Is Different.

"Yes, I preach vegetarianism, but you can't deny that I practice what I preach."

"You don't practice it because you preach it. You preach it because you practice it."

Queen Sophie and the Bible.

The queen of Sweden and Norway writes as follows to the British and Foreign Bible society apropos of the society's centenary:

"I have been asked for a few words to testify of my faith in and appreciation of the holy bible. I cannot do better than quote the words of the bible itself:

"'The holy scriptures which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

"'All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.

"'That the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works.—II. Timothy, iii., 15, 16, 17.'"

Pressed for Time.

[From the New York Times.]

Everybody knows how hard David Belasco works, and how incessantly he keeps at it. The other day a friend was talking to him about it.

"You work too hard," said the good Samaritan. "Why do you do it? By Jove, you'll die the first thing you know."

"Yes, yes," sighed the toiler. "I know I may die. But what's the use of dying? I wouldn't have time to go to the funeral."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

KING EDWARD'S appointment of the painter, Edwin Austin Abbey, as member of the royal commission to the St. Louis international exhibition is likely to attract particular attention, inasmuch as it definitely establishes the English nationality of this Philadelphia born artist, who for a number of years has made his home in the united kingdom, and who, like his fellow countryman, John S. Sargent, a Bostonian, has been elected a member of the Royal academy.

This is the first occasion, I believe, of a former American citizen, and especially one so identified with American art, being appointed by the British monarch as a royal commissioner, an office which, though of a temporary character, gives him official rank and precedence, as well as the right to wear a gorgeous gold embroidered uniform. Edwin Abbey is persona grata at the English court, and it may be remembered was specially selected by King Edward to place on pictorial record the coronation ceremony.

Another royal commissioner of non-English origin, and who is likewise an artist, is Sir Laurence Alma Tadema, the royal academician, who is a particular friend of King Edward's sister, Princess Louise, duchess of Argyll.

His daughter, an artist like himself, and who figures in many of his masterpieces, has been the companion and lady in waiting of the princess in many of her continental journeys. Sir Laurence is a Dutchman by birth, was born at Dronryp, in the Netherlands, and was educated wholly in Holland and in Belgium. His wife is likewise a foreigner by birth, and was an exceedingly handsome woman in her younger days.

Lord Peel, the chairman of the royal commission and its executive chief, received his peerage for his long and meritorious service as speaker of the house of commons, and is the youngest son of the famous Sir Robert Peel, the premier of the early portion of the Victorian reign, besides which he is a godson of the great duke of Wellington, who took a special interest in him and was wont to remark to his father, "that boy has got more brains than you suppose."

Though by no means an old man, Lord Peel does not seem to belong to the present generation. There is a certain quaintness about his calm and distinguished presence; his bow savors of old time courtesy, his conversation is clear, deliberate, each word admirably chosen, his manner full of thoughtful kindness without demonstration—a courtly, high souled gentleman of the olden school will best describe his character. It is said that no man living possesses a more profound acquaintance of the knowledge of the rules of the house of commons, and it was this, as well as his high personal character, which led to his election as speaker, and throughout the stormy period of the home rule agitation he maintained by his sagacity and fine judicial temper the dignity of the house in a manner which won the admiration of all parties.

The most memorable scene which transpired during his term of office was the free fight over the Irish question. He was absent from the chair when the broil began. Vainly his representative tried to assert authority. Order was lost in chaos, fisticuffs were indulged in freely on the floor of the house, and the oldest parliament in the world was turned into pandemonium. The instant the dignified form of the speaker appeared blows were arrested in midcourse, violent words died on the lips of the combatants, a great hush followed the tumult, and by the time he had gained the chair a pin might have been heard to drop. The effect of Lord Peel's presence had been electrical. Thn came in due course the rebuke, and it was as severe as the occasion demanded, but delivered with a composure that allayed angry feeeling. This was the greatest crisis which the house of commons in all its history of many centuries has ever known, and what might have developed into a scene even of bloodshed was quelled by the dominating personality of the speaker.

One thing which will commend Lord Peel to the people of his country is his wonderful sense of humor and his gift for story telling. Indeed, there are few more admirable raconteurs to be found in English society. He is also exceedingly fond of animals, and his little black Pomeranian spitz Topsy has been his constant companion for years and has occasionally figured in Punch's cartoons. Let me add that Lord Peel, who, like all other former speakers of the house of commons, enjoys a pension for life of $20,000 a year, is not a total abstainer, and keeps an excellent cellar. If I mention this it is because of the active part which he has taken in the cause of temperance, especially as chairman of the parliamentary committee for inquiring into the liquor traffic, which latter he is convinced must be curtailed within its proper limits.

Lord Castletown, who is another of the royal commissioners, served in the army in the Egyptian war with some distinction and has spent a considerable time in this country, especially shooting in the Rocky mountains, where Lady Castletown, who accompanied him, used to act as cook of the party, and is on record as having on one occasion used by mistake a box of tooth powder in lieu of baking powder in making the bread.

An Irish peer and landlord, he is descended in a direct line from Barnaby Fitzpatrick, who was the whipping boy of King Edward VI. In the days when Henry VIII. was having his son educated it was not considered seemly for a royal prince to be flogged. But a prince of the blood was quite as likely to need a good whipping as any other boy. So a whipping boy was provided in the person of Barnaby Fitzpatrick, son of an Irish chieftain, calling himself lord of Upper Ossory, and it was Barnaby who took the castigation which the prince incurred by his misdeeds. In this way he completely gained the good will and the affection of that royal youth, who, when he came to the throne, bestowed upon Barnaby honors and those estates which are now in the possession of his descendant, Lord Castletown.

Lady Castletown is the only child of the late Lord Doneraile, who died of hydrophobia resulting from the bite of a tame fox, and is a member of that family which is celebrated as having furnished the only woman ever created a freemason. This woman was Mrs. Richard Aldsworth, daughter of the first Lord Doneraile, and, according to the popular story, while still Miss St. Leger—that is, before her marriage—she hid in a tall clock in the room where a lodge meeting was being held by her father at Doneraile court. There she remained while the initiation of a new member was in progress, and thus acquired several of the secrets of the fraternity. When discovered the lodge presided over by her father insisted upon her joining it at once as the only way out of the difficulty, and it is satisfactory to know that to the end of a long life she faithfully kept the secrets with which she had thus become acquainted. Lord Castletown himself, by the bye, is one of the most prominent and active freemasons in Ireland.

Lord Plunkett, another Irish peer, and private secretary to the viceroy of Ireland, who has been appointed a royal commissioner to the St. Louis exhibition, enjoys an altogether unmerited reputation for mendacity. A son of that archbishop, Lord Plunkett, who was primate of Ireland for so many years, it is on record that the prelate was found one day plunged in deep distress.

"My son Willie has told a lie. What shall I do with him?"

Then an inspiration dawned on him. "Willie shall be a diplomatist."

The boy eventually did enter the diplomatic service and married the late Lord Dufferin's youngest daughter. He is a nephew of Lord Ardilaun, the multi-millionaire Dublin brewer.

IN "THE COCKPIT OF EUROPE."

SCUTARI, Albania, April 27.—[Special.]—My attack on the Castle of Damgloomi was made Thursday night, and was completely successful. As the defenders of the fortress positively refused to lower the drawbridge, I ordered my trusty followers to fell a tall tree that grew on the edge of the moat directly opposite the west tower of the castle. The tree was felled in such a way as to make a perfect bridge, the upper branches crashing into the tower windows. Across this bridge we charged, and, while my men stormed the upper windows, I, under cover of the foliage, effected an entrance to the second floor. Gaining the staircase, I was for ascending to the floor above, to take the enemy in the rear, when I bumped into Mustapha Grouch, who was headed in the same direction. Clapping a pistol to his head, I commanded him to take me to the room in which Prince Kastrioti was imprisoned, and though he cursed fluently in Balkan he obeyed. As we descended the stair I could hear the sounds of conflict above, and my battle cry, "Shkanderberg! Shkanderberg!"

Prince Kastrioti was smoking a cigar and appeared quite chipper. I drew him one side, where Grouch couldn't hear us, and made him a plain proposition. "Prince," said I, "a south polar expedition, backed by King Leopold, sails from the island of Corfu three days hence. If you hurry you can catch it. Here, take my clothes and give me yours. Your name is Josh Slinger, and here's your passports. Send reports of the polar expedition (collect) to the Chicago Tribune. Not a word of your real identity. Will you go?"

"I'd like to think it over a few minutes," replied Kastrioti, somewhat dazed by the abrupt proposal.

"There's no time for reflection," said I, impatiently. "Take your choice: The south pole or an Albanian dungeon."

"I'll go," said Kastrioti.

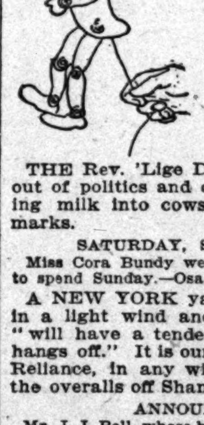

"Follow me, then," said I. And locking up Mustapha Grouch, we hurried away. Meantime my men had won the heights and put the enemy to flight, and there was nothing to bar our return to the city. That same night I packed off Kastrioti with a strong escort, and I expect you'll hear from him in antarctic waters before long.

Now to proclaim myself king of Albania!

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mr. J. J. Mr. Bell is the leader of the Finnan Haddie school of literature, although still a young man. We can promise that "Wee McPherson" will be every bit as much a "wee deevil" as "Wee Macgreegor," while in the matter of dialect Mr. Bell has surpassed himself. A glossary will accompany each sketch, so that readers unfamiliar with the Finnan Haddie school will be able to work out the puzzle.

TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1903.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT—

FORTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Ex-Gov. Matteson's estate, including 107 acres near Chicago, was sold at Springfield for $300,000 to reimburse the state of Illinois for bonds which the governor had purloined.

The steamship Anglo-Saxon was wrecked off Cape Race and nearly 300 persons were reported drowned.

Commissioner Dole of the District of Columbia offered to enlist a brigade of negroes if the United States government would guarantee them equal protection with white troops.

Gen. Burnside issued a proclamation at Cincinnati warning citizens not to interfere with the recovery of hundreds of runaway slaves who were in jail at Lexington, Frankfort, and Louisville.

Gen. Marmaduke's advance through Missouri was repulsed by union troops at Cape Girardeau, and Gen. McNeil was reported in hot pursuit.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Jay Gould, Henry N. Smith, and Alden B. Stockwell were charged with cornering $45,000,000 in cash loans at New York and extorting high interest rates to depress stock prices.

An expedition of twenty-nine companies of United States infantry, an artillery detachment, and seventy-six scouts was organized at Washington to protect surveyors laying out the Northern Pacific railroad line from a threatened Indian attack.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY:

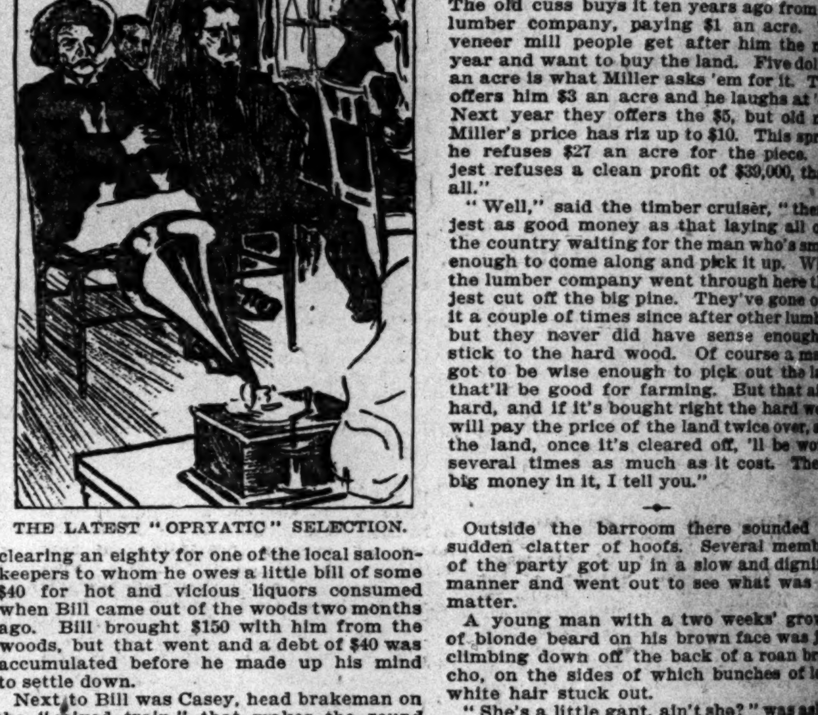

President Cleveland started for Chicago to open the world's fair.

The Philadelphia liberty bell reached Chicago by special train and was received by a citizens' delegation and a display of fireworks.

"Bucking the Compass."

THERE were ten men sitting about the little barroom. They were brown faced, roughly dressed men, not given to much talk.

There was "Milwaukee Bill," a typical lumber-jack, 40 years old, with chest and shoulders broad and square, and short stumpy legs. Bill's blue overalls were turned up at the bottom half way to his knees, showing the muddy tops of his high laced shoes. He wore a blue flannel shirt and tie and a short black coat. His hat had originally been white, broad-brimmed, with a neat design cut out of the edge of it with revolver bullets. But Bill's chief glory was his mustache, a tremendous golden yellow affair, with a sweep to it that would have delighted a cavalryman. His face was broad and square and brown. Bill is spending the summer clearing an eighty for one of the local saloonkeepers to whom he owes a little bill of some $40 for hot and vicious liquors consumed when Bill came out of the woods two months ago. Bill brought $150 with him from the woods, but that went and a debt of $40 was accumulated before he made up his mind to settle down.

THE LATEST "OPRYATIC" SELECTION.

Next to Bill was Casey, head brakeman on the "mixed train" that makes the round trip every day between the junction and Watersmeet over in the Michigan woods. Casey is something of a sentimentalist, for pinned to his blue flannel coat was a spray of trailing arbutus—part of the same lot that the young woman who cooks over to the seclonhouse picked in the woods yesterday. There was nobody to tease Casey. The men of the big woods are not much given to joking each other—at least not before strangers.

There were two or three "timber cruisers" and land lookers who are buying up the hard wood timber round about the Eagle waters; two Swedish settlers, who had come in from their little clearings to see about buying some more land and incidentally with the idea of drinking a few swigs of the liquid fire; there was an insurance adjuster from Chicago, who was up in the lumber country to settle a loss on a sawmill destroyed by fire; two or three city men with fish baskets on the floor beside them, and a few others.

After the crew of No. 9, the extra freight, had washed up and had supper they came in and sat down and the party was complete. Then the bartender took the big talking machine from its box and sat it on the end of the bar. For the benefit of the strangers present he was inclined to be a bit facetious.

"What'll you have?" he asked. "We got 'em all. Chicago ain't a bit ahead of us. Here's the latest opryatic selection."

The squeaky metallic voice of the talking machine shrilled out an announcement, followed by the voice of the singer herself, as she sang the florid music of some selection from grand opera.

"Now, we'll have Mr. Dooley-ooly-oo," said the bartender, changing the records. "We're right up to date, I tell you. We get the new ones up here every wek, just as fast as you do in town."

The men listened to half a dozen "selections," including coon songs, band music, and a vaudeville monologue, without talking or showing any signs of mirth or enthusiasm.

Then while "a bunch of drinks" was being served, Casey, the brakeman, spoke up.

"Killed a deer on the up run this morning," he said, "just the other side of Three Lakes. It jumped out of the brush and got in front of the engine before Tom could reverse her. I seen lots of 'em killed at night, but that's the first ever got in my way on the day time."

Nobody said anything. The talking machine started again.

"I got lost in a tamarack swamp this afternoon," said one of the land lookers. "I kept on walking and walking, and I always staid in the swamp. Finally it come to me that I was lost. A feller that's never felt that way don't know what it is to be scared."

"Yes," broke in the timber cruiser, "and nineteen out of twenty people when it comes to 'em that they really are lost in the big woods will just start out on the dead run, yelling as loud as they can yell."

"Just what I felt like doing. But I knew that would certainly lose me for good and all. So I sets down on top of a big stump. 'See here, old feller,' I says to myself, 'you want to keep cool.'

"So I sets a while and then I pulls out my compass. I looks at the compass and the compass tells me I've been going dead north all the time when I ought to be going south—jest opposite. I says to myself that compass is certainly wrong. That compass is sure lying to me. I know it ain't north up that way the compass says it is."

"That's the way with 'em all," commented the timber cruiser. "They all want to buck their compass. But I tell you the first rule a feller wants to follow in the big woods is never to buck his compass. If he does he's a goner, sure. It only takes about twenty-four hours alone in the tall timber to make a man plum daffy. Don't buck your compass if you want to git out of the big woods alive."

"Well," went on the land looker, "I makes up my mind setting up there on top of that stump that I'd foller the compass. I went on south till I come to the hard wood, where I knows where I am. Then I puts the compass back in my pocket, and jest one hour later I finds myself right straight back in the same old tamarack swamp. Then I sets again on the stump and studies the compass some more. Finally I gets up and holds the compass in my right hand and starts out. And I never takes my eyes off'n her till I lands at the lake shore and the trail to town was clear before me."

"See any good timber?" asked the cruiser.

"I was down five miles the other side of Virgin lake this afternoon and I come across a big bunch of hardwood. They's a settler near by and I goes over and asks him about it. They's 1,500 acres of good maple and birch and basswood in the bunch, and it belongs to old man Miller down at Antigo. The old cuss buys it ten years ago from the lumber company, paying $1 an acre. The veneer mill people get after him the next year and want to buy the land. Five dollars an acre is what Miller asks 'em for it. They offers him $3 an acre and he laughs at 'em. Next year they offers the $5, but old man Miller's price has riz up to $10. This spring he refuses $27 an acre for the piece. He jest refuses a clean profit of $39,000, that's all."

"Well," said the timber cruiser, "there's jest as good money as that laying all over the country waiting for the man who's smart enough to come along and pick it up. When the lumber company went through here they jest cut off the big pine. They've gone over it a couple of times since after other lumber, but they never did have sense enough to stick to the hard wood. Of course a man's got to be wise enough to pick out the land that'll be good for farming. But that ain't hard, and if it's bought right the hard wood will pay the price of the land twice over, and the land, once it's cleared off, 'll be worth several times as much as it cost. They's big money in it, I tell you."

Outside the barroom there sounded the sudden clatter of hoofs. Several members of the party got up in a slow and dignified manner and went out to see what was the matter.

A young man with a two weeks' growth of blonde beard on his brown face was just climbing down off the back of a roan broncho, on the sides of which bunches of long white hair stuck out.

"She's a little gant, ain't she?" was asked in a casual way, as he dismounted. Some one, gazing at the glaring ribs of the pony, admitted that "she" did look a bit thin.

"She always does git thin in hot weather," admitted the owner, as the pony's hoofs broke through the scum of ice in the puddle under her feet.

"Got any trout fishermen here tonight?" he went on.

"Yep; they's a couple inside."

"Wonder if they got all the fish they need?"

He went on into the barroom, taking with him a string of a dozen beautiful brook trout. The men with the empty fish baskets got up and gathered round him. He grinned aimlessly when they asked him where he caught them.

"START OUT TO RUN AND HOLLER."

"Over across the line in Michigan," he said.

"But the season don't open over there until the first of May," one of them said.

"I don't know nothing about seasons," he said. "We fellers always have better luck out of season than in it, anyhow."

Then he proceeded, with multifarious and unnecessary curses, to tell the story of the capture of the trout. One of the fishermen—him with the short white side whiskers—was especially interested. When he had finished, the other fishermen introduced the venerable old person as the Rev. Dr. Thompson.

"—— ——, doctor," said the youth, "I'm —— —— sorry I swore so —— —— much. If I'd knowed you was a preacher I'd a-kept a-hold of my —— —— mouth."

"That's all right," said the doctor, as he led the youth into a corner. "How much do you want for those fish?" H. M. H.

Gen. Greene Issues Order That No Ordinance Can Be Ignored While He Is Chief.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, April 27.

Over on the east side tonight nobody with any sporting proclivities was talking of anything but the great "hunch" that "made good" at the opening of "Big Tom" Sullivan's Jamaica track.

Whitney and Program Boy Make a Killing.

As the story went, and everybody swore to the truth of it, William C. Whitney won a lot of money. Surely "Little Hunchy" Max Rabowitz, the program seller, did, because he had the money to prove it.

Max used to sell papers down in the Wall street district, and then he started to sell programs at the racetracks. The program boys all have numbers on their caps. Max's was eleven. According to the story, Whitney, who knows Max, bought a program of him and then spoke to the boy. Then, also, according to Max's friends, Whitney laughingly touched Max's back in accordance with the old superstition.

Then Max made bold to ask which horse was going to win the Excelsior handicap, the fourth race. Whitney said his own horse, Black Stock, ought to win. Then the great sportsman glanced at his program. "Why!" he exclaimed, "Black Stock's number is 11, and so is yours. Of course Black Stock will win." Then he gave Max $5.

Max remarked that he had a tip of his own which was that Tim Sullivan's horse, Setauket, was going to win the second race. When he discovered that Setauket's number on the program also was 11 he was sure the tip was right. So he put $5 on the Sullivan entry. Setauket won at 15 to 1 and Max had $80.

Then Max put his whole bundle of $80 on Black Stock to win. Black Stock won at 10 to 1, and the boy's pile jumped to $880.

Police Commissioner Greene put himself on record today as impressed with the belief that, regardless of their character, it was the duty of the police to enforce all ordinances to the full extent of their power, and that there can be no such thing as discretion by a policeman in such matters.

Greene Insists Police Must Enforce All Laws.

In a letter to Mayor Low, which was made public, Gen. Greene declared that one of the greatest evils with which for many years the city has been afflicted has been the practice of policemen to use what they called "discretion," deciding for themselves what ordinances to enforce and what to pass by as useless and allow to become dead letters.

Gen. Greene's attention was called especially to this matter by requests on the part of individuals who are openly violating certain ordinances affecting the use of the streets, that he issue orders to the policemen not to make arrests for these violations. When Mayor Low was running for office he publicly declared in favor of a lax enforcement of certain irksome laws.

Loretta Magee, 24 years old, only daughter of Simon Magee, an inspector in the department of highways, died Sunday at her home in Williamsburg. Her death was due to paralysis of the heart as a result of fright on discovering burglars in her home two months ago. When the young woman discovered the burglars she became hysterical and before her screams for help were heard the burglars fled, carrying off $40. Miss Magee received such a nervous shock that her heart became weak and three weeks ago it was found necessary to call in a physician. Sunday morning she became ill and Dr. Theodore Burr was summoned, but upon his arrival she was dead. Soon after the burglary, while Miss Magee was riding in a crowded street car, her gold watch, containing a charm and her dead mother's picture, was stolen from her, which further increased her nervous condition.

Sunday baseball playing promises to be a feature this summer as well as golfing at the Fairfield County golf club links at Greenwich, Conn., owing to the action of William G. Rockefeller, who has provided a ball field for the Volunteer baseball club.

W. G. Rockefeller Indorses Sunday Baseball.

Last summer two church deacons appealed to William Rockefeller to stop Sunday ball playing on his property, and he was quoted as being opposed to it.

This season the Volunteer boys appealed to the younger Rockefeller, whose summer residence is not far from the ball grounds, and were given to understand that Mr. Rockefeller did not want to stop the fun of any boy, and they could play ball there every Sunday provided they raised no disturbance and submitted to the decisions of the umpires without loud discussions and did not advertise the games so as to draw out of town people to the place. The first game was played yesterday, and next Sunday the White Plains team will play there.

There was considerable delay today in impaneling a coroner's jury to hold an inquest in the murder of Benedetto Madonia, victim of the "barrel murder." Only eleven of the men summoned appeared, and they were accepted. Coroner Scholer, in speaking of the trouble, said: "I think the men are afraid to serve on the jury, owing to the Italian case. In think that they fear the Mafia society, and if they find that they have enough evidence to hold them for the grand jury they (the jurors) might sustain some injury from the gang." The hearing was adjourned until next Friday.

Daniel Nasen and William H. Page Jr., both lawyers, are subpœnaed to appear before Magistrate Barlow on Wednesday as witnesses in William N. Amory's proceedings for criminal libel against H. H. Vreeland, president of the Metropolitan Street railway company. District Attorney Jerome, at whose request the hearing was adjourned last Friday, will take an active part in the examination of the two lawyers. It has been alleged an attempt was made on behalf of the Metropolitan company to buy off Amory to prevent him pressing the charges of mismanagement and defalcation. The offer made him, it is said, came in the shape of a proposition to purchase from him at a high price stock and bonds supposed to be of nominal value if not absolutely worthless.

New Feature in Amory Suit Against Vreeland.

Page is one of the counsel of the Metropolitan and is said to have retained Nasen, who made the offer in his behalf.

Page has denied under oath having retained Nasen for this purpose, but Nasen admits he made the offer to Amory for the stock in question, declaring it his object to get control of certain patent rights, and denied, however, acting for Page in this matter, although curiously enough his check book shows he received a $500 retainer from Page at the same time.

The Very Rev. Dean McNulty, at Paterson, N. J., has made complaints before Recorder Senior against Henry Barclay, Patrick J. Duffy, and George Ross, saloonkeepers, for violating the Sunday liquor law. The dean had raided the saloon kept by these men. The dean's raid yesterday was prompted by a letter received signed "A Poor Wife," in which she said that the writer was heartbroken because her husband frequented saloons.

When the priest walked through the door of the saloon a number of men were at the bar. Some tried to brazen it out. The dean told them to go home to their wives and families. The clergyman advanced to the bar and the men moved aside.

"You spend your money for this filthy stuff," the priest cried, as he picked up the beer glasses and dashed the contents into the faces of the men, one after the other. They all fled.

The automobile legislation at Albany has caused differences among the automobilists of this city and state which may result in some sensational changes in the present established order of things. It has been foreshadowed and is now no longer to be concealed that there is a downright rebellion in the Automobile Club of America, which has headquarters at 753 Fifth avenue, this city.

Rebellion in Auto Club Over Proposed Law.

A special meeting of the Automobile Club of America has been called for next Saturday night by petition of fifteen active members, who make no secret that the purpose of the meeting is to repudiate the action of President A. R. Shattuck and the law committee in regard to the bill to which they gave their approval.

Philip Doblin, who gave sensational testimony at the congressional investigation last winter of bribery charges made by Representative Lessler of this city, was today committed to Bellevue hospital for examination as to his sanity. Doblin created a scene at a hotel yesterday by refusing to pay for a meal. He was locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct, and today his wife told the court she believed he was mentally unbalanced. After Dr. Gregory, in charge of the insane pavilion at Bellevue, had examined Doblin, he said that he was satisfied that Doblin was suffering from insipient paresis, and that he must have been in that condition at the time of the submarine boat inquiry at Washington. Doblin will be held five days before it is determined whether or not to commit him as insane.

KYRLE BELLEW and ELEANOR ROBSON in ROMEO and JULIET

Albany, N. Y., April 27.—[Special.]—The most important theatrical event of the Albany year was the production of "Romeo and Juliet" tonight, which marked the triumph of Eleanor Robson, a most appealingly human Juliet. Kyrle Bellew as the Romeo won new laurels for his finished and ardent acting, but he shared honors with Eben Plympton in the rôle of Mercutio. There was an abundance of riches in the cast, including that great old woman of the stage, Mrs. W. G. Jones as the nurse, who received the most cordial of welcomes from the audience.

Opera Farewell to New York.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—The operatic singers returned from their western flight today and for a few hours this evening delighted one of the largest audiences that ever assembled at an opera farewell in New York. Maurice Grau was kept at home from his testimonial, for the performance was such, by orders of his physician, who feared that the excitement might be too much for him.

Flowers in great loose bundles, and set pieces, and huge wreaths of laurel were thrown on the stage after the fall of each curtain, all the fair singers being laden with flowers as they left the stage, and the men fairly staggered under the weight of wreaths.

Frau Fritzi Scheff, in "La Fille du Regiment," made a double farewell, as she now leaves the grand opera for the light opera stage, won the greatest wealth of floral tributes awarded.

The first demonstration of the evening was Sembrich's at the final curtain of "La Traviata." It seemed as if a ton of flowers was handed on the stage. The prima donna after two curtain calls with her fellow singers, took three alone, and still the audience demanded her return; at her last appearance she stooped and, gathering some loose roses flung them far out in the audience.

The Metropolitan Opera House company gave Maurice Grau a loving cup this afternoon. At the presentation all the prima donnas kissed Mr. Grau.

Opera Opening in London.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 27.—The opera season had a most auspicious opening here tonight. The first cycles of the "Nibelungen Ring" began with "Rheingold." The cast included several singers new to Covent garden. The principal parts were taken by Bertram as Wotan, Van Dyck as Loge, Fremstad as Fricka, Zimmerman as Freida, and Lunn as Erda. The performance was so uniformly excellent it would be invidious to make distinctions, but Van Dyck surprised his friends by the remarkable freshness of his voice, in addition to his usual artistic acting. In orchestration alone did the performance fall short of Baireuth's high standard.

The Crisis.

James K. Hackett and his company began a fortnight engagement at the Grand opera house last evening, presenting the stage version of the Winston Churchill novel, "The Crisis," in which they were seen here earlier in the season at Powers'.

They were welcomed by an audience of good size, and after the third act, when a speech was insisted upon, Mr. Hackett came forward and, expressing his thanks for the approval shown him and his associates, voiced his pleasure at appearing in Chicago in a theater which had "kept itself free from the tentacles of the octupus called the theatrical trust."

He assured his hearers that their encouragement meant satisfaction not only to him but to Mrs. Fiske, Miss Crosman, and the other independent players who are fighting for their individuality. The remarks evidently found favor, for they were received with a round of hearty applause.

The performance of "The Crisis" is in every respect identical with that given here two months ago, the cast remaining unchanged and the production, in the matter of scenic setting and costumes, being of course unaltered. The play has been constructed with more skill and better understanding than have most of the dramatizations made from popular novels, the novelist who is responsible for the version having wisely realized that the love story is the only part of the book in which theatergoers would find interest, and he has selected the attractive and effective incidents and shaped them into a neat, pleasing, and entertaining play. The person familiar with the novel is, in fact, surprised that so much material of dramatic worth was obtainable.

The rôle of Stephen Brice is not one that affords Mr. Hackett any prominence peculiarly stellar in character. He is but one of the more active in a company of generally competent players. He enacts the part of the superlatively noblemlnded and magnanimous young northerner with admirable avoidance of the accentuating of the goodness of the man which could easily result in the character seeming that of a prig, and by manly, straightforward treatment wins the sympathy and admiration of the spectator. The actor's clear cut profile is kept as constantly in evidence as it was when the play was seen here before, his voice is deep and rich toned, and his carriage easy and graceful. It is an impersonation pleasant to watch, satisfying in all particulars without being notable—a fact due to the rôle itself rather than to any inefficiency in its presentment.

Mr. Brennan as Judge Whipple and Mr. Hall as Col. Carvel are both thoroughly competent. Mr. Le Soir as Hopper is inclined to overdo to even greater extent than when seen here last, an indulgence to be regretted, for his portrayal has many points of merit, and if held throughout within the bounds of legitimate character work would be an achievement of worth.

Mr. Royce is excellent as Clarence Colfax, playing the part with the hotheaded impetuousness befitting the young southerner and keeping the confession in the last act from the mawkishness that lies close at hand in this scene if not handled in sincere, manly fashion.

Miss Walker is a charming Virginia, a picture for the eye and with her gentle southern accent grateful to the ear. The minor rôles are satisfactorily given and round out the performance into a well balanced and smoothly finished whole.

Mr. Hackett will present "The Crisis" during only the present week, devoting his latter half of the fortnight stay to "Don Cæsar's Return," his last season's success in which he has not yet been heard here.

OPPOSE A LECTURE BY HARPER.

Ministers of Toronto Protest to College Against Invitation to Advocate of Higher Criticism.

Toronto, Ont., April 27.—[Special.]—The Baptist Ministerial association of this city has requested that the invitation which a committee of McMaster college had sent to President Harper of Chicago University to give an address at the graduating exercises be recalled. The ministers expressed their disapproval of Dr. Harper's views on the higher criticism of the bible. It was also intimated to the college authorities that the officials of Walmer Road church, one of the leading Baptist churches in the city, where the exercises of McMaster always have been held, are unwilling to give the building for a lecture by Dr. Harper or by any other pronounced advocate of the higher criticism. The college people are much disturbed at the opposition which their invitation has called forth, but they plead that they cannot now stultify themselves by withdrawing it. So it is announced in the Canadian Baptist, the denominational organ, that President Harper is coming, notwithstanding the remonstrance, and also that he will speak in McMaster hall.

SEE HOPE FOR ORCHESTRA

MUSIC LOVERS THINK CONCERTS MAY LAST ANOTHER YEAR.

Directors Will Decide Today Whether the Valuable Institution Will Be Abandoned, and Many Expect Them to Assume the Financial Burden for Another Year and Lease the Auditorium—Home Building Plan a Failure with the Public Thus Far.

Whether Chicago is to lose its orchestra, which under Mr. Thomas' direction has made itself well known throughout the world of music, will be decided today. Though the trustees of the orchestra association were unwilling last night to anticipate today's decision, it may be that the Auditorium will be leased for another year and the concerts given as during the season just ended. A part of such a decision probably would be the abandonment of the building proposition, the fund for which is still some $350,000 below the necessary $750,000.

It had been expected that the orchestra association directors would reach a decision yesterday. Such was the plan announced. The meeting was to have been held in the office of President Bryan Lathrop, in the Old Colony building, at noon. At that hour, however, several trustees were absent, and it was decided to adjourn until today.

May Assume Burden Again.

Those who believe the orchestra will be continued base their faith on the idea that though the building project has failed, the trustees will assume for another year the burden of supporting the orchestra rather than see Chicago lose its distinctive music feature.

When the trustees announced, more than two months before the close of the recent orchestra season, that the present system would not be continued and that the orchestra would be disbanded at the end of the season unless $750,000 was subscribed with which to build a home for the orchestra, they were confident that the required amount would be raised in a few weeks. The Thomas orchestra had grown to be such an essential part of Chicago, they believed, that the wealthy and public spirited citizens of Chicago would not fail to come to the aid of the orchestra. The trustees explained that heretofore the annual deficit averaged $30,000 and that it had been covered by voluntary contributions secured by the trustees. They argued that the annual deficits could be eliminated and the orchestra placed on a paying basis if the Auditorium were abandoned and the association provided with a home by public subscription. An appeal to the public followed.

Building Plan Proves Unpopular.

The trustees and other friends of the orchestra were disappointed. The trustees started the ball rolling by each subscribing $10,000, but after that the flow almost ceased. Another, more urgent, appeal was issued, this time to the general public, asking for subscriptions to the building fund, of small or large sums.

Contributions came in faster, but the amounts were so small that it soon became apparent that the total sum could not be secured before the end of the season. To assist in the work an auxiliary committee was formed, but although it worked hard for several weeks the total of all subscriptions, large and small, has not reached more than $400,000.

The contracts with the members of the orchestra must be signed now if at all, and this is the reason a decision will be reached today.

"LOISON UNKNOWN TO ME," WIRES WOMAN IN NEW YORK.

Last Available Clew Exhausted in Case of the Man Who Killed Himself in the Windsor-Clifton Hotel.

"Address found in room of Louis G. Loison, suicide, formerly was mine, but Loison is unknown to me." This telegram, signed by Christina Peloquin, 63 Morningside avenue, New York City, reached Chicago last night and exhausted the last available clew toward solving whatever mystery may surround the suicide of Mr. Loison in the Windsor-Clifton hotel last Sunday. At the inquest yesterday a letter written by Loison to the coroner was found. In part it reads: "This is simply a case of suicide on account of poor health, and bears no further investigation. I have neither friends nor kin. I desire that my body be cremated. By disposing of my effects I am sure there will be sufficient to cover all expenses, including hotel bill, which I should want to be paid above everything else."

Girl Is a Suicide.—After eating her dinner in apparently good spirits last evening Miss Annie Newman, 19 years old, went to her room and drank carbolic acid. Her mother heard moans, and, going to the room, found her lying on the bed. "I have taken carbolic acid," said the girl, "and I'll be dead in a few minutes." She expired before a physician summoned arrived. Mrs. Newman said she knew of no reason why her daughter should have committed suicide. The family lives at 158 North Halsted.

Dentist Seeks to Die.—Financial inability to attend the funeral of his mother in New York is supposed to have caused Albert Walker, a dentist living at 5719 Cottage Grove avenue, to seek death. In the presence of his wife and three children he swallowed a quantity of morphine, but was saved from death by the prompt attention of physicians.

Takes Acid and Dies.—Despondency over illness is thought to have caused Fred C. Folan, 27 years old, 304 East Indiana street, to end his life yesterday morning by swallowing carbolic acid. Folan was employed at the Virginia hotel as carriage caller.

Acid Ends Ill-Health.—Because he suffered from asthma and believed he could never regain his health, De Wald Kunow, 63 years old, an expressman, who lived with his wife at 89 Southport avenue, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by swallowing carbolic acid.

Widow's Life Ends.—Hattie Moore, a widow, who lived at 316 West Lake street, died yesterday at the county hospital from the effects of morphine, swallowed while despondent.

ASKS BOOKS AND WINE IN CELL.

Prisoner at the Central Station Startles the Police by Ordering an Unusual Dinner.

Are all New York prisoners as aristocratic as John O'Day?

This is the question the Chicago police are asking themselves. O'Day, who is said to be a fugitive from the eastern city, was locked up in Central station last night. He announced that he had not dined, and asked for a waiter from some good restaurant. The waiter came, received O'Day's order, and departed.

In a few minutes he returned. Besides the soup, steak, and vegetables he carried two bottles of wine and six books. When the lockup keeper recovered from his surprise he sent the bottles and books back, despite O'Day's protests.

INSANE MAN FREE A MONTH.

Wanders About Chicago Penniless Till Found by the Police—Escaped from Dunning.

After living in Chicago, penniless and insane, since April 2, when he escaped from Dunning, William Orr, 73 years old, was found by the police last night at Garfield boulevard and Ashland avenue. No report was made of Orr's escape until a week ago, when the aged man's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles M. Orr, 6912 Lowe avenue, went to the institution to see him. Then she reported the case to the police.

When taken to the New City police station Orr could not tell where he had been during the last four weeks.

"How have you lived?" the sergeant asked him.

"I can't remember. I have been in many places, but I don't know where," he answered.

He will be taken back to Dunning.

LEE TELLS MORE OF BOODLE CASE.

Former Lieutenant Governor of Missouri Again Is Before the Grand Jury.

FORGERY IN A JOURNAL.

Senate Clerk Says He Was Induced to Alter Records After Legislature Had Adjourned.

St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—[Special.]—The April grand jury had a busy day today, and, as a result of its probing, uncovered more legislative rascality. John A. Lee, who resigned as lieutenant governor yesterday, was again before the inquisitors, and gave additional information as to the boodling in the general assembly in the sessions of 1901 and 1903. For the greater part of two hours Lee was on the rack.

Probably the most interesting and important information today was given in the testimony of R. B. Bridgman, journal clerk of the senate, who is said to have told the inquisitors that Senator James Orchard, who was chairman of the committee to which the alum bill was referred in 1901, kept the measure in his possession until after the general assembly had adjourned sine die, when he hunted up Bridgman and induced him to enter upon the journal a minute to the effect that the bill had been regularly reported to the general assembly before that body adjourned, thus falsifying the official records of the senate.

Too Many $1,000 Bills Afloat.

Herbery B. Martin, superintendent of the money order department of the postoffice branch in the Union station, was another important witness. He told of a senator who stepped off a train from Jefferson City and asked him (Martin) to give change for a $1,000 bill. When told that there was not that much change in the office this senator remarked it was impossible to get the bill broken at Jefferson City, as there were nothing but $1,000 bills in circulation there.

The name of the senator has been withheld, but he is believed to be already under indictment.

Hugh Keonig, bookkeeper of the American Exchange bank of this city, testified. He told of a number of checks for $1,000 which passed through his hands, all payable to legislators.

George W. Wolffe, former Probate judge of St. Louis county, had something to say about a road bill before the legislature affecting the county.

As a result of today's investigation it is reported that a number of indictments will be returned affecting people of this city, legislators and others.

Lee's Resignation Accepted.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 27.—Gov. Dockery telephoned from St. Louis today that he had accepted the resignation of Lieut. Gov. John A. Lee, which reached the office here this morning in a letter bearing a special delivery stamp. Senator T. L. Rubey, president pro tempore of the senate, becomes acting lieutenant governor.

MOCK TRIAL AT LAW SCHOOL.

Students of Missouri University Make Fun of Legislative Boodle Charges in Their Annual Show.

Columbia, Mo., April 27.—[Special.]—The students of the law school of Missouri university, following their annual custom, tonight presented a mock trial which for realistic scenery and startling testimony far eclipsed any former attempts. The scene of the trial was laid in hades, and the defendants were present, R. H. Jesse, Dr. C. W. Hetherington, M. L. Lipscombe, C. W. Brown, and Isadore Loeb, all members of the university faculty, who were charged with the grave offense of having poisoned three members of the general assembly because the legislators did not favor a large university appropriation.

The case was called on earth, but as the three victims, Speaker Whitecotton and Representatives Atkinson and Duncan, could not be found, the case was taken on a change of venue to hades. By means of red, green, and blue lights the stage was given an uncanny appearance, which was carried out in the costumes, and the witnesses as they were called emerged apparently from a boiling furnace.

Joseph W. Folk and E. C. Crow were attorneys for the state, while Chester Crum was principal attorney for the defendants. The jury was made up of Blackstone, Shakspeare, Hamlet, Diogenes, Richelieu, Robert Ingersoll, Napoleon, Ananias, Brigham Young, George Washington, Benedict Arnold, and Jesse James.

Washington was afterwards disqualified because of the questionable hatchet story. The boodle investigation was referred to. "John Alum Lee" was sworn "not to tell the truth, or any part of the truth, so help me baking powder."

At one point in the trial a huge baking powder can six feet high walked across the stage, and when broken open a student dressed to represent Senator Stone emerged from the can and distributed $1,000 bills to the lawyers and jury and made an eloquent speech advocating the enactment of a pure food law in hades. After being informed that the diet of hades consisted exclusively of fire and brimstone he retired.

The evidence produced tended to convict the defendants, but the poisoned legislators pleaded that they not be punished, as their death had in reality been a blessing to them. Duncan said: "We might be in as bad a fix as Jone A. Lee if we had lived."

SEEK RULING ON THE JUDGES.

Democrats Prepare to Begin Proceedings to Determine Standing of the "Provisionals."

Unless the unexpected happens, legal steps will be taken today to determine whether three additional circuit judgeships shall exist in Cook county and whether the names of the three "provisional" candidates provided by the political parties shall be printed on the ballots.

The action will be taken by the democratic side by the filing of a mandamus petition aimed to force the county clerk and the election commissioners to place the names of the "provisional" candidates on the ticket. This is expected to bring the problem to a Supreme court decision, if need be.

Late yesterday afternoon the democratic "provisional" nominees—Joseph O'Donnell, Thomas M. Hoyne, and George Mills Rogers—decided not to allow their names to be used in any mandamus proceedings. Consequently the petition will be filed today by Attorney Shirley T. High, counsel for the nominees. It will bear the names of outsiders who seek settlement of the question.

Some controversy has arisen among the judicial nominees of both parties as to the order in which names shall be printed on the ballot. The republican judges object to Judge Hanecy's name leading the republican list, and there is a possibility that a protest may be filed before the ballots are printed should the plans of certain politicians be carried out.

TO DEMAND POLICEMAN'S STAR.

Frank Doerr Says Detective James Kennedy Threatened to Shoot Him and Killed His Dog.

Serious charges are made against Detective James Kennedy by Frank Doerr, 4816 Laflin street. Doerr declares that he became involved in a quarrel with the policeman yesterday afternoon and narrowly escaped being shot. Kennedy, he says, threatened to kill him and did shoot his dog. The bullet that killed the dog, Doerr says, narrowly missed striking his baby. Doerr declares he will lay the case before Chief O'Neill today.

FORETELLS A DEATH: IS VICTIM.

Palmist a Victim of His Own Prophecy While Telling Fortunes in Flat Building.

A palmist called at the flat of Mrs. Jacob Samuels, 2 East Forty-seventh street, yesterday afternoon and declared that some member would soon die suddenly. Five minutes after bowing himself out he sank to the floor unconscious while ringing the door bell at the apartments of Mrs. G. A. Sisson, on the floor above. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause. The police took the body to Rolston's undertaking rooms, 4227 Cottage Grove avenue and messages giving a description of the man were sent out. He apparently was 60 years old, 5 feet 9 inches high, and weighed 160 pounds.

ENGLAND'S KING GUEST OF ROME.

Victor Emmanuel Is First to Greet Visiting Monarch Upon His Arrival.

CITY A BLAZE OF COLORS.

Two Rulers Ride Side by Side Through Streets Filled with Cheering People.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, April 27.—King Edward of England arrived here at 3 o'clock this afternoon and was received at the railway station by King Victor Emmanuel in person.

King Edward descended from his car almost before the train had come to a complete standstill. The instant he reached the heavily carpeted platform King Victor Emmanuel stepped forward from the brilliant group of officers and officials and the two monarchs embraced and kissed each other four times, the Italian king saying quite audibly in English:

"I welcome you with all my heart to Rome."

Great Crowds Cheer Kings.

The crowds along the route followed by the kings numbered 400,000, including 10,000 to 12,000 British and a great many Americans, as shown by the number of stars and stripes displayed.

The diplomatic body not being among those who welcomed King Edward at the station, the ambassadors, ministers, and foreign officials witnessed the passage of the cortège from various points of vantage. The United States ambassador, Mr. Meyer, and his family had a balcony in the middle of the Via Nazionale. It was decorated with American colors.

The center of the American manifestation was at the American Episcopal church, St. Paul's, which was decorated with American and Italian flags. The church being on the route of the procession the rector, Dr. Nevin, erected a large stand, where about eighty guests were seated.

When the two sovereigns approached the church they were pleasantly greeted by hearing the chimes of the church play "God Save the King," followed by the Italian royal march.

King Edward recognized the courtesy of the Americans by saluting and smiling.

Stirring Scent at Quirinal.

The most imposing moment of the reception was shortly after King Edward entered the quirinal. The plaza below was packed with 50,000 people, who acclaimed his majesty frantically until he was obliged to appear twice on a balcony, with Queen Helena on his right and King Victor Emmanuel on his left and surrounded by Italian princes.

The spectacle which met the eyes of King Edward was a remarkable one. At his feet was the excited populace of Rome voicing the sentiments of all Italy. Against the horizon on his right was the colossal dome of St. Peter's, glistening under the flaming rays of the setting sun, while frowning above was the historic Janiculum hill, with the statue of the national hero, Garibaldi. In front the tower of Nero, to the left the ruins of ancient Rome. King Edward, by his gestures, clearly expressed the deepest appreciation of the significance of the scene.

Visits the Queen Mother.

After a short rest at the quirinal King Edward reëntered his carriage, and, escorted by the cuirassiers, visited the queen mother, and then returned to the palace. Later he went to the British embassy, where he remained until 7 o'clock, holding a reception of the English residents of Rome. Then he returned to the quirinal and dined with the king and queen of Rome. The dinner was a strictly family repast.

All along the thoroughfares to the queen mother's, to the embassy, and back to the quirinal, the streets were lined with enormous crowds, who wildly cheered the British sovereign.

Special Decorations Arranged.

One feature of the decorations was a group of twenty monumental vases arranged in a semi-circle near the Exedra palace; each was six feet high, in the style of the celebrated Della Robbia terra cotta, and colored brilliantly red, white, yellow, and green. In each was a golden tree sixteen feet high, bearing flowers and fruit, such as grapes, lemons, pears, oranges, and apples. Sig. Cifariella, the sculptor, and Sig. Mataloni, the artist, were responsible for the scheme of decorations, and say the idea they intended to convey was "today is the fête of peace, and Italy, the cradle of fine arts and poetry, bids a welcome to her royal imperial guest." For this reason all the festoons were tied with white ribbons.

Entire Route Is Decorated.

Along the route of the cortège there had been erected huge pillars topped with Roman eagles and garlanded with flowers and vines. At the commencement of the Via Nazionale was a ball twenty feet in diameter, surrounded with laurel and myrtle. At the sides of this large sphere were symbolic representations of the fine arts, music, the sciences, and agriculture.

All the length of the Via Nazionale the British and Italian coats of arms were seen. Along the Via del Quirinale the pillars were supported by figures emblematic of victory.

The exceptionally cordial reception to King Edward today is mainly attributed in political circles to the tension between Italy and Austria over their conflicting interests in Albania, as Italy hopes for British support in case of territorial changes in the Balkans.

Protestant Alliance Protests.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 27.—The Protestant alliance has telegraphed to the secretary, who will be in attendance on King Edward at Rome, expressing its "intense regret that out Protestant king intends to visit the pope, who is described in the homilies of our established church as anti-Christ. We sincerely hope the rumors are absolutely unfounded."

BEY AND PRESIDENT MEET

LOUBET OF FRANCE GIVEN CORDIAL WELCOME AT TUNIS.

City Is Elaborately Decorated with Flags and Bunting, While Crowds of French, Mussulmans, and Jews Throng the Streets—Visitor Escorted to Palace by Gorgeous Retinue of Soldiers—Official Visits Exchanged—Banquet Follows Grand Review.

TUNIS, April 27.—President Loubet arrived here today from Bona, Algeria. He was received by the bey and was given a tremendous popular reception. The city was elaborately decorated with triumphal arches and flags of France and Tunis. The crowds which filled the streets were a strange medley of French, Mussulmans, and Jews.

The arrival of the cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, bearing the president, was the signal for a salute from the Tunisian fleet, and the bey, accompanied by a gorgeous retinue, embarked on a launch decorated with oriental grandeur and went to meet the president. M. Loubet received the bey on the deck of the Jeanne d'Arc and was warmly welcomed by the Tunisian official. They then proceeded ashore, the president being enthusiastically acclaimed.

An official exchange of calls between the bey and the president took place later, and the president afterward entertained the bey at dinner. During the afternoon there was a grand military review of thousands of native troops. This was followed by a banquet and a grand ball.

President Loubet, in his address, referred to the close ties existing between France and Tunis, and the bey responded with expressions of the devotion of Tunis to France.

FRIARS ATTACKED BY MOBS.

Capuchins at Marseilles, Center of Violent Combat Between Factions, Finally Rescued by Police.

PARIS, April 27.—The latest dispatches from the provinces indicate that the trouble attending the dispersions of the congregations is becoming more serious. This afternoon the disturbance at Marseilles around the Capuchin convent broke out again with much violence, owing to the attempt of a party of Oblate fathers to visit the barricaded convent.

The sight of the visitors aroused the anger of the enemies of the congregations and an attack was made. Clericals hastened to the assistance of the fathers and a pitched battle between the two parties followed. Many persons were injured. The police finally rescued the Oblate fathers and the fighting ceased.

The monks at La Roche-Sur-Foron were arrested today. A strong force of infantry and cavalry surrounded the monastery and held the crowd of angry peasants in check while the door of the building was battered in.

At Nantes today seven Capuchins were sentenced by the court to pay small fines for refusing to close and leave their convent. A crowd of 2,000 persons escorted the Capuchins from the court, cheering them and shouting "Long live the brothers!" and "Long live liberty!"

CHOLERA THREATENING LUZON.

Fear Expressed That Disease Will Spread to Other Islands—Bubonic Plague Also Gaining.

MANILA, April 27.—Cholera again is threatening the island of Luzon. The bad outbreak in the Camarines apparently is spreading northward. The Cagayan valley is infected, and it is feared the plague will extend over all the islands. Past epidemics generally have lasted over three years.

There have been 101 cases of bubonic plague, mostly among the natives and Chinese, in Manila since January, and the plague apparently is gaining ground.

Rizal, Bulacan, and Cavite apparently have been pacified as a result of the vigorous campaign of the scouts and constabulary. Extensive precautions have been taken to guard against brigandage. It is estimated that 200 of the enemy were killed during the operations. The conditions in Albay are unsatisfactory.

They were cross examined by M. Loriol, chief engineer of the city of Paris, regarding the proposed cost of city lighting. The subcommittee will report to the committee of the whole of the city council at its next sitting, which will be on either May 13 or June 6.

GEN. SIERRA IS KILLED.

BONILLA'S MEN SLAY EX-PRESIDENT OF SPANISH HONDURAS.

Statement Issued by His Murderers That He Met with an Accident—President Arias Thrown Into Prison by Order of Gen. Bonilla—Charged with Taking All the Money in the Treasury and Trying to Leave the Country with It.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—[Special.]—Gen. Ferencio Sierra, ex-president of Spanish Honduras, is no more. He was killed by a detachment of Bonilla's men, and his remains are buried close to the dividing line of Spanish Honduras and Salvador.

This information was brought to New Orleans today by Zotera Verde, who arrived on the steamship Breakwater. Mr. Verde was in Tegucigalpa when Sierra left on his dash for the Salvador line, and he says comparatively little information has been given out about his death. Bonilla has issued a short statement, he says, to the effect that Sierra met with an accident.

Mr. Verde thinks Sierra, who left Tegucigalpa at the head of about seventy-five fighting men, must have been halted near the frontier and killed.

"The terms of the surrender agreed to by Gen. Bonilla and President Arias," said Mr. Verde, "permitted former President Arias to leave the capital provided he did not take with him any of the government's money.

"When Bonilla looked over the money remaining in the treasury he made the discovery that the official had taken every dollar except $10,000 as a souvenir of his three months' career as president of Honduras. Bonilla immediately organized a band, which he sent in pursuit of the deceptive leader. The latter was apprehended and returned to Tegucigalpa, where he was put in jail under a heavy guard."

MAY SOLVE MOAT HOUSE CRIME.

Dead Body of Rich English Woman Found—Disappeared Several Years Ago.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 27.—The "Moat house mystery," which has baffled the police for a long time, received new interest today by the discovery of the fully dressed body of a woman in the Moat house at Saffron Walden. This body is supposed to be that of Miss Camille Holland, an aged wealthy woman who owned Moat house and who disappeared several years ago.

Miss Holland lived at Moat house for several months in 1898-'99 with a man named Dougal, who was popularly supposed to be her husband, but who, it afterwards transpired, was not married to her. Subsequently a Miss Dougal, supposed to be Dougal's daughter, took up her residence at the Moat house. Some time afterward Miss Holland mysteriously disappeared.

Then Dougal brought suit for divorce against the woman supposed to be his daughter, but who really was his wife. This led to suspicion concerning the fate of Miss Holland and an active search for her was made, but no trace of her was found until today. Dougal recently was arrested while trying to cash a check signed by Miss Holland. He is now in jail.

BRITISH MINISTRY IS UPHELD.

House of Commons Refuses to Pass a Motion of Censure by Vote of 316 to 182.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 27.—The house of commons spent several hours today debating the vote of censure against the government moved by H. H. Asquith in behalf of the opposition condemning the ministry's inaction on the reference of the prolonged industrial dispute in Penrhyn's slate quarries in north Wales, and demanding prompt intervention to secure a just settlement. The ministry was finally indorsed by a vote of 316 to 182.

Asquith said the matter was of national concern, yet the government folded its hands and doggedly refused to allow the board of trade to exercise the powers conferred on it by the conciliation act of 1896.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, liberal leader, supported Asquith, and Prime Minister Balfour wound up in behalf of the government. He denied that the present labor dispute was merely a question of administrative discretion. Lord Penrhyn did not object to his men organizing themselves as they pleased, but he did object to a trade union committee professing to represent the whole body of workmen, and he (Balfour) thought Lord Penrhyn was right.

CHINA REFUSES CZAR'S DEMANDS.

Government at Pekin Rejects Proposal to Surrender Province of Manchuria.

RUSSIA ENTERS A DENIAL.

United States Files Formal Protest and Insists That Treaty Be Lived Up To.

gorical answer by the Russian foreign office to inquiries regarding the eight demands which are said to have been made on China in connection with Manchuria. If borne out by subsequent information, it will meet in a large degree the desires of the United States.

It was in relation to the first two demands that the United States was interested particularly, and it was these demands which prompted it to address notes of inquiry and protest to St. Petersburg and Pekin. They involved severe restrictions to American trade and the United States therefore was prompt to protest. The assurance of the Russian foreign office seems to set at rest any serious menace in that respect.

The replies of the Russians regarding the other demands also caused a feeling of relief here and the hope of the officials is that Russia's position is fully and correctly set forth.

France Likes American Attitude.

PARIS, April 27.—The official statement that the American government does not intend to join the powers in opposing the Russian demands, but will confine its action to safeguarding its own commercial interests, has created a favorable feeling here. Officials here say Russia's action has been less radical than appeared at first.

It is stated that Russia's demands do not mean a termination of the open door policy, but only a continuance under Russian administration of similar restrictions now imposed by China.

In government quarters unmistakable sympathy with the Russian attitude is shown. It is claimed that Russian interests in Manchuria and its proximity to Siberia entitle Russia to take supervisory steps.

Another Boxer Rising Feared.

BERLIN, April 27.—The Cologne Volks Zeitung today prints a letter from a Catholic missionary in Shan Tung province, China, saying that a new sect, similar to the boxers, has assumed enormous proportions in Kiang Naen. Eighty per cent of the population already are members, including many soldiers and officials. A wholesale rising of the population against foreigners is feared.

Irish Denounce Secretary Hay.

New York, April 27.—The United Irish societies of New York City have adopted and sent to President Roosevelt a resolution protesting against the reported action of Secretary Hay in instructing the United States minister to Pekin to reject the demands of Russia in Manchuria. The resolution declares that such action is fraught with peril to the United States and is taken at the instance of England to promote interests which are not American. President Roosevelt was asked to note that the course of the state department "since John Hay assumed control of it has been and still is dictated by a sole purpose to serve British at the expense of American interests."

PARIS, April 27.—The success of the first day's sale of the Le Long collection, composed of pictures and engravings, exceeded expectations. The total sum realized amounted to $165,000. The sensational price of the day was for two portraits by Drouais, which were sold separately with the right to the buyer of the first to acquire the second at the same price. They were finally sold to Ducry for $12,000 each. He bought for a collector who is desirous to remain anonymous.

BOGUS PRINCE IS DENOUNCED.

Mother-in-Law Testifies Against Husband of Former Countess Russell—Defendant Denies Charge.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PORTSMOUTH, April 27.—The case of William Brown, the son of a coachman, who under the name of Prince Athrobald Stuart de Modena married the former Countess Russell here some months ago and who was arrested recently on the charge of having made a false entry in the marriage register, was resumed in court here today. The courtroom was crowded, Lady Scott, the mother of the former Countess Russell, being present.

Barrister Williamson, presenting the case for the treasury, stated that Brown was introduced to Countess Russell as Capt. Athrobald Stuart. He represented himself as a son of the Austrian emperor and said he had been educated at Sandhurst. He wanted the marriage kept quiet, as he said he would not come into his money until the 30th of this month. He described himself in the marriage register as being 31 years of age, a widower, and the son of Franz Josef de Modena.

Lady Scott testified that Brown represented that he had an income of $40,000 a year. He said his father, the emperor, was a wicked old man. After the marriage of her daughter they lived in a fashionable hotel in the west end of London. He left them after a disagreement on Christmas day.

Brown said that after his arrest he had hoped that the former countess would have got a separation while he was away. Later the prisoner told a detective that he had been dragged into the marriage. He said he had no idea of committing any offense. The prisoner was committed for trial at the June assizes.

ROOSEVELT IS ALONE IN RACE.

So Says Senator Scott of West Virginia in an Interview Given in Berlin.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

BERLIN, April 27.—In an interview today Senator N. B. Scott of West Virginia, a member of the national republican committee, gave his views on the approaching presidential election. He said: "There's no other candidate in the field except Mr. Roosevelt. In regard to the court decision declaring the Northern Securities merger invalid, I cannot believe that it will add to the harmonious feeling in the republican ranks, although it makes Roosevelt strong with the people. I believe Grover Cleveland would be a strong democratic candidate and the best man the party can put up."

LIPTON WATCHES RELIANCE.

Owner of Shamrock III. Says if Columbia Is Finally Chosen He Would Be Doubly Confident.

LONDON, April 27.—Sir Thomas Lipton takes keen interest in the performances of Reliance. He said today: "From the accounts cabled here the defender's sails are not yet properly fitted, and as the sails constitute the yacht's horsepower it would be obviously premature to criticise the trial spins. I hope they will get as much out of the yacht as possible, and that the best defender will be selected without any such accidents as happened to me. I feel quite confident that the Shamrock III. will be able to hold its own against the best boat that can be built. If America should once more be forced to rely on Columbia I shall merely feel doubly confident."

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing If It Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer.

I am a specialist in Rheumatism, and have treated more cases than any other physician, I think. For 16 years I made 2,000 experiments with different drugs, testing all known remedies while searching the world for something better. Nine years ago I found a costly chemical in Germany which, with my previous discoveries, gives me a certain cure.

I don't mean that it can turn bony joints into flesh again; but it can cure the disease at any stage, completely and forever. I have done it fully 100,000 times.

I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal for my book on Rheumatism, and I will mail you an order on your druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure. Take it for a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself—and your mere word shall decide it.

I mean that exactly. If you say the results are not what I claim, I don't expect a penny from you.

I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met. And in all my experience—in all my 2,000 tests—I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten.

Write me and I will send you the order. Try my remedy for a month, as it can't harm you anyway. If it fails it is free.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 670, Racine, Wis.

BARRETT STOPS EVASON BETTING.

But the Sheriff Does Not Act Till the Gamblers Have Made a "Cleanup."

MERELY GIVES WARNING.

Bookmakers Confident They Will Be Allowed to Sell Pools at the Tracks.

Time—1:55 yesterday afternoon.
Scene—Union station. Sheriff Barrett and seven deputies on right. Two hundred people preparing to board train for Evason. "Dan" O'Leary, Jim Barnett, and Sol Van Praag in foreground.
Sheriff Barrett (mounting car steps)—"It's no use, fellows. No pool selling will be allowed at Evason. You might as well go home. This goes."
Groans from crowd. Large number of people wearing "dizzy" waistcoats and "horay" scarfpins buying tickets for Lakeside, while seven deputies board the train and leave for the Evason poolroom.

Yes, the Evason poolroom was closed, but not until after it had enjoyed three weeks of prosperity and the gamblers had made a "cleanup."

On his return from a prolonged stay at West Baden a great white light diffused its rays on Sheriff Barrett and he awoke to the awful realization that the law was being violated. Having sworn to support the laws, Mr. Barrett concluded that the gamblers had made enough money to last them for awhile, so he closed them up.

Merely a Warning; No Raid.

It was not necessary to raid the place, though preparations had been made to do so. The sheriff and his subordinates reached the Union station shortly before 10 o'clock, expecting to take the train for Evason. Waiting for the train to pull out were Barnett, O'Leary, Van Praag, and some 200 others. "Paddy" Ryan, who is said to have been the promoter of the Evason poolroom, was not present.

The sheriff notified the gamblers that he intended to close the poolroom, so they left for Lakeside, and the deputies went on to Evason on the special train that has been chartered by the promoters of the poolroom since it was opened three weeks ago, with the beginning of racing at Lakeside.

Mr. Barrett Explains.

"I have no idea that the place will resume operation," said Sheriff Barrett. "If it does I—I—why, I will close it up."

"Will you stop pool selling elsewhere?"

"I am here to enforce the laws when complaints are made," was the reply. "What's the use of crossing a bridge till you come to it?"

"But it was said by 'Ben' Barnett that there was an understanding with you whereby the Evason poolroom would be permitted to enjoy a monopoly."

"I don't even know Barnett. There was no understanding between the pool sellers and the sheriff's office."

As the Gamblers See It.

"Sheriff Barrett might not have interfered had not the question been agitated, but he has closed the place and that will be an end to it in my opinion," said one gambler. "The promoters of the Evason room will have a neat little sum to their profit, and no harm has been done. Had not the resort been closed similar places soon would have been in operation, and a bitter war would have followed, to the detriment of the racing interests."

"Of course there will be pools sold on the Chicago racetracks," said another bookmaker. "Public sentiment is not opposed to betting at the tracks, for without the hazard the flavor to the sport would be lost. Sheriff Hagerstadt took the position that there was a vast difference between pool selling at the tracks and in a place like the one at Evason. In the first instance he believed that the wagers were legitimate, and in the second that a gambling house was being operated. I see no reason why Sheriff Barrett should hold opposite views."

MANY LIVING IN BIGAMY AS RESULT OF IGNORANCE.

Lithuanians of the West Side Colony Said to Believe That Marriage Obligations End After Six Months.

Sharing their matrimonial affairs on the belief that a marriage is annulled by law after six months, many members of the Lithuanian colony on the west side are said to be living as bigamists. This condition was revealed yesterday, when Anton Kovalsky and Mary Colukous were taken into Justice Sabath's court, charged with bigamy.

Kovalsky and the young woman came to Chicago from Spring Valley, Ill., March 13, and were married by Justice Murphy in the County building. The ceremony was witnessed by Victor Yuter, 60 Barber street, and by John Marcunus, 52 Barber street. A few days later the mother of the bride caused their arrest. Kovalsky admitted that he has a wife and child in the old country, while the woman did not deny that she had a husband in Spring Valley.

"But we were told by our friends," said Kovalsky yesterday, "that the law in America was different from that of the old country and that after six months of married life we were at liberty to part and remarry."

Justice Sabath then was told that the misunderstanding of the marriage laws was common among the Lithuanians. Professional interpreters and, it was said, others would induce couples to separate after a period of six months' marriage and then arrange for them to remarry, charging a fee for their advice and aid. The interpreters, it was charged, would act as spokesmen in securing the marriage licenses and also at the marriage ceremony.

"I will continue further proceedings until Thursday and in the meantime I want some of the alleged victims summoned before me," said Justice Sabath. "I want to hear the details from their own lips and I will then decide what action should be taken."

REPORT ON MULLIN MYSTERY.

Detectives Declare the Man Found in the River Was Not Murdered—Funeral Is Held.

"Ambrose B. Mullin was not murdered," was the statement made to Lieut. McWeeny last night by Detectives Walsh and Mullen. This was the first official declaration in the mystery of the disappearance of Mr. Mullin on Feb. 2, his body being found in the river last Friday.

Mr. Mullin's father declares the younger man was murdered, but the police say the wounds on the body "might have been made in any of a dozen different ways. Robbery was not the motive of the crime, if crime there was, say the police. Mr. Mullin's valuable watch was not missing.

Mr. Mullin's funeral was held yesterday from St. Catherine's church, Austin. The edifice was crowded with friends and relatives of the former shoe manufacturer. Solemn high mass was sung by Father Cannell, assisted by Father Morris, deacon, and Father Kennedy, subdeacon. Father Campbell preached the funeral sermon and spoke of the life of Mr. Mullin. Interment was at Calvary.

ROOSEVELT IS PRAISED.

GRANT DAY ORATORS TAKE OCCASION TO SPEAK OF PRESIDENT.

Assistant Attorney General Beck Says Much of His Success Is Due to Ability of Philander C. Knox, Who Has Not Lost a Great Case Since His Appointment—Secretary Moody Predicts Fate of Corporation Candidate Who May Venture Into the Field.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 27.—[Special.]—At the Grant banquet of the Americus club tonight Assistant Attorney General Beck, who was the orator of the evening, after paying a tribute to Grant and Lincoln, said that Roosevelt's popularity and ability assured his renomination and reelection, and added that much of the president's success was due to the ability of Attorney General Knox.

Of President Roosevelt and Attorney General Knox Mr. Beck said: "Friends and enemies alike concede today that no political event is better assured than the renomination of Theodore Roosevelt. Unquestionably the president owes his enduring and widespread popularity primarily and chiefly to his own unwearying energy and dauntless courage.

"Premising this, let me add that Theodore Roosevelt owes much to the wise guidance and courageous action of Philander C. Knox. When he became attorney general the republican party was confronted with a growing distrust as to its purpose with respect to oppressive and unlawful conditions.

Trusts Subdued by Knox.

"What an extraordinary change has been wrought in a few years. These lawless combinations have ceased to be arrogant, and the government has ceased to be either apologetic or timid.

"In his two years of service the attorney general has never failed to win a victory in every important case, and it is little to say that in no two years have more important legal and constitutional principles been firmly established."

Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture made a statistical address on matters pertaining to his department, and told of the great strides the United States has made in the last century in the matter of food production.

Civil Service Commissioner William D. Foulke, Willis L. Moore, and several men of local prominence also spoke.

Fears for Trust Candidate.

Boston, Mass., April 27.—[Special.]—"Grant night" at the Middlesex club here was marked by some notable speeches by various men prominent in party affairs. Secretary of the Navy Moody, speaking for the administration, after reviewing the Northern Securities merger case, said: "There are people who bitterly denounce the president for his action in this case. These same people are claiming that the president is not a safe man. These same men are searching the country over for a man to take President Roosevelt's place.

"The republican party," declared Mr. Moody, "has many men who could take the presidency, but they will not. I pity the man who is beguiled into becoming the candidate of those who are opposed to the president, because when the national convention and the election are over there will not be enough of that candidate left, even with the proper admixture of wind and water, to be incorporated under the laws of New Jersey."

Galena Hears Omaha Orator.

Galena, Ill., April 27.—[Special.]—The eleventh annual celebration of Grant's birthday was held here today and tribute paid to the memory of Galena's great hero.

William F. Gurley of Omaha was the orator of the occasion today, and as his reputation as a speaker had preceded him the large hall was crowded to its utmost capacity.

Mr. Gurley, in the opening words of his address, told of Grant's failures and discouragements up to the time the civil war threw him into the middle of affairs as a soldier and then he reviewed the character of the commander.

Paints Character of Grant.

In speaking of the character of Grant he said:

"The forces which made Grant great were elemental. He was endowed with that simplicity which is the intuitive wisdom of great men. He never accomplished by effort. Men do those things well which are in accord with their nature. When Grant overthrew he acted in response to a secret power, and therefore worked along the line of least resistance. It would have been difficult for Grant to retreat. To advance to conquer was to do that which was in harmony with his nature. He had no genius for defense."

Grant Banquet at Des Moines.

Des Moines, Ia., April 27.—[Special.]—A large number of distinguished guests from all over the state attended the annual banquet of the Grant club this evening.

Clark Howell of the Atlanta Constitution was the orator of the evening. He spoke at some length on Grant's life and achievements, giving special attention to his greatness in peace and his desire to hasten the reconstruction of the south.

Mr. Howell declared that the peace that Grant worked for had come and would abide. He paid a high tribute to the late President McKinley for appointing the southern generals to high places in the army of the united nation at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

JANITORS READY TO FIGHT

SEND "ULTIMATUM" TO W. K. YOUNG & BRO., WHO SIGN.

Announce Their Intention of Sending a Similar Notice to H. O. Stone & Co. Today and of Striking if the Agreement Is Not Indorsed at Once—Strike in Melrose Flats in Lake View Won After a Few Hours.

Troubles are in store for flat dwellers throughout the city in apartment houses where the owner has not signed the working agreement of the flat janitors' union. The janitors have declared war on all who refuse to recognize them.

The campaign opened yesterday with a successful attack on W. K. Young & Bro., a firm that has control of over 170 flats on the south side. An ultimatum is to be presented to H. O. Stone & Co. today.

Business Agent Feathers of the union accused Young & Bro. of bad faith. He said the firm was a party to the working agreement signed by the real estate board and the union, but later refused to recognize the agreement. A member of the firm said that the last of April was not the proper time for such matters, as all the time was taken up by business.

Feathers then framed an "ultimatum" and sent it with the agreement to G. H. Young, informing him that if the signature of the firm was not on the agreement by 3 o'clock in the afternoon every one of the janitors would stop work and the flats would be picketed.

About 3 o'clock Feathers visited the office of the firm and soon departed with the signed agreement. News was sent to various buildings declaring the fight off.

Strike at Melrose Flats.

Early in the morning Business Agent Baueens, who has charge of the north shore locals of the union, opened the fight in his district by serving notice on all the owners who have failed to recognize him. On Sunday afternoon he scored what he asserts is the first distinct victory for the union in his section of the city.

On Saturday afternoon Baueens had handed an agreement to S. Harmstrom of the Melrose flats, Evanston avenue and Melrose street. At 4 o'clock it was not signed and the two janitors were called out, the fires died down, and the house telephone went unanswered.

"We want hot water," came from one tenant.

"Can't give it to you; the janitors are on a strike," came the reply.

An indignation meeting was held and Harmstrom was told that something should be done. Harmstrom stood it as long as his patience would allow and then signed.

Complaint Against Stone & Co.

The fight against H. O. Stone & Co. is to be waged for similar reasons as those against the Young firm. The janitors say the company was a party to the real estate agreement, but has refused to deal with them.

Oakland Hotel Owner Winning.

Although the pickets were kept around the Oakland hotel all day, the state of war had almost ceased. Proprietor Hutchinson has found his new plan of running the elevators and pumps with a gas engine so successful that he has no use for an engineer, and he says he will not pay any attention to the union's demand that he employ one. The efforts of the steam engineers to call out the other help and to stop the delivery of supplies have been unsuccessful. The Cooks' union withdrew from the fight by refusing to expel Peter Christianson, the chef, who would not strike at the bidding of Business Agent Fisher.

UNINCORPORATED UNION MAY BE SUED, SAYS A COURT.

Important Ruling Is Made in Furniture Workers' Injunction Case at Evansville, Ind.

Evansville, Ind., April 27.—In the furniture workers' injunction case today Judge Foster, in sustaining a demurrer of one of the furniture companies to the furniture workers' plea in abatement, held that a union, even in its unincorporated condition, may be sued when the suit pertains to questions affecting the relations of the union members to public safety and order.

The ruling is regarded as of great importance. Further action will be taken on Thursday.

The furniture manufacturers have refused to submit their differences with the strikers to a board of arbitration, and Labor Commissioner McCormack, who was here, has gone to Terre Haute. The strikers made several concessions, but still hold out for an increase

Year Sentence for a Policeman.

Policeman John Keene, who shot Charles Bell, a colored prisoner in the Warren avenue police station, was sentenced to one year in the house of correction yesterday by Judge Holdom. Bell, who had been arrested for burglary, charged that an overcoat which he was accused of taking could be found in the possession of Keene. The policeman learned of the charge, went to the Warren avenue station, and shot through the bars of the cell in which Bell was locked. Keene attempted to show that the shooting was accidental. He pleaded guilty to the charge and asked for re-

CLERIC ARBITERS MAKE UNION SICK

Board of Clergymen Decides Demands of Stockyards Engineers.

LITTLE FOR THE MEN.

Wages 7½ Cents Below the Scale and Hours Twelve Instead of Eight.

Three ministers settled a labor dispute yesterday after two months of deliberation, and last night members of the union involved agreed that in the future they will leave the adjustment of their troubles to "men who have technical knowledge of the points at issue."

The ministers were chosen as an arbitration board to decide whether the demands of the engineers at the stockyards should be granted. Both sides pleaded their case, outside evidence was heard, and the decision binds both parties.

Now the engineers are wondering what it all was for and what they got out of it. They asked for 37½ cents an hour—the standard scale of the city—and got 30 cents. They asked for the eight hour day—the regular day in practically all of the downtown stores and factories—and they got a twelve hour day.

Have a Little Consolation.

Some little consolation was offered to the engineers by two recommendations from the board which, however, neglected to demand that they be fulfilled. These ask the packers so to arrange their business that the eight hour day can be put into effect and that they make their engine rooms large, well ventilated, and sanitary.

The board that made these findings was the first of its kind to take up a local labor dispute, and its findings were watched with interest. It began its meetings two months ago, and, save during the Easter season, held from two to four sessions a week. It heard both sides and many impartial witnesses, who testified as to labor conditions generally.

It was composed as follows:

Arbiter—Father E. A. Kelly of St. Cecelia's church.

Representing the packers—The Rev. M. W. Haynes of the Belden Avenue Baptist church.

Representing the men—The Rev. W. M. Lawrence of the Second Baptist church.

Board Sets Forth Basis of Work.

The board, in the announcement of its award, stated the principles on which it worked in the following language:

"We recognize the fact that we are selected as a board of arbitration because we are not engaged in commercial relations, and by reason of our profession as religious teachers would view the matters submitted to us from the standpoint of justice, unaffected by business or political associations. While we are not confident that our decision will be satisfactory to both parties, and perhaps to neither, yet we wish to express our appreciation of the confidence reposed in us."

After giving its decision regarding wages and hours the board offered the following advice to both the union and the packers:

The principles of personal liberty should not be subverted. Therefore, the union, while it may show to every man of its craft that it will be beneficial to join its membership, should not, however, attempt to coerce any one to come into its ranks, nor interfere with him for not doing so. Every man should be gauged by his ability to give satisfaction to his employer by performing an honest day's work, and the employer should recognize this by guaranteeing to such a man his position so long as he thus fulfills his duties.

Last night the engineers discussed the findings at a meeting held at 79 Randolph street. All were sarcastic, though none of them doubted that the ministers had done their best in handing down what one of the men termed "the worst that ever happened."

"It's fierce," exclaimed one.

"It's the limit," declared another.

"What does it give us?" queried one. "Simply a lot of good advice."

"You forget that it declares that we shall not work seven days a week unless we request that privilege," broke in another.

"That's right—we do get a holiday."

The business agents of the organization were reluctant to talk about the decision on the ground that they had accepted the board and should agree to its findings. "But we'll have no more ministers in ours," declared Business Agent Neil McCallum, and the others nodded assent.

Young Intends to Resign.

President Albert Young of the teamsters announced that he intends to resign from the leadership of that union on Thursday, when the national executive board meets. If he does the other members declare they will not accept it and will force him to remain in office.

"I am tired of this constant squabbling," said Young. "I have an opportunity to better myself and consider this constant bickering nonsensical. The teamsters have to bear the brunt of every fight and some of our members think we should do it. When we oppose them they complain and cause trouble and I have grown tired of it all."

Gasworkers Oppose Arbitration.

An element of the gasworkers at a meeting held in Horan's hall last night decided to fight the offer of arbitration accepted for them by the Chicago Federation of Labor. Some of them said they had tried to return to work and were refused their former places. This made them indignant and last night they decided to fight until the company reinstates them all.

TIE UP MOTOR VEHICLE PLANT.

Employes in a Tangle of Religion and Unionism and Strike Is the Result.

For two years the employés of the Chicago Motor Vehicle company at Harvey, Ill., have declared that their work is the easiest in the county. The firm is controlled by Seventh Day Adventists and when its employés refused to work on Saturday instead of Sunday it gave them both days off. As a recompense the men agreed to work ten and one-half hours a day.

The order was satisfactory until the men became members of unions and now trouble has appeared. Two weeks ago the machinists, iron molders, and brass workers filed agreements with the firm asking for a nine hour day. This was refused on the grounds that the two Sundays made conditions different from those in ordinary shops. The firm asked the employés to withdraw from their unions; instead all went on a strike.

Over 200 men quit work yesterday morning and tied up the plant. President W. R. Donaldson of the firm and the business agents held a meeting to talk the matter over, but reached no conclusion. A plan was suggested late in the day that may settle the trouble. This involves the withdrawal of the nonunion request and a vote of the men to decide whether they are willing to withdraw the nine hour day demand. It will be submitted to both sides today.

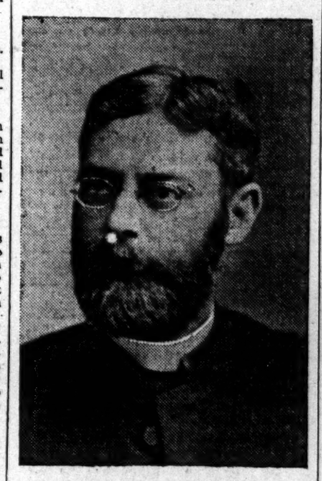

After equipping its ore docks with improved unloading machinery for the rapid handling of ore cargoes from vessels, the Illinois Steel company has been compelled to return to the slow and costly method of unloading with shovels on account of a disagreement over the wage schedule with its hoisting engineers. Last fall the hoisting engineers, who had been receiving 32 cents an hour for a twelve hour day, put in an asked 37 cents an hour. This spring new men were employed, and yesterday they demanded higher pay. Ten of them were discharged by Supt. McCullough. The men employed last year have appealed to the National Longshoremen's union for aid, and President Keefe is expected to arrive in a few days to settle the matter. Unless a satisfactory settlement is reached it is probable that all marine workers in the employ of the steel company will be called out.

BISHOP TAYLOR OF QUINCY DEAD

Illinois Prelate of the Episcopal Church Dies at Sanitarium at Kenosha, Wis.

Quincy, Ill., April 27.—[Special.]—Bishop Frederick William Taylor of the Quincy diocese of the Episcopal church is dead at Kenosha sanitarium of acute Bright's disease.

Bishop Tayor was one of the best known and most prominent men in his church as a pulpit orator, lecturer, and writer. He was born in Toledo, O., on Jan. 11, 1853, was graduated from Western Reserve at Hudson, O., in 1873, and from the General Theological seminary of New York in 1876. He was ordained deacon by Bishop Bedell at Grace church in Cleveland on July 5, 1876, and served as a missionary until October of that year, after which he went abroad for seven months' travel and study. His ordination as priest took place in the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City on Sept. 30, 1877, Bishop Horatio Potter officiating. One year he served with the Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, now bishop of Los Angeles, who was then at Highland, Ulster county, N. Y.

When George F. Seymour was consecrated bishop of Springfield the Rev. Mr. Taylor came west with him, and became rector of Holy Trinity church in Danville, Ill. From September, 1886, until Aug. 6, 1901, he was rector of St. Paul's pro-cathedral in Springfield, Ill. On the latter date he was consecrated bishop of the Quincy diocese.

A painter's trick
Not long ago a painter bought four gallons of Devoe ready paint, thinned it with two gallons of linseed oil, and painted a job one coat. Every painter who saw it said it was a two-coat job.
"That's all the far the story goes," as Uncle Remus said. We don't know whether it was a good job or not; we should call it priming. Maybe the house didn't need painting; a priming coat is enough if it's put on often enough.
But if that painter had set out to do us a favor he couldn't have done better; one priming coat of Devoe looks like a two-coat job; to painters. Looks as if you'd better use Devoe, doesn't it? But we don't recommend one coat where two or three are needed.

NAME 'HEALTH KICK' DAY

CITY AUTHORITIES SELECT NEXT MONDAY AFTERNOON.

Citizens Are Invited to Go to the City Hall with Their Protests—No Formal Charges Have Been Filed and the Investigation Depends on the People—Hull House Is Expected to Play an Active Part Before Civil Service Board.

The "day of kicks" has been determined on and announced officially. All good citizens with complaints against the health department are summoned by official proclamation to assemble in the city council chamber next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and lay their troubles before the civil service commission.

At that time the commissioners will undertake to hear all charges which may be made against the health officials, especially against the bureau of inspection.

If your landlord has refused to make sanitary improvements and if complaints to the health department has not produced results the commissioners will find out why.

If you believe that the health of your community has been imperiled by conditions in the neighborhood you have the opportunity to explain the matter to the commission.

Any and all charges against the department will be heard and sifted and the methods of the officials will be given a thorough overhauling. No charges have been filed and the results of the investigation depend entirely on the evidence which is submitted by citizens and sustained by their testimony.

The official proclamation announcing that citizens should come forward with complaints was issued yesterday. Hull house will furnish testimony in a line with that published in the sanitary report. Ald. Snow and Butterworth are likely to be witnesses and testify as to matters which came under their attention while conducting an investigation of the building department—where the line of evidence connected the building with the health department.

Lacking in "Garbage Education."

Commissioner Blocki and Supt. Doherty have learned by investigation in Washington and Baltimore that the citizens of eastern cities are better educated in matters pertaining to the disposal of garbage and the city better able to handle its end of the proposition than in Chicago. Conditions also were found to be better than in Chicago.

The two officials have returned from a trip to the east for the purpose of investigating street cleaning and garbage disposal. As a result of their investigation both urge the completion of the garbage cremation plant at the bridewell.

Traction officials took up the matter of laying "Trilby" grooved rails with Commissioner Blocki during the day. The assertion is made that this type of rail cannot be secured within six months, and a delay is asked for this reason. President Roach of the Union Traction company visited Mr. Blocki in regard to the matter. The city railway explained that the failure to put down "Trilby" rails in Sixty-third street, east of Cottage Grove avenue, was due to the fact that the track is simply being raised and that a new track is not being put down.

Blames the South Park Board.

The south park board is blamed by Track Elevation Superintendent John O'Neill for delaying the acceptance of the Chicago Junction ordinance, which provides for the extension of the south side elevated road and for the elevation of railroad tracks through Englewood.

The Western Indiana and the Pennsylvania roads have filed acceptances. The Chicago Junction and the South Side elevated have not.

"The park board wants electric lights under boulevard subways and wants the engines to whistle when they reach boulevards," said Mr. O'Neill. "For these requirements they are holding up the ordinance."

There is still thirty days for acceptance, but according to Mr. O'Neill the two roads which are holding out now are not likely to agree to the ordinance unless the south park board withdraws its requirements.

SEIZES SADIE GIRLS' CLOTHES.

Constable Causes Embarrassment to Anna Held's Flock and Virginia Neal Gets Revenge.

While the Sadie girls were on the stage of the Grand opera house Saturday night, there was trouble behind the scenes. Philip Spiro, a constable, was levying on twenty-five costumes needed in the next act. The constable was only waiting for a wagon in which to haul the costumes away, when a replevin writ was brought and served.

The difficulty arose over the discharge of Virginia Neal for being "saucy" to the stage manager. The manager promptly fined her $5. This she resented, whereupon she was discharged. Miss Neal insisted that her contract entitled her to an extra week's pay of $22, in lieu of "notice" and transportation to New York.

Her attorneys figured up the bill, including costs, to $124, got judgment, and Constable Spiro was given a writ from Justice Richardson's court. After he served it Justice Hall was reached and he issued the replevin writ. The case will be heard before him May 5. The company without Miss Neal has gone on its travels.

DURING this week, when the children who attend the Chicago public schools are enjoying their spring vacation, we offer exceptional values in all lines of juvenile apparel. FIFTY SECOND HAND PARLOR ORGANS, taken in exchange for Vose Pianos, must be moved immediately; have no room to store them. We'll give you your choice of the lot, free of all cost, charging only expense of delivery and for time necessary to put the organ in playing condition, about $10.

TWENTY-FIVE SECOND HAND SQUARE PIANOS, leading makes, Steinway, Weber, Kranich & Bach, Vose, etc., all in good condition; price $30 to $50; terms $5 cash and $1 weekly.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY, to get a fine practice piano for what you would pay as rental, and in from six months to a year the piano is yours; we'll allow what you paid for it on the price of a new piano any time within a year.

WHEN YOU WANT positively the highest piano value that your dollars will buy—get a Vose. There's more tone quality in a Vose piano than in any other piano manufactured. Don't take our word for it—come in and hear the Vose tone for yourself.

VOSE PIANOS ARE SOLD DIRECT to you by the makers—it is reasonable to expect the manufacturer can give more value for your dollars than a dealer who buys from a maker and has to pay the maker's profit as well as his own.

You are cordially invited to call and inspect our splendid offerings, or to write us for detailed particulars.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

GREATEST VALUES EVER OFFERED IN PIANOS!

24 different makes of pianos, including Steinway, Knabe, Mason & Hamlin, Miller, Hazelton, Krakauer, Fischer, and other great names are exhibited side by side in Lyon & Healy's warerooms. All these different pianos are distinguished by some special features. The workmanship in each is of a superior character and every one of these pianos is of a design approved by the highest standard of public taste.

Lyon & Healy at the present time exhibit over 600 pianos of these makes and can suit each purchaser to a nicety. There is no shade of tone, no refinement of touch and action known to a piano that they cannot show you. And there is no variety of mahogany, oak, walnut, ebony, or any durable fancy wood that Lyon & Healy cannot find for you in this unexampled stock. It is well to note that the various terms employed in describing pianos take on a new meaning in Lyon & Healy's. For instance, one can form no idea of how beautiful mahogany may be until he sees the superbly marked mahogany cases in their stock.

GOLF SOD IS A COURT ISSUE.

Evanston Exercised Over the Question of Who Owns Grass on Putting Greens.

Evanston is exercised over a new issue. Here it is: To whom does the sod on putting greens belong—to the golf club that has kept the green in condition or to the owner of the property?

The conflict of opinion is between Harvey B. Hurd, trustee of property formerly used by the Evanston Golf club, and the officials of the club. Yesterday five workmen were arrested while removing sod from the putting green on the old club grounds. Hurd charges them with larceny and the case will be heard today.

The officials of the club contend that the sod belongs to the club, which cared for it and kept it in condition. Mr. Hurd declares that improvements must go with the property.

ROBBED BY OBLIGING STRANGER

Prisoner's Wife Raids Baby's Bank to Free Husband, Then Learns She Was Swindled.

After Mrs. John C. Kulling had robbed her baby's bank to get money to pay her husband's fine, she learned that the obliging stranger who had offered to "square" matters with the court was a fraud. Kulling was fined $20 and sent to jail because he had sold liquor to a man who is in the habit of indulging too freely.

Mrs. Kulling was in their saloon at 3017 Broad street Saturday morning, when a well dressed stranger, who said his name was Murphy, entered and told her that if he had the money to pay the fine he could get the jail sentence set aside. The woman had only a few dollars in the saloon, and her child's bank contributed enough more to make $8.

Murphy took the money and promised to meet her at the county jail at noon. The woman borrowed $12 and went to the jail, but the stranger did not appear.

The prisoners, Frank and Louis Kirkeby, Adolph Lunstrum, William Beckman, and George Bocker, are from 10 to 12 years old, and say they went into the church to keep out of the rain, and then wrecked things "just for fun."

GREENBERG'S BOND RULED OUT

Constable Must Furnish New Surety and Judge Carter Will Enter Order.

Constable Louis Greenberg failed to make good on his bond before Judge Carter yesterday and an order will be entered on Saturday compelling him to file a new bond of $10,000 within ten days. The order was based on information presented by J. H. Forsyth of the Anti-Constable and Anti-Justice Shop league. The contention was that the bondsmen furnished by the constable were not sufficient security.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

LAKE COMPETITION HURTS THE EAST BOUND LINES.

Immediate Result Is Expected to Be a Reduction in Rates, Especially on Flour and Grain, Thus Complying with the Interstate Commerce Commission's Ruling, Though It Is Denied That Finding Has Any Weight with Traffic Officials.

The competition of the lake lines for eastbound business is having a serious effect on the all rail lines. Their tonnage has been reduced 15 to 20 per cent within the last four weeks, and a reduction in the all rail rates on flour and grain is felt to be necessary if the railroads mean to make any kind of a showing during the summer.

Flour shipments have suffered the most during the week, due mainly to the closing up of the flouring mills at Minneapolis and other points in the west and northwest. It is now quite certain that a reduction in both flour and grain rates will be agreed upon at a meeting of the executive officers of the rail and lake transportation lines between Minneapolis, Chicago, and New York in this city tomorrow, and in anticipation of such action most of the Minneapolis mills resumed operations yesterday.

The decision rendered a few days ago by the interstate commission that grain and flour rates are too high has undoubtedly influenced the trunk lines to accede in a reduction of rates, but they will not admit this, but point out that natural conditions were bound to necessitate a reduction.

"In naming May 15," said a railroad official yesterday, "as the limit of time within which the subject must be settled, the commission has simply required of us that which we would have done anyway, and always do at this season of the year. So when these rates go down, as undoubtedly they will, there will be no justification for the commission to plume itself upon having effected something in the way of a reduction in rates."

In consequence of the falling off in business the eastbound roads are now well supplied with cars and there is not likely to be another freight blockade before next winter. Eastbound shipments of flour, grain, and provisions from Chicago by the all rail lines last week were as follows:

	Flour, barrels.	Grain, bushels.	Provisions, tons.
Last week	69,676	1,200,000	26,893
Last year	74,496	915,000	27,198

Santa Fe's Poor Showing.

The Santa Fé system made a poor showing during March. Instead of the expected increase in earnings, the statement just issued shows a net loss of nearly a quarter of a million dollars, which brings up the loss since the beginning of the fiscal year to over $1,000,000. The enormous increase in operating expenses is responsible for the decrease in net earnings, there having been an increase in gross earnings of nearly $500,000 for the month.

Following is a detached statement of earnings, expenses, etc.:

EIGHT RAILROADS ENJOINED.

United States Circuit Court at Kansas City Forbids Discrimination in Shipping Rates.

Kansas City, Mo., April 27.—Judge John F. Philips, in the United States Circuit court here today, granted a temporary injunction restraining the following eight named railroads from discriminating against small shippers: Chicago and Alton, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, Burlington and Quincy, Missouri Pacific, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, Wabash, and Chicago Great Western.

These cases presented the same question involved in similar cases passed upon by Judge Grosscup at Chicago on Friday last. As the demurrers in these cases were heard by Judge Grosscup and Judge Philips, sitting together, the brief opinion delivered by Judge Grosscup last Friday was the result of their conference and agreement.

Declares Rebates Unlawful.

The decision delivered by Judge Philips today, which was oral, maintains that the discriminations and rebates made and allowed by the railroad companies were violations of the interstate commerce law, and that they tended to create a monopoly in the shipment of grain and products in favor of the individual shipper, to the practical exclusion of all other dealers and like shippers, and that the question presented was whether or not a bill in equity, at the instance of the attorney general of the United States, on request of the interstate commerce commission, would lie to enjoin the defendants from further rebates and discriminations.

Government's Right to Enjoin.

The inclination of the mind of the court was that the acts done were not only violative of the interstate commerce statute but also the anti-trust statute; and that the government, in the capacity of a parent, representing all people concerned in the shipment of such products and for the public welfare, was entitled to appeal to its own courts to enjoin such violations of the law; that the bill known as the Elkins bill, under the decision of the Supreme court of the United States in Missouri Pacific railway company vs. United States, recently rendered, expressly confers jurisdiction upon the federal courts in equity both as to pending and future cases; that there can be no question of the right of the court to grant a temporary injunction in the cases pending, which will be done as on motions now entered, with leave to the defendants, if they desire, to take issue by answer as to the truth of the allegations of the bill.

Wabash Files Formal Answer.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—The Wabash railroad today filed with the interstate commerce commission an answer to orders of the commission regarding the recent advances in freight rates. The Wabash admits that these advances have operated to some extent to increase the total rates on such traffic from points west of the Missouri river to Chicago and Mississippi river points, but says the increase is only slight and is necessary and proper, considering cost of transportation and general conditions.

LEGISLATORS MUST PAY FARE.

"Soo" Railroad Notifies North Dakota Statesmen to Give Up Their Passes at Once.

St. Paul, Minn., April 27.—The "Soo" railway has notified the legislators of North Dakota to return all passes, as under the Elkins law railroad passes to state officials are illegal. This same action is expected in Minnesota and in all other states. State officials and legislators will pay their own railroad fare hereafter.

Cincinnati, O., April 27.—[Special.]—In a slugfest at League park this afternoon Chicago had all the better of it and put three of the "reds'" pitchers out of the running. The score at the end was, Chicago, 13; Cincinnati, 5.

The reds pinched off more hits than they have made in any game this season, but the Colts also used their sticks to advantage, and the result was Cincinnati was trimmed once more in the presence of 3,000 faithful.

The reds only gave four runs to the visitors, who, however, pounded every pitcher that faced them. Suthoff was the first to get a bumping, and Phillips followed. Wiggs was touched up for the last pair of runs.

For five innings Kelley's men had a look-in. Selee sent Aleck Hardy, the southpaw, who helped win the Eastern league flag for Toronto last year, to the slab, and he was harder hit than any pitcher the reds have yet encountered.

Chicago did not waste any time at the start. Suthoff passed Slagle and Chance succeeded in putting one through Corcoran. Steinfeldt took in Dobb's bounder, snapped back with the ball as Slagle passed him, and then threw to Beckley. Dobbs was out, but the little outfielder was adjudged safe. Tinker's drive to center sent two runs over the pan.

Kelley got one of them back, when he walked, took second on a passed ball, third when Kling dropped Seymour's third strike, and home on Chance's throw that Dr. Casey couldn't pull down. Although Donlin walked and Beckley squeezed a little single in front of the plate no more runs were made.

Steinfeldt's fumble of Lowe's rap in the next round blossomed into a run, for Suthoff hit Kling and Hardy got a Texas leaguer over Corcoran's head that sent the captain home. The rap seemed to anger Bergen, and he handed himself an error, permitting Kling and Hardy to advance.

Chance opened the third with a nice bunt, and Dobbs sacrificed. Then Tinker sent one past third and Chance came home. Casey cracked out a nice one that bounded away from Seymour and counted for three bases. Lowe was hit. The Colts' captain started for second, then turned back, and when Casey was finally hurried off third Morrissey saved his life by hitting the stand instead of Bergen's mitt, and Casey scored.

Kelley got around again in the reds' half on a walk and hits by Seymour and Donlin, but Beckley's sacrifice did no good, for neither Morrissey nor Corcoran could hit the ball out of the diamond.

The two rounds that Phillips pitched were jokes. Tinker's double, Lowe's triple, and Kling's single yielded two in the fifth, and Slagle's triple, singles by Dobbs, Tinker, and Lowe, and a wild throw by Phillips on Casey gave the Colts four more in the sixth.

The Colts' last runs were scored in the ninth, when Dobbs and Casey singled and came home on Evers' triple.

Pittsburg Wins the Game at St. Louis by a Score of Eleven to One.

St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—St. Louis' misplays in the field, coupled with the heavy hitting of the Pittsburgs, gave the Pirates the first game of the series. The final score was 11 to 1. M. J. O'Neill, who is usually hard for the Pirates, was hit hard. Kennedy held the cardinals down to five hits. Attendance, 4,000. Score:

WHITE SOX BEATEN, 8 TO 1

DECISIVELY OUTPLAYED IN THE FIRST GAME AT DETROIT.

Callahan Pitches, but Proves No Puzzle to the Leaders, Although He Is Given Poor Support—Five Thousand People See the Contest—Athletics' Indian Pitcher Shuts Out New York, with Griffith on the Slab—Washington Defeats Boston.

Detroit, Mich., April 27.—[Special.]—Detroit defeated Chicago today in the opening game of the series by a score of 8 to 1.

In the middle of the game the visitors threatened for a time, but then became peaceful again, after which 5,000 spectators who were on hand settled down comfortably to enjoy watching the league leaders whale the best that Callahan could give.

The visitors did nothing until the fifth inning, when Callahan put a hot one through Carr for a base and ran home when Jones doubled to center after Barrett had taken Dolan's fly. Green flew out to Gessler and Jones went to third base, but died there, as Hallman went out on an easy one which Mullin tossed to Carr. The one run scored in this inning was the only one of the game to the Chicagoans' credit.

For Detroit Elberfeld made the first score in the second after he had walked to first, and, Gessler and Yeager both being put out, McAllister hit a fly to center with which Jones could do nothing. McAllister scored when Mullin doubled past third. Mullin got no farther than third, as Barrett went out, Tannehill to Dolan.

The good work was followed up in the third, when Smith hit a hard one to Tannehill, who could not handle it, and Crawford hit through Callahan. Carr sacrificed and Elberfeld sent a grounder to Tannehill, who threw high to the plate, Smith and Crawford scoring.

The White Sox were playing ragged ball, and the unnecessary additional runs were secured by Detroit in the eighth inning without much difficulty. As an explanation for the poor work of the visitors it may be stated that they had a patched up team. Score:

Washington, D. C., April 27.—After Boston had outbatted Washington in the early stages of today's game Dineen, the visiting twirler, went to pieces in the eighth inning and sent two men to first on balls. Delehanty and Carey then singled and Demont doubled and won a good uphill game for the locals. Catcher Farrell, in attempting to steal second in the second inning, fractured his leg and will be out of the game for a long time. Score:

ILLINI PILE UP 17 RUNS.

CHAMPAIGN TEAM FINDS NORTHWESTERN AN EASY MARK.

Win Second Game of the Season, This Time at Evanston, by a Wide Margin—Suburban Pitchers Unable to Fool the Visiting Batters at Any Time in the Contest, Although It Is Not One Sided Until After the Sixth Inning.

Chicago	2	0	1.000	Northwestern	1	2	.333
Illinois	3	1	.750	Wisconsin	0	3	.000
Michigan	1	1	.500

Illinois overwhelmed Northwestern on Sheppard field yesterday for the second time this season by the score of 17 to 2. The score accurately represents the superiority of the men from Champaign, for the Evanston team was simply outclassed in every department. It couldn't hit the ball, made disastrous errors, and three of its pitchers tried in vain, one after another, to puzzle the Illinoisans. On the other hand, Illinois found Northwestern's curves to its liking and batted heavily and consistently. Stahl was the bright particular star, with Zangerle a close second, each of them making four hits and the same number of runs. Pitcher Miller was in fine form and struck out ten men.

Up to the sixth inning the game, while one sided, was not hopelessly so, but in that inning Illinois proceeded to show what it could do by piling up six runs. The substitution of Whiteside and Kurston in the seventh did not help matters, for all pitchers looked alike to the state university men and they added four more to their score.

GALE WRITES OF RELAY RACE.

Says Hall and Cahill Were Sent Out for the First Two Miles.

The disappointment of University of Chicago track athletes and "fans" over the result of the Pennsylvania relay meet was to some extent assuaged yesterday by the receipt of a letter from Eli Gale telling the story of Chicago's part in the race. Gale writes:

We had the other colleges guessing as to how we were going to run our men, and Mr. Stagg wouldn't even tell us till just before the race. Of course, we thought surely that the order would be Matthews, Gale, Cahill, and Hall. But, just to fool them, Mr. Stagg ran us just the other way around, and Hall took the first relay. The track was awful, and 'Dutch' won by but a yard from Keachie of Wisconsin, the others being close behind. Cahill won the second mile by about five yards, and things looked fine for the University of Chicago. But when Mort and Dutch were through we had played our trump cards.

Gale himself began to run lame after the first quarter of the third relay, the sprained tendon in his ankle telling on him, and he lost the lead that Hall and Cahill had made. Matthews ran well, but was unable to recover anything against the fast men left in the running.

Of the 100-yard dash Gale says:

Blair ran in fine form and finished just abreast of the crack easterners. The Harvard man was so sure that Clyde had won that he congratulated him on it. The three first men—Schick, Hahn, and Blair—surely did :09 4-5.

The team went to New York Saturday night. Coach Stagg is bringing the men home by way of Niagara Falls, and they will reach Chicago today.

McCoy's Manager Talks Loudly.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—George Grant, manager of Kid McCoy, makes charges against Bat Masterson, who acted as referee of the fight between Root and the "Kid." Grant says he has learned that Masterson lived in the house of Root's manager, Lou Houseman, and the scheme to hit McCoy a foul blow was all cooked and dried before the trio started for Detroit. Said Grant today: "Root fought foully from start to finish. The talk of Homer Selby squirting ammonia into Root's face is rot."

Final series in the team championship of the Illinois Bowling association tournament were rolled last night. The fine total of 2,875 made by the South Chicago team on April 17 was not approached, and Rooney and his veterans are now the champions. The Chicago league representatives finished second, and the stockyards men third. Interest in yesterday's play centered in the performances of five teams from other cities, but none of them showed to great advantage on the strange alleys. Waukegan did the best work, with a total of 2,611 pins. This only landed them in twenty-first place. Aurora, Rockford, and Joliet all bowled small totals. The Paint, Oil, and Varnish team, which rolled in the last squad, finished last.

The members of the winning team with their scores on April 17 were as follows: Moran, 187, 173, 180; McGlone, 211, 209, 196; Mason, 140, 207, 212; Funston, 171, 222, 167; Rooney, 175, 253, 172. Totals, 884, 1,064, 927—2,875.

Five players rolled their series in the individual championship. The scores:

Francis, Stone City league (Joliet)	159	165	229	553
Curry, Aurora	184	178	142	504
Hofmann, Joliet	146	182	202	530

BRITT TO FIGHT FITZGERALD.

Californian a 2 to 1 Favorite for Tonight's Battle—Slugging Match Is Expected.

San Francisco, Cal., April 27.—[Special.]—Great interest is shown here in the fight tomorrow night at Mechanics' pavilion between Jimmy Britt of San Francisco and Willie Fitzgerald of Brooklyn for the white lightweight championship. Both men are at weight and have trained well.

The ease with which Britt knocked out Frank Erne, combined with his own confidence, gives the local man a large following, and the betting is 2 to 1 in his favor, although it is not heavy. Britt's friends hope to see the odds reduced.

Fitzgerald is in fine shape and confident. He is picked to win by all the leading horsemen and other sports from the east.

Referee Eddie Graney has talked with both men, and it has been decided they must protect themselves when breaking away from clinches. Hence this battle may be a repetition of the fierce fight between Young Corbett and Terry McGovern, as both Britt and Fitzgerald are sluggers who prefer close fighting.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF THE RING.

Britt Favored in the Betting for His Fight with Fitzgerald Tonight—Duffy Is Matched.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

If the betting is any indication of the outcome of a contest, then Jimmy Britt is a sure winner over Willie Fitzgerald in the twenty round contest at San Francisco tonight. A week ago Britt was a 2 to 1 favorite, but this price was hammered down to 8 to 10 on Saturday and Sunday, but yesterday Britt's adherents came again and the odds again drifted to 2 to 1. The unexpected backing of Fitzgerald is attributed to "Young Corbett," who wired his coast friends to get down on Willie, as he would surely take Britt's measure.

The fight is causing an unusual amount of interest in 'Frisco, as Fitz is considered the toughest proposition Jimmy has been asked to meet. Reports have both boys on edge and a hard fight is anticipated.

Martin Duffy and "Rube" Ferns were yesterday matched to fight twenty rounds under the auspices of the Louisville Athletic club on May 11 at 142 pounds at 3 o'clock. The fight will take place regardless of the outcome of the Ferns-Matthews contest. Duffy has been trying to inveigle Matthews into a ten round bout at Pittsburg, but Harry Gilmore Jr., who looks after Duffy's interest, received word from the Smoky city that Matty wanted twenty rounds or nothing. Should Martin win from Ferns he will give Matthews a hearing.

Art Simms and "Young" Scotty, who battled ten rounds to a draw at Grand Rapids, a decision that did not suit either of the fighters, will probably come together again. Billy Gee, Scotty's manager, said several days ago he would match his protégé for from $200 to $500 a side, a proposition which was accepted by Simms' manager last night. The latter posted a forfeit of $100 to fight at 130 pounds at 3 o'clock or 133 pounds ringside, and if the weights are agreeable to Gee he can consider the match made.

Ferns Defeats Matthews.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 27.—Jim Ferns of Kansas City got the decision over Matty Matthews of Brooklyn at the end of the nineteenth round tonight. Ferns won all the way, Matthews going down sixteen times and taking hard punishment. Just before the gong sounded in the nineteenth Ferns fought Matty through the ropes, the Brooklyn man injuring his leg. He was so badly hurt the referee declared Ferns the winner.

Hart and Gardner Matched.

Louisville, Ky., April 27.—Marvin Hart of Louisville and George Gardner of Lowell, Mass., have been matched to fight at catch weight before the Southern Athletic club May 13. Tim Hurst will referee.

WHISKY KING TOO FAST.

RUNS AWAY FROM BRULARE AND JACK RATLIN AT MEMPHIS.

Carries 113 Pounds and Fairly Breezes Away from a Field of Good Sprinters—Fine Weather Brings Out a Large Attendance — Drake Horses Will Probably Not Be Sent to Chicago for the Worth Meeting—Bardolph Goes to Louisville.

Nashville, Tenn., April 27.—[Special.]—It is doubtful if there are many sprinters in the west that can take the measure of Whisky King, which won the six furlongs event, the feature of a good program at Cumberland park this afternoon. The big son of Kantaka made Jack Ratlin, Brulare, and a select field of sprinters look cheap by galloping in front of them the first five furlongs in a half second less that a minute, after covering the half mile in :47¼, with 113 pounds on his back. Stevens had him under wraps all the way and pulled him up in the final sixteenth.

Whisky King will be shipped to Louisville on Thursday and will be a starter in the Inaugural at Churchill Downs on Saturday.

The track was not exactly at its best this afternoon, but the weather was summerlike, and as it was "ladies' day" the attendance was second only to that of Derby day.

Trainer Wishard said today it was probable he would keep the Drake horses here until May 15, and in that event they would not be seen with the colors up in Chicago until the Hawthorne or Harlem meetings.

Gorman & Bauer will ship their Kentucky Derby candidate, Bardolph, and the balance of their string to Churchill Downs on Thursday.

EXERCISING THE DERBY COLTS.

The Picket Does the Best Work at Louisville—Maury Will Not Start.

Louisville, Ky., April 27.—[Special.]—The Derby candidates at Churchill downs will be given their set down tomorrow and their final "prep" on Thursday. The weather has improved and the track will be faster tomorrow.

For the first time in weeks all were given "pipe openers" today. Middleton & Jungbluth's The Picket, after a warmup, went a mile in 1:45¼, with plenty left at the finish. He has taken more kindly to his work than any other candidate. Maury worked a mile in 1:47, all out, and staggered in. He will not start. Early galloped three-quarters in 1:19. Corrigan's McGee breezed a mile in 2:00. McDowell's Bourbon and Woodlake arrived today. The one to start will probably be Bourbon.

Charlie Ellison's Skillful, a Clark handicap entry, worked three-quarters in 1:18⅘, the best time of today, which was also made by Gold Bell and Esherin. Seal Spots, Victor Henderson's 3 year old maiden, went in 1:20⅘.

Notes of the Lakeside Track.

Dominick won the first two races and finished second in each of the next three.

False Lead threw Jockey Kelly after passing the wire, then returned to the stand to have his traps removed.

Walter Hedges was not satisfied with the ride Gregor K. received. Jockey Hale's instructions were to go out in front and, if possible, stay there. Instead the boy rode a waiting race.

J. C. Milam will ship Dan McKenna to Louisville on Thursday and start him in the Kentucky Derby on Saturday. The colt will carry 117 pounds and will be ridden by Dominick. Milam will start Owenton in the Clark handicap, which is run on May 6, provided the weight is satisfactory.

Jockey Robbins, who broke his arm at Memphis, will be seen in the saddle in about a week. Dr. Harvey removed the splints from the boy's arm yesterday and found a perfect union of the break. The boy begged permission to ride at Worth tomorrow, but the doctor advised against it. Dr. Harvey also removed the cast from Jockey Morris' fractured collarbone and reports him doing nicely.

WON BY WHITNEY'S COLT.

EXCELSIOR HANDICAP RUN AT OPENING OF JAMAICA TRACK.

Twenty Thousand People See the Contest, in Which the Winner Makes the Pace Throughout — Heno, Favorite for Last Year's American Derby, Finishes a Good Second—Mackey Dwyer Is Left at the Post—Molinos Third in 2 Year Old Stake.

New York, April 27.—[Special.]—With a tremendous roar of enthusiasm 20,000 persons greeted William C. Whitney's 4 year old colt Black Stock as, with Grover Cleveland Fuller in the saddle, he won the Excelsior handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, this afternoon at the new Jamaica racetrack. A length and a half behind him came Heno, three lengths in front of Yellow Tail, finishing a head before Dr. Saylor.

Black Stock made the pace all the way. Royal first challenged him, but Black Stock shook him off. Then came the veteran Herbert with the top weight. Herbert, however, found the pace too much and dropped back. After that Heno became the challenger, but he, like the others, was not equal to the task. Rounding the turn, Injunction made a strong bid for the lead, and for a moment it looked as if he would wrest it from Whitney's colt, but Black Stock possessed remarkable stamina and under Fuller's careful handling ran Injunction off his feet. Coming down around the bend into the short homestretch, Black Stock, with magnificent stride, gradually drew away and had the race well in hand at the last sixteenth. But Heno, under a punishing drive, came again. Having disposed of Yellow Tail, Dr. Saylor looked as if he might overhaul the flying leader, but Black Stock, responding to another call, held Heno safe and won a splendid victory, with something to spare. The time of 1:46⅗, considering the soft condition of the track, was excellent.

Heno ran a splendid race and proved conclusively that he has developed into a racehorse of sterling merit.

Black Stock, as a yearling, was purchased from B. G. Thomas for $10,000 by Matt Allen, who afterwards turned him over to John E. Madden. Whitney presented Fuller with $500 for his clever ride.

It was a superb day for the opening of the Metropolitan Jockey club's new track. When the great crowd arrived there was nothing but praise for the completeness of everything, especially the beauty of the architecture and the thoughtfulness shown by the promoters towards the comfort of the public.

As a side issue to the Excelsior handicap the Brunswick stakes, for 2 year olds, attracted attention. Bath Beach was a hot favorite at 3 to 2, while Molinos, who opened first choice at 8 to 5, receded to threes. Masedo, with Shaw up, made the running, attended by Race King, Molinos, and Bath Beach to the last furlong, where Gannon got to work on Palm Bearer, and in a thrilling finish the latter won by a head, Masedo beating Molinos by a neck. Molinos came from the ruck to third place.

WELLER'S MAN IS ACQUITTED.

"Syndicate Ring" Sheets Are Too Deep for Expert Witness at Hammond Trial.

The case against Sheet Writer Herman Meyer, who, with Kid Weller, was arrested for gambling at the Lakside track, was heard at Hammond yesterday, and resulted in his acquittal. The prosecution witnesses testified they did not see the defendant handle any money, nor did they see him enter any figures on the sheet. The prosecution introduced an expert sheet writer as a witness, but he testified that the bookmaker's sheet was all Greek to him. Herman, who was dabbling in figures at the track, was then discharged. The case against Weller was set for a hearing tomorrow, and will doubtless result as did that against Meyer.

HANDICAP FIELD WILL BE LARGE.

Many Horses Are Expected to Start in Tomorrow's Feature Event.

ALL IS READY AT WORTH.

Fine Weather Results in Workouts—Paul Whaley Is Admired.

Secretary Jasper last night gave out the following list of probable starters for the Worth handicap, the feature of the opening day's sport at the Worth track tomorrow: Rankin, Huzzah, Nitrate, Barrick, Rolling Boer, Flying Torpedo, Felix Bard, Banter, Owenton, Paul Whaley, The Don, Port Royal, Poteen, Favonius, Thane, and Major Tenny. The last four named are the Hildreth entry, three of which, he says, will surely face the barrier.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the local racing season. The stables are occupied by good horses, the track has been carefully prepared, and the appointments connected with the course have been overhauled.

The attraction, aside from the opening, will be the Worth handicap, in which the best thoroughbreds in this vicinity, barring McChesney, will face the flag. The much talked horse of the year was placed in the hands of Fred Foster yesterday, and as he was given no work on the track the supposition is that he will be one of the absentees. Had McChesney remained in the hands of Durnell & Herz there is no doubt he would have been seen in the feature event, as they were pointing him for the race when they sold him to Smathers.

Foster took the MacDuff horse and his stable companion, Dick Bernard, out on the road yesterday, and if he moved the pair faster than an ordinary gallop he did so when out of range of the peeping Toms.

The beautiful weather was taken advantage of by the horsemen, and until late in the evening the course was alive with thoroughbreds. Considerable interest was taken in the work of Paul Whaley, a big chestnut horse just arrived from Texas, the property of W. M. Sanford & Co. Whaley was looked after by Fred Wood, who sent his charge once around the course in 1:44, the best workout of the day. Whaley is considered a contender in the handicap, with 100 pounds up.

Owenton, J. C. Milam's entry, was the first out. He was breezed six furlongs and sent along at a fast clip the last quarter. Flying Torpedo worked a mile on the extreme outside of the track in 1:46½ and pulled up fresh. Barrick went a mile in 1:45, and made quite an impression on the railbirds. S. S. Tracey's Derby colt, The Don, and Tom Kiley's Felix Bard were each given an easy mile.

Judge Morse, now presiding at Nashville, will be here for the opening.

LAST DAY OF LAKESIDE RACING.

Sport to Close This Afternoon—Burnie Bunton Wins, Gregor K. Loses.

The Lakeside meeting ends today, and, according to the management, the gates will never be opened again for a race meeting. The lease of the grounds expires next February, and the club, if it so chooses, can run a fall meeting, but this, in the face of recent dealings with Hammond authorities, they will hardly care to hold.

The feature event yesterday was a five and a half furlong dash, in which Burnie Bunton, Newman's speedy mare, showed some of her old time sprinting abilities. She indulged Scorpio with the lead until well into the stretch, then came on and won galloping.

Interest was centered in the mile race, in which Dan McKenna and Gregor K., a pair of Derby aspirants, were entered. The impression got abroad several days ago that Gregor did not fancy that distance. Despite this he was installed favorite and was heavily backed. McKenna was the second choice, and both were beaten out by Soothsayer. The latter was pounds the best horse in the race, as he was shut off several times and was compelled to skirt the field on the outside at the head of the stretch to get clear sailing, and won handily.

MAY WHEAT HOLDS FIRM.

BEARISH STATISTICS CAUSE TEMPORARY WEAKNESS.

Armour Supports May, July Loses a Little Ground, World's Shipments Being Heavier, Visible Supply Decrease Smaller than Last Year, and Receipts Larger—Armour a Large Buyer of July Corn from Patten—Oats and Provisions Weak.

Statistical announcements and weather conditions were against the wheat market, and although there was a higher opening in response to a strong Liverpool market and an abortive war scare over Russia's attitude in Manchuria the local mood was bearish, and the early advance all disappeared, the market at one time showing losses of ⅛c to ⅝c under Saturday's close. The market rallied sharply for May on buying by commission houses and brokers which was interpreted to indicate Armour support, but the reaction in the deferred deliveries was only slight. Closing prices were ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower for the day, the advance in the May, which stopped at 77¼c, after selling from 77⅜c to 76½c.

There was a decrease of 1,706,000 bu in the visible supply, but it did not help the market, because it compared with a decrease of 3,793,000 bu a year ago. Stocks are now about 5,000,000 bu less than last year, 35,565,000 bu, compared with 40,449,000 bu. Local stocks in public houses decreased 629,000 bu, to 5,592,000 bu. The domestic movement was more liberal, the result probably of the more settled weather, 286 cars at the northwest points, compared with 230 a year ago and 469,000 bu at primary markets, compared with 362,000 bu. There were 40 cars here, with none contract, but 51 cars of contract grade were contributed from private houses.

Export Demand Quiet.

The export demand was not urgent, either at the seaboard or here. There were some sales by local houses via the gulf, but they were moderate in quantity and bids from the other side were generally lower. The seaboard put the business at the close at all points at 200,000 bu. Clearances were 284,000 bu wheat and flour. There was a shipping demand here with sales of 200,000 bu No. 1 northern. Outside markets were strong early, except St. Louis, but all of them lost their early advance and St. Louis May wheat closed 1⅛c lower. There were complaints from Kansas and Oklahoma of too dry weather in sections, the surface of the ground caking.

World's shipments of wheat were heavier than expected, 10,800,000 bu, compared with 8,963,000 bu a year ago, Russia sending out 8,184,000 bu. The amount on ocean passage increased 712,000 bu, to 33,664,000 bu. Liverpool stocks decreased 336,000 bu for the week, to 1,784,000 bu. Liverpool futures were unchanged to ⅜d higher, the advance there attributed to light stocks, light shipments from this country, and alarm on the part of May shorts. Antwerp was ⅜d higher and Berlin unchanged, but the Paris market was weaker, off ½c to ⅜c, and Buda-Pesth 2⅜c lower.

Big Trade in Corn.

There was a strong start in corn, in spite of a weather map showing practically perfect conditions for planting. The early mood was most influenced by an advance of ¼d to ⅜d at Liverpool. Offerings were light and a moderate demand put prices up ¼c to ½c, but on the advance there were more liberal sales of May and July. The pit thought there was profit taking by Armour through commission houses in July, and there was a decline in that delivery from 45⅞c to 45c. At that figure there was open Armour buying, Valentine taking 500,000 bu from Patten in one lot and giving support also to the May. The July closed at 45⅛c, a net loss of ⅜c, other deliveries off about as much. A bearish circumstance was the increased offerings of corn in Illinois and Nebraska, two houses which sent out the highest bids getting 300,000 bu. The cash market was steady and the shipping demand fair, though not so brisk as last week, sales amounting to 175,000 bu. Export sales at the seaboard were 104,000 bu and clearances 262,000 bu. Receipts were 85 cars, with 2 contract, and about 45,000 bu No. 2 corn out of private houses; the inspection out of store, 36,000 bu. The estimate for tomorrow is 230 cars. Primary receipts were under last year's figures, 344,000 bu, to 377,000 bu. The visible supply decreased 610,000 bu, to 7,734,000 bu. World's shipments were 2,516,000 bu, and the amount on ocean passage decreased 94,000 bu, to 7,644,000 bu.

Oats Turn Weak.

Oats held firm for a few minutes at the opening, but the influence of a weak cash market was depressing on the May, and the fine weather started selling of July. The close showed losses of ⅞c in May, ¼-⅜c in July, and ¼c in September. Cash prices were ½c to 1c lower, and the shipping demand flat. McReynolds was a liberal seller of May, Patten sold July, and Updike bought July. There were 83 cars on the inspection sheet, with 8 standard, and 290 are estimated for today. Clearances were 10,000 bu. Local stocks in public houses decreased 24,000 bu to 383,000 bu. The total visible supply increased 26,000 bu for the week to 6,505,000 bu, compared with 2,114,000 bu a year ago.

All Hog Product Lower.

The provision market was unable to stand up under the influence of receipts of 47,000 hogs, nearly twice as many as were estimated. There was a quick drop of 10c in yards prices, which was reflected in opening quotations on product, everything being from 2½@7½c off. Thereafter the general tendency was downward, May pork at the close showing a loss of 15c and July and September 12½c. May lard was 22½c off, July 12@15c, and September about 10c. Ribs broke 10@12½c. All through the list such pressure as existed was on the selling side. The lard and ribs were disposed of freely by Slaughter. Local packing interests sold pork. Estimated receipts today are 17,000. At western points there were 77,100 head, against 55,700 the previous week and the same number last year. Average weights here were 225 lbs, 4 lbs heavier. Shipments of cured meats were 1,104,000 lbs, against 1,616,000 lbs a year ago, and of lard 776,300 lbs, as compared with 1,481,400 lbs last year. Liverpool prices were unchanged.

Rye was slow but about steady, May nominally 50c and July 50¼c. Receipts were 49 cars. The visible increased 173,000 bu, as against a decrease the previous week of 75,000 bu. Local public stocks are 449,000 bu, an increase of 79,000 bu.

Barley ruled about steady, all desirable grades meeting with ready sale. Screenings ranged from 30@40c, the outside for choice. Feed was quotably 38@42c, low grade malting 45@47c, fair to good 48@52c, choice 53@55c. Receipts were 13 cars.

No quotable change was made in timothy seed. September was offered at $3.35. Clover seed was firmer, contract quotably $12.50.

There was a steady market in flaxseed, though a good deal of dullness prevailed. No. 1 northwestern was $1.10 and southwestern $1.08. Rejected sold at $1.02. May was offered at $1.09, with $1.07½ bid. July was held at $1.12. There were 8 cars here, 26 at Minneapolis, and 18 at Duluth.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 75 cars; corn, 230 cars; oats, 290 cars; hogs, 17,000.

Provision traders are wondering if they are going to get the increased run of hogs which has been predicted for months, but has steadily failed to meet expectations. Receipts at the yards yesterday were 50,000, or nearly double the estimate of 28,000, and the largest in some weeks. The estimate for today, however, was only 17,000, and the trade will await results before being sure of any sustained increase in the movement.

Trade in the grain pits was relieved of a general dullness by a little transaction in the corn pit between Patten, the leading bear on July corn, and President Valentine of the Armour Grain company, which is supposed to be long a big line. On the early bulge to 45⅞c, there had been selling through brokers and commission houses which the talent attributed to Armour's taking scalping profits on a part of his line. Valentine came into the market, however, to support July around 45c on the decline, while Patten joined him in the center of the pit to add to his short line and encourage a further decline. With the market nominally 45⅛c bid he offered 100,000 bu at 45c, which was promptly taken by Valentine, and four more lots of the same size at the same figure. Patten left the pit and Valentine offered 45⅛c, and then 35⅛@¼c for 100,000 bu without securing an offer. The close was at 45⅛c bid.

A San Francisco message to Logan-Bryan says: "Complaints are becoming quite general on dry weather in this state. Yesterday and last night there was a dry north wind. Wheat is not making any growth on account of the dry, hard surface of the ground. The acreage is much less than usual on account of increase in barley."

The Duluth Commercial Record claims country elevator stocks of flaxseed are about cleaned out, and that receipts from now on will be small until farmers finish seeding, which will be the latter part of June.

"The German inspection duty," said a member of the Hately firm, "is operative on everything in the way of hog and beef product we send to that country. There has been no secrecy or mystery about the fact of the duty, and at no time has it had any market effect. It is a triflingly small matter and comes entirely out of the consumer on the other side."

Antwerp grain dealers keep cheerfully bullish on wheat. A correspondent of Harris-Gates, writing under date of April 17, says: "Wheat has ruled firm during the last week, and a large consumptive business has been done in cash wheat to Belgium, as well as other countries, especially France. We think the demand as already written will not only continue but increase the nearer we are getting to the end of the season. As to the prospects of the new European crops, it is difficult to form an opinion as yet. The weather, however, during this month has been most unseasonable. It is impossible to say whether this weather has done any harm, but, anyhow, it will not have done any good. River Plate offers are getting more scarce every day at advancing prices. The Washington crop bureau has not made the slightest effect upon our cash trade. It will take another four months before the millers will be able to grind the wheat, of which we have read such glowing accounts, and in the meantime we shall want something to eat, and we think we shall be obliged to look around to every corner of the globe to get the wheat we need to pull through until the next harvest."

A Minneapolis message to Bartlett-Frazier reports elevator people as claiming from 75 to 85 per cent of wheat seeding is completed in the three states, with the ground in splendid condition.

CAN SHARES SELL DOWN.

DOUBT FELT AS TO DIVIDEND ACTION AT THIS TIME.

Annual Meeting Will Be Held in New Jersey Today—Only Known Facts Are That Plants Have Been Perfected and Company Can Now Earn Money—Local Money Market Dull, with Minimum Rate at Five Per Cent.

American Can shares were left without support yesterday and the preferred lost 1½ points, closing at 45. While the general stock market was lower, still the loss in price in Can preferred could not be attributed to that cause. A few days ago this stock sold at 50½, and stories of dividends were in circulation. Some friends of the management received telegraphic advices to buy the stock on the day that it advanced from 44 to 49.

Subsequently the shares held so firm that color was given to the dividend talk. Now it is beginning to be doubted whether payments will begin at this time. With the various announcements in circulation it was noted that no insider was quoted as saying dividends would begin. The best that has been said from an official source was that the company's plants had been so concentrated and improved that it was now in a position to make money.

The annual meeting of the company will be held in Jersey City today. No forecasts of an authoritative nature have as yet been issued with reference to what the annual report will show.

The course of Union Traction preferred yesterday further substantiated the statement that there is a short interest in the stock. It sold on the exchange at 37, while 100 shares, seller 30, sold at 32. On Saturday, when the stock was selling here at 37, it sold in New York five points below the local quotations. It is merely a matter of short sellers being unable to borrow stock freely.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool declined from 55 to 50, though there seemed to be some record making. One house had a standing order at 50 but secured no stock.

National Biscuit common sold at 43⅜ at the close. The price gradually worked down from 44¼. The remaining stocks in the list were without special feature.

A lot of $25,000 Union Loop 5s sold at 109. The prospects of damage suits may have had some influence, but the quotation made was not below the last previous one, April 19, when a lot sold at 109.

Local Money Market Dull.

The local money market continues dull. There is but small demand and the minimum rate is 5 per cent, though the banks quote as going prices 5½ to 6 per cent. No material change in the market is expected within the next ten days.

U. S. Shipbuilding Needs Money.

It transpires that the United States Shipbuilding company is in need of $5,000,000, and there is also strong probability that steps will be taken to procure this amount in order to add to the company's facilities. President Lewis Nixon was quoted in New York yesterday as saying:

"There is so much talk of this character arising from the action taken by the great shipbuilding firm of Philadelphia that a statement is liable to any construction. We have found, for example, that if we wish to take care of the volume of work which seems assured we must increase our facilities.

"As the experience of others shows how unwise it is to encroach on working capital for additions, we have discussed freely with our own management the various ways in which such additions might be handled. This no doubt has given rise to the rumors mentioned.

"If we should decide to be content with our present equipment and simply work it for all it is worth, taking care to keep it in good condition, we could go ahead most satisfactorily as we are. This is all there is to the story."

Pretentious Interurban Plans.

According to Indiana advices the Union Traction company of Indianapolis proposes to build an extension of its lines from Logansport to Hammond and thence to Chicago. An interurban line from St. Louis through Indianapolis and Columbus, Ohio, to Pittsburg, is also planned. Frank M. Fauvre is in immediate charge of the project. He is quoted as saying:

"A line eventually will be built to St. Louis, but not in time for the St. Louis exposition. I doubt if such a line would pay for many years. Circumstances will demonstrate that. The Indianapolis, Greencastle and Western has only a nominal stock, and we don't care to say much about our plans."

Increase in Circulation.

Secretary Shaw's refunding plan is operating to cause a large increase in national bank note circulation. Since April 1 the amount of new circulation ordered is $11,836,900, from which is deducted $1,703,806 circulation retired, making the net gain since April 1 $10,134,094.

The gain in March was $5,998,295. In the last twelve months there has been a gain of $24,000,000, not counting the increase in April.

Thus far about $45,000,000 of the 3 and 4 per cents have been presented for refunding into the 2s. The total is about half the amount fixed by the secretary as the limit.

To Scale Brewing Bond Interest.

At an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the City of Chicago Brewing and Malting company, held in London, on April 18, the plan for scaling the 6 per cent debenture bonds of the Consolidated Brewing and Malting company was adopted by a large majority. If the scheme is not blocked by some of the debenture holders, it will mean a reduction in the dividend rate from 6 per cent to 5 per cent, and in 1910 the company will not be called upon to pay a premium of 10 per cent in redeeming the present issue, which matures at that date.

The plan promises in time to afford some hope for the preferred stockholders. At present, however, the surplus over debenture interest requirements in accordance with the reduction plan will be small, based on the average profits of the company.

Banks in Department Stores.

New York bankers are reported to be greatly interested in the opening of banks in department stores there. Two large concerns have added banking departments and are doing a regular banking business. R. H. Macy & Co. pay 4 per cent interest on balances to be computed every three months. The firm announces, however, that a "depositors' account department" has been established in order to facilitate purchases made by customers who do not care to have goods sent C. O. D.

Chicago has had some experience with department store banks. Siegel, Cooper & Co. had a bank with about $1,100,000 deposits, but when a run was started upon it because of litigation instituted by a stockholder in the company the banking department was sold to the Central Trust company. Immediately following this sale Rothschild & Co. sold their bank through fear of having an experience similar to that of Siegel Cooper. It is not recalled that any other department stores here now have banking departments.

General Financial News.

It is officially announced that the negotiations for the sale of the Standard Steel Car company to the American Car and Foundry company have been declared off indefinitely. The reason given for the failure to consummate the deal is that the two companies could not come to terms as to price. The money market also had its influence.

It is announced from New York that the American Express company has formally acquired control of the Westcott Express company. The deal has been under way for some months. The Westcott company it is said will not lose its identity, although its operating expenses are to be materially reduced. The company has an authorized capital of $500,000 common and $150,000 7 per cent preferred stock. The American Express company has an authorized capital of $18,000,000.

The Krupp gun works at Essen, Germany, have been organized into a joint stock company with a capital of $40,000,000.

According to reports, the Pittsburg Coal company is preparing for a bond issue with a view of consolidating the floating debt incurred in the acquisition of additional properties. The amount of the issue is expected to be $20,000,000.

Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia have notified the underwriting syndicate of the Cramp Shipbuilding company that the first installment of the subscriptions will be due on April 23. A special meeting of the shareholders will be held on June 25 for the purpose of authorizing an increase in the capital stock from $5,000,000 to $6,250,000 and an increase in the mortgage debt from $1,800,000 to $7,500,000.

Net earnings of the Empire Steel and Iron company for the first quarter of 1903 were $137,558.

Cost of Copper Production.

The Utah Consolidated company is now producing copper at a net cost of 3½ cents per pound. This net is the lowest cost of any of the copper producing mines in this country. The low cost is due to the gold and silver values recovered in the bullion. Meanwhile the cost of production in the Anaconda mine has been increasing. The following table, showing the cost of production of the various mines, has been prepared by the Boston News bureau:

	Net copper costs per lb., cents.

DAIRY STUFF SLIGHTLY LOWER.

Both Butter and Eggs Quiet Under a Falling Off in Immediate Demand.

Produce lines opened the week quiet and easy. Demand for butter was less than for several days, with prices quotably 1c lower. Receipts of eggs were 17,500 cases, against 11,500 cases the previous Monday. This addition to supplies was a factor to some easiness, and smaller quantities were wanted. The poultry and vegetable list was generally quiet.

Results Worth Waiting For

Professor Treadwell remembers only too well the period in the development of the United Verde enterprise when the stockholders were tired of waiting and began to sell out. Thousands of shares of the stock were sold by tired stockholders and bought by Senator Clark, who never tires, below par. Those who waited long— and bought more instead of selling what they had found themselves with fortunes in their grasp.

Things move more rapidly now, and our enterprise has the advantage over the United Verde of twenty years—a twenty years unparalleled in the world's history—so that we do not have to wait as long as the United Verde stockholders did. Still, we have had to wait some, for great enterprises cannot be developed in a day. The result of the waiting by the United Verde stockholders was a profit ranging from three hundred to three thousand per cent. on their investment. There is no reason to expect a lesser result in our case. Our property lies in the same rich mineral zone as that of the United Verde, only we have several times as much of it, and our development work has disclosed values considerably greater than were disclosed by the development work on the United Verde at the same stage of development. The same man who advised his friends to invest in the United Verde when they could buy the stock at about par, advises them now to invest in the company which bears his name when they can buy the stock at about par. If he was a good man to follow then he is a good man to follow now.

The stockholders of the Calumet & Hecla had the same experience as the stockholders of the United Verde. Calumet & Hecla shares went at one time begging on the Street at $10 a share, and later sold at $800. The people who tired and sold out early were the ones who lost. The people who remained in and bought more were those whose fortunes enabled them to build that splendid succession of palaces that lines Beacon Street, Boston.

The time for the wise man to invest is when foolish men are tired.

A Good Investment in Developed
ZINC LAND

Until May 8th we can sell for $20,000, the forty acres in fee simple, lying directly south of and adjoining the land owned by the United Zinc Companies (of Boston) in the great Duenweg-Prosperity run of ore. The biggest mines in this district are on this ridge, one of which, the "Grand K.", was bought this month for $100,000. This mine has cleared $60,000 in the last ten months.

Nine drill holes have been put down on the forty acres we offer, eight of which have developed fine deposits of both zinc and lead ore between 215 and 270 feet. The United Zinc Companies have a lease on this land, and are now sinking a shaft. On April 22 another test drill hole struck ore at 235 feet and was stopped in ore at 255 feet; the cuttings from this hole assaying over 17 per cent zinc and over 3 per cent lead. With such dirt a 100 ton mill running only single shift will pay the owner of this ground over $80 a day as royalty. Within a year there should be several mills on this forty acres.

Only a quarter of a mile south of this tract is the 40 acres of the Big Six Development Co., which produces annually several hundred thousand dollars' worth of ore, and adjoining that tract to the 40 acre lease of the great M. & B. mines; the land being owned in Providence, R. I., and which paid the owner over $40,000 in royalties last year. Two years ago he bought the land for $15,000. A quarter of a mile west are the two big mines of the Aida Mining Co. of Chicago.

One of the very strongest companies in this district is rapidly developing the 40 acres offered, and it now presents a safe and highly profitable investment for outside capital. The revenue of the land being derived entirely from royalties, absolutely eliminates all the risks incident to active mining. Contractors sinking shaft for the United Zinc Companies expect to have it down in 90 days, and the production of ore should commence within 30 to 60 days thereafter.

We will entertain no propositions from promoters.

Unfavorable Atchison Statement Has Depressing Effect—Money Rates Approaching Gold Shipment Point and Several Bankers Have Object in View—Lack of Outside Interest in Market Keeps Trading Along Professional Lines.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, April 27.—[Special.]—Such activity as there was in the stock market today was at the expense of values and with closing prices generally at the lowest of the day.

There was no really bad news, but the market declined upon the appearance of the March statement put out by the Atchison showing a net decrease of $249,000 in the face of a gross increase of $463,000. Beyond this there was little of consequence in the day's developments.

Some attention was paid to the likelihood of a decision on the franchise-tax case being handed down in Albany, and on the street it is predicted that the constitutionality of the law will be upheld.

Not the least significant development of the day was a further sharp advance in demand for sterling—from 10 to 15 points. The rate is now near to the gold exporting point, and while no actual engagements are announced it is known several houses are figuring on exports.

According to one market authority, the principal reason for the market's weakness was the entire absence of the public and, therefore, a lack of new buying power. Brokers are complaining bitterly of "hard times" in Wall street, while everywhere else is prosperity.

As evidence of the market's indifference to good news may be cited the case of the People's Gas, which altogether failed to respond to the announcement from Chicago that the strike of the company's employés was settled. Such news ordinarily would be followed by a burst of activity and strength, but today's announcement was wholly ignored and only 300 shares of stock were traded in throughout the day.

It is said in well informed quarters that H. H. Rogers has been advised by his physicians to retire permanently from active Wall street life and it is not improbable that Mr. Rogers may follow this advice and take an extended trip abroad, which makes interesting the report that the persistent selling of St. Paul and Amalgamated Copper in recent days has been on Rogers' account.

In respect to coal shares, the rumor was the government or certain large interts would take up President Baer's "dare" and seek to have the coal combination declared illegal.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Other Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, April 27.—Money was scarce in the market today and there was a fair demand today. Discounts were firm. On the stock exchange business opened moderately cheerful, but inactive, operators being occupied with the mining contangos. Consols reacted on dearer money. Home rails eased on realizations prior to the settlement. Americans were heavy and there were a few light selling orders, which resulted in a general decline to below parity.

PARIS, April 27.—Prices were weak on the bourse throughout the greater part of the day, but there was a slight improvement toward the close. Rentes dropped on account of heavy offers and Spanish 4s went off owing to the results of the general election in Spain. Industrials were irregular. Rio Tintos went further downward, losing 6 francs on the fall in the price of copper. Thomson-Houston and other tractions were firmer. The private rate of discount was 2⅝ per cent.

BERLIN, April 27.—Owing to the first payment being made today on the new imperial loan the subscription business was generally inactive on the boerse. Canadian Pacific was lower, following the quotations in New York. Money on call was quoted at 3½ per cent.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Liberal Run of Cattle at Steady to Strong Prices—Hogs 10 to 15 Cents Lower.

Opening trade for the week at the stockyards was on a liberal run of 26,000 cattle, 47,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep. Receipts of cattle and sheep were in line with expectations, but none of the guessing talent put their figures above 35,000, and an excess of 15,000 to 17,000 over Saturday estimates proved a surprise all around.

Cattle were steady to strong, hogs 10@15c lower, sheep steady, and lambs steady to 10c higher.

The Live Stock World's British cable says: "Cargoes of American cattle sold at 12@12½c per lb, with inferior to fancy selections at 11@12¾c. Prices show little change from last week, but are much lower than a year ago, when states steers went at 15c. States sheep ruled weak at 14@16c."

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago yards for the period indicated, with comparative figures:

Cattle.

There was a good demand for useful grades of cattle and prices were well sustained on a steady to strong basis of last week's close, and supplies were well absorbed. There was a notable scarcity of prime heavy steers, but fair a proportion of coarse and plain lots weighing around 1,400 lbs. Best sellers were found in tidy fat 1,200 to 1,300 lb weights. Top sale of the day was $5.60; bulk of all steers, $4.80@5.25. She stock, light steers, bulls, and stags were steady. Calves lower. Stock cattle steady. Quotations:

Hogs.

The arrival of much larger receipts than were expected gave the market a slumping start. Supply could only be moved by sellers making a concession of 10c to 15c from closing prices of last week and on the lowest level of the month. Quality was good, tops sold at $7.30, against $7.40 on Saturday, and $7.50 on Friday of last week, bulk of good medium and heavy sold at $7.15 to $7.25, and standard packing droves of mixed went at $7.00 to $7.10. ILLS MAY SAVE A SLAYER.

FAMILY INFIRMITIES ARE W. T. LEWIS' DEFENSE.

Mother and Two Sisters Collapse in Court and Physical Demonstration Is Furnished the Jury That Epilepsy Is an Affliction from Which the Defendant May Be a Sufferer—Admits Murder, but Relies on Plea of Irresponsibility.

A mother and two sisters, who by verbal evidence and physical demonstration showed that epilepsy is inherent in their family, may be the means of saving William T. Lewis from the consequences of the murder of Mrs. Stella Wright.

Mrs. Wright was housekeeper for Lewis at 4429 State street, and several days ago the defendant pleaded guilty to the charge of having killed her. Mrs. Wright had been struck on the head with a hatchet, and the circumstances of the crime were such that the extreme penalty customary under a plea of guilty was expected by Assistant State's Attorney Newcomer.

But the accused man's plea for clemency was based on a claim of mental and physical weakness inherited from an epileptic and insane father was so forcibly supported before Judge W. M. McEwen yesterday morning that it is now believed that Lewis may be saved from the penitentiary.

Women Collapse in Court.

The defendant was carried into court weak and helpless. His aged mother, broken by the sight of her stricken son and overcome by her recital of the life of fear to which she had been subjected by her husband's malady, tottered from the witness stand and fell in a swoon in the ante-room.

A sister, Miss Agnes Lewis, was so wrought up by the scene that she also fainted, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hake, another sister, brought the session of court to a sudden stop by falling from her chair in an epileptic attack, which resisted the efforts of attendants to relieve for some time.

Mrs. Lewis, who is over 70 years old and had come from Boston to testify in behalf of her son, told Judge McEwen of a fall which the defendant had suffered when a child, and which made him a cripple for years. She told of her husband's attack of epilepsy, and said that during the closing years of his life he had at times become so violent that the lives of the children were often endangered. For two years prior to his death her husband was insane, the witness declared.

Mrs. Lewis' daughters repeated the mother's story, and as the women, one after another, were overcome several other women in the room became frightened and started to scream.

Expert Testimony Taken.

Later Dr. Harold N. Moyer, neurologist, was called as a witness and testified he had been convinced from an objective examination of the defendant that his epilepsy had not been so marked as to affect his sanity. After hearing the evidence of the women and witnessing the attack to which Mrs. Hake was subjected he took these subjective incidents into consideration and modified his testimony.

Dr. E. L. Pope, who had been subpœnaed as a witness for the defense, left the courtroom before called, and Judge McEwen sent a deputy sheriff to notify him to be in court tomorrow, when the case will be closed.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE FOR THE STRANDED CHORUS GIRLS.

Singers of the "Foxy Quiller" Company to Be Helped to Reach Their Homes by Members of the Profession.

A benefit performance for the stranded "Foxy Quiller" chorus girls will be given in the Great Northern theater Friday afternoon and the proceeds will be used to purchase tickets to New York.

The principals and four of the chorus girls left for the east yesterday afternoon, but they bought their own transportation, having received no assistance from the management of the defunct company. Fifteen of the girls are still in Chicago.

"The report that Manager Ben Stern purchased tickets for the stranded members of our company is not true," said Henry Leone. "Mr. Stern has not done a thing for the unfortunate persons who were members of his company. Some of us are fortunate enough to have the means with which to return to our homes, but a lot of the chorus girls were let out without a cent in their pocketbooks. Our trunks were left in the hands of a transfer company in payment for the cartage on the scenery of the company."

A number of the principals and other members of the various theatrical companies now in the city have volunteered their services for the benefit.

FONDA CASE AGAIN IN COURT.

Wilson C. Hawkins on Trial on Charge of Assaulting Dr. William Jackson.

The domestic troubles of Dr. David B. Fonda, who occupied the attention of the civil courts for some time yesterday, were recalled before Judge O. H. Horton yesterday in the trial of Wilson C. Hawkins on a charge of assault on Dr. William Jackson, Dr. Fonda's son-in-law. The trouble between Dr. Jackson and Hawkins, who was Dr. Fonda's attendant, was an incident in the war which disturbed the household at 4171 Milwaukee avenue for weeks. In the course of the hearing, Dr. Jackson related that he had prevented Dr. Fonda from shooting Mrs. Jackson. Jackson testified that several days before he had filed the firing pin from the hammer of the old man's revolver. Testimony for Hawkins will be given today.

EVIDENCE ON ENRICHT HEARD.

Preliminary Case Against Ex-County Surveyor for Alleged Misuse of Mails Closing.

The last evidence will be introduced today in the case of the government against former County Surveyor Louis Enricht before United States Commissioner Foote. Enricht was at the head of the United States Land syndicate and is said to have used the mails to defraud.

At previous hearings a number of witnesses testified that they had paid various sums for titles to land in Kentucky and Tennessee which they found on investigation to be worthless.

While Enricht declared that the syndicate had a good chain of title to all land which was sold, evidence was introduced by the government to show that the grants on which these titles depended were void.

LARGEST LOSSES IN MONTHS REPORTED FOR LAST WEEK.

Aggregate Is $3,100,000—Insurance Company of Pennsylvania Applies for Readmission to Illinois.

Losses last week were heavier than for any week in several months. The aggregate was $3,100,000, which is the normal loss of the last two years. The heavy loss at Columbus, O., starts this week off badly, and is preparing the companies for a less favorable comparison for April with last year than preceding months have been showing.

The Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania has applied for readmission to Illinois, and has appointed as agents Critchell, Miller, Whitney, and Barbour, with whom it was formerly located for many years. They will begin writing as soon as the formalities are completed by the insurance department, and are already binding.

E. T. Pape, superintendent of Chicago district No. 1 of the Prudential, entertained thirty-five of his assistants and agents at the Great Northern last night in recognition of their work for the year. The district leads the country on ordinary increase, not counting revived business.

Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. regard their new building as so nearly fireproof that they are carrying their own insurance. The line on stock was something over $1,000,000, which was formerly placed under a competitive rate of 75 cents. It is understood that the firm wanted a rate of 15 cents on its new building.

William McCabe, managing director of the North American Life of Toronto and one of the leading actuaries of the country, died last week at his home.

Joint committees from the Illinois state board and the Illinois Field club reorganized the local boards at Monticello and Bement last week, had the new rates adopted, and arranged that the agents should report hereafter through the Decatur compact office.

The Supreme court of Wisconsin has decided, in the case of Keith vs. The Royal, that change of title, interest, and possession without notice to the insurance company invalidates the policy, any oral notice to the agent notwithstanding.

The insurance department of Wisconsin will give a hearing today on the application for an order requiring the Equitable Life to make annual distribution of its surplus.

FIGHT TO PAY THE TAXES: 9,000 BESIEGE THE OFFICE.

Record Breaking Crowd at County Building Proves Hard to Keep in Order—Women Outnumber the Men.

An army of 9,000 impatient taxpayers besieged the county treasurer's office yesterday, all trying to fight their way into the room at once. The casualties were four women made ill, one watchman slapped, and a dozen policemen exhausted.

The crowd gathered early, and soon the line reached into the city hall building. It was found impossible to keep the throng in order, and several times it appeared that the doors to the treasurer's office would be forced in. The crowd was admitted, 300 at a time, and men and women fought their way forward each time the doors were opened.

The women, who numbered 6,000 or more, were more difficult to handle than the men. One tried to force her way into the line near the doors, and when Guard Philips objected she slapped him. At times the crush became so great the police threatened to club the men back, while women screamed in terror.

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN KILLS A POACHER AFTER A BATTLE.

B. B. Spafford at Frankfort, Mich., After Being Pinned to the Ground by a Fish Spear, Shoots a Farmer.

Frankfort, Mich., April 27.—[Special.]—B. B. Spafford, deputy game warden, today shot and killed Chris McLain after a fight in which Spafford himself was seriously wounded.

McLain, his son, and three other men were spearing fish out of season and Spafford and another deputy attempted to arrest the party. In the fight Spafford was pinned to the earth by a spear in McLain's hands, the weapon tearing the flesh near the heart.

While upon the ground Spafford fired a bullet into the back, at the base of the spine, of his retreating assailant, death being instantaneous. Spafford gave himself up. He lives at Cadillac. McLain was a farmer.

LORIMER GAINS 14 BALLOTS.

Recount of a Thirty-fourth Ward Precinct Discloses an Error Favoring Durborow.

Lorimer lost two votes and Durborow sixteen on the recount of one precinct of the Thirty-fifth ward and three of the Thirty-fourth yesterday, resulting in a net gain of fourteen for Lorimer, who has gained eight votes on the recount up to date.

In the Twenty-first precinct of the Thirty-fourth ward an evident clerical error was accountable for the loss of ten votes for Durborow.

The result yesterday showed the following:

Precinct.	Lorimer.	Recount.	Durborow.	Recount.
THIRTY-FIFTH WARD.
19	138	139	118	115
THIRTY-FOURTH WARD.
21	101	102	74	64
20	107	105	171	169
19	123	121	85	84

There remain to be counted eighteen precincts of the Thirty-fourth ward, thirty-seven precincts of the Thirteenth ward, and forty-three precincts of the Twentieth ward.

A TIME OF DANGER!

Thousands in Peril from Blood Diseases and Nerve Troubles Developed During the Winter Months.

Paine's Celery Compound

The Great Spring Blood Purifier, Nerve Bracer, and Health Builder.

Paine's Celery Compound is the wonder of the age! Its marvelous virtues are discussed amongst interested medical men, and its cures are talked of at every fireside.

As a spring health giver, Paine's Celery Compound stands far ahead of all other known remedies; it has no worthy competitor in the vast field of medicine.

To a large extent, the present popularity of Paine's Celery Compound is due to the fact that it has accomplished some of its most astonishing cures in the spring season—a time when men and women usually complain of ill health, loss of vitality, tired feelings—a time when people feel dull, listless, despondent, and ambitionless.

Today, there are thousands of business men, mechanics, farmers, and dear wives and mothers, too, who, though able to walk around, are, nevertheless, sadly "out of health."

At this season, Paine's Celery Compound is the great health restorer and strength giver for the "out of health" people—for those who are perilously nearing some organic disease. Paine's Celery Compound used at once, will quickly remove every trace of poison from the blood, brace up the weak nerves, build up the tissues, and tone the digestive organism.

If you, dear reader, feel that your health is not as robust and vigorous as it should be, let us honestly suggest the use of Paine's Celery Compound that has so wonderfully blessed your neighbors and friends. Be assured, "it makes sick people well."

LAST OF SCHOOL PRIZES.

GRADUATION DAY AWARDS ARE ABOLISHED.

Principals Declare They Are the Cause of "Heartaches, Envies, and Scandals," Doing More Harm than Good, and Committee Puts an End to Them—Supt. Cooley's Plan to Call Miss O'Grady as Kindergarten Head Defeated—Lively Fight Promised.

The practice of awarding prizes to pupils of high standing in scholarship in the public schools was abolished yesterday by the school management committee on the recommendation of the Principals' association. Pupils who have been spurred to their best efforts by their ambition to win one of the many prizes heretofore awarded in the grammar schools will be graduated without special honors. Henceforth no distinction will be made between pupils on graduation day. The committee hopes that its action will establish a precedent for other public boards of education over the country.

The verdict of the principals against the prizes declared that they have "caused heartaches, jealousies, envies, and scandals." Attorney McMahon was asked for an opinion as to whether the bequests for prizes could be diverted to any other purpose, and reported that in no case did the conditions of the bequest deter the committee from abolishing the prizes.

Four Anti-Prize Arguments.

The four reasons assigned by the principals for opposing the prizes are as follows:

While the prospect of a prize has no effect on the class as a whole, it acts as a spur to the few who need rather a curb.

No one is wise enough to know whether in the award exact justice has been done. Has every slip and blunder been recorded? Has every delinquency in conduct been noted?

The prospects of a prize at the end of the year make necessary the keeping of minute records, which task takes the time and strength from the work the teacher is engaged to do—namely: teaching.

It tends to awaken the spirit of envy and jealousy among those at the head of the class, making what should be the happiest days full of bitterness and spite.

Miss O'Grady Is Rejected.

The school management committee, by a tie vote, declined to accept the recommendation of Supt. Cooley regarding the appointment of Miss Alice O'Grady of New Briton, Conn., to the position of supervisor of the kindergarten department at the normal school. The idea of an out of town teacher was opposed vigorously by Mrs. Isabelle O'Keeffe and defeated through her efforts. A lively fight is promised in the school board when the matter is brought before that body.

As soon as Supt. Cooley had recommended the appointment of Miss O'Grady, Mrs. O'Keeffe wanted to know why a Chicago teacher had not been recommended.

"As I understand it, this Miss O'Grady," she declared, "wants every kindergarten teacher now at the normal school turned out. She wants to organize her own staff and upset everything. Her education is limited. She is not as fit to take charge of that department as are some of our own teachers. This woman was educated in Canada. Chicago is recognized as the great kindergarten center. We have better material here to select from than can be found elsewhere."

Supt. Cooley declared that it seemed advisable to get somebody to supervise the kindergarten department at the normal school who had not been mixed up in any of the petty squabbles that have been going on among the kindergarten teachers here. He explained that Miss O'Grady stood in the first rank of the kindergartners of the country.

Lively Fight Is Promised.

A motion by Dr. Stolz calling for the appointment of Miss O'Grady was defeated by a tie vote and the matter will be again considered at the next meeting of the committee and a lively fight is assured by both factions. Those who voted to support Supt. Cooley's recommendation were Trustees Claussenius, Dudley, Rowland, and Stolz. Those who opposed him were Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. O'Keeffe, Mr. Brenan, and Mr. Kewflewski.

On motion of Trustee Kewflewski the doctors on the board were formed into a committee to secure a book on physiology to replace the text book dealing with that subject now in use in the schools.

TELLS OF CIVILIZING INDIANS.

Commissioner W. A. Jones in Chicago to Inspect the Warehouse and Restock It.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs W. A. Jones, accompanied by Financial Agent S. E. Slater, arrived in Chicago yesterday on his annual tour of the Indian warehouses and reservations. He will restock the Chicago warehouse, which is the largest distributing point for Indian supplies in the country.

Mr. Jones spoke of the new policy of the government in educating the Indians and making them self-supporting.

"During the last year," he said, "the government expended $3,437,785 for maintaining 249 schools, which were attended by 24,757 Indians. The Indians receive a fair general education and are taught various branches of manual work. It is the policy of the government to break up the reservations and make the Indians self-supporting landowners and farmers. The total number of Indians in this country is about 270,000."

ACCUSES HER FORMER FRIEND.

Bessie Palmer, Dancer, Tells Court How She Was Shot by Elsie Barrett.

Accused of attempting to kill her friend and employer, Miss Elsie Barrett was put on trial in Judge McEwen's court yesterday. Bessie Palmer, the dancer, who was shot by Miss Barrett, was the only witness examined during the day. Miss Barrett asked Judge McEwen to hear the evidence and signed a jury waiver. Miss Palmer related how she was shot while in her apartments at 97 Oakwood boulevard, and said her assailant's motive was jealousy because of the presence in the flat of Frank Wright, a so-called beauty specialist. At the time of the shooting Miss Barrett, who was a former schoolmate of Miss Palmer, was serving as Miss Palmer's maid.

The students will probably remain here three days, staying at the Victoria hotel.

KNICKERBOCKER VOILE COSTUME.

The hitherto smooth woven crêpes and voiles as well as mohairs, are further illumined by the interweaving of mixed threads and knots of twisted yarn, giving the old fashioned bourette surface, so much more durable and so cleanly in wear. Pretty costumes with appliques of embroidery, laces, and buttons result. The rough straw hat is good style.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

IN PETER THE GREAT'S DAY.

"The Triumph of Count Osterman," a Story of the Russian Court.

Blending tolerably authentic history into moving, interesting fiction, Graham Hope takes the readers of his new book into virgin fields. Passionate Peter the Great, superlative symphonist, now twanging discords upon the strings of sensuality and again evolving glorious harmonies from that wonderful instrument, his semi-savage people, is the dominant figure in "The Triumph of Count Osterman." (Henry Holt & Co.)

It is the love tale of Osterman, whom the Russians know as Andrei Ivanovitch, Peter's vice chancellor and valued adviser. Wedded at the czar's command to a haughty princess, who disdains him as an alien and a plebeian, the clever German coolly pursues his troubled way, carrying on the noble work of his royal master after the latter's death. Through the parlous reign of Catherine, and as the tutor of the young Peter, Osterman plods steadfastly on, always nearing the goal. After Anna Ivanovna has been set upon the throne, Marfa sees the light, yet hesitates to voice her love for the husband she has so bitterly derided. Crafty intriguers draw her into the meshes of a plot against the crown, and while Andrei stands firm in his allegiance to his sovereign she connives at the success of conspiracy. Perceiving her danger, he warns her disinterestedly, but it is too late. His triumph comes when the bloodless revolution seats Elizabeth. Condemned to ignominous death upon the block, he presents himself to the executioner with icy fortitude, to be spared his life in banishment to Siberia. Envious enemies are compelled to acknowledge his greatness, and happiness comes with Marfa, who avows her love and joins him in his wintry exile.

KENT FORT MANOR.

A Story of the Civil War, by William Henry Babcock.

"Kent Fort Manor," by William Henry Babcock, is an addition to the imposing list of novels of the civil war. Kent island, a few miles down the bay from Baltimore, is the scene, and there, in the circumscribed area of the ancient grant made by the lord proprietary centuries ago, most of the action takes place. The story is told in a discursive way, with the gilt of description and dialogue thickly spread over the frail superstructure of plot. Members of the Claiborne family furnish the roll of characters, some of whom are portrayed with satisfying reality, but most of the people are of stereotyped cast.

To the suspected residents of the manor, who have guarded the tract as the last link in the chain of confederate forwarding places, comes a Louisiana cousin bearing documents of importance to his government. First hiding in a swampy tangle, he seeks the open, and days melt into weeks in languorous efforts to deliver his message. Love makes its presence felt, and the secret service suffers in devotion to a softer cause. Another wins the girl, while the Creole lad finds disappointment in an unfulfilled mission. An unexpected element arises in the strange spectacle of a Claiborne who fancies himself remembering the acts of his ancestors, giving a grewsome touch to the concluding chapters. Slowly developing, without definite interest, and with only a negative climax, the tale is productive of a restful effect, devoid of stimulative influences. (Henry T. Coates & Co.)

HISTORY OF WESTERN EUROPE.

Prof. Robinson of Columbia Writes a Good Textbook.

In a book of 700 pages J. H. Robinson of Columbia university has written a "History of Western Europe" (Ginn & Co.) for schools. This difficult task he has accomplished with remarkable success. To each country and epoch he has allotted what appears to be its true value in space, and his estimates of the importance of events is uniformly fair and just. Last autumn Part I. of this work appeared in a temporary edition, and was introduced as a textbook in a number of colleges and schools. The present work includes this and is complete.

The work is fully illustrated and contains a number of maps illustrating the various eras of history. There is, too, a list of books on the subject for consultation, and a full index.

TWO NATURE BOOKS.

"With the Trees" and "My Woodland Intimates" Are Good to Carry Into the Country.

There is but little in woodcraft which is a sealed book to Maud Going, who wrote "Among the Wild Flowers" and "Field, Forest, and Wayside Flowers," and whose new volume, "With the Trees," has just been issued by the Baker & Taylor company of New York. In this volume she devotes herself almost entirely to the life and structure of the trees. The book is written in the simplest and clearest style, and presupposes, as such books should, that the average reader knows little or nothing about the subject.

Her "Few Preliminary Remarks" make plain a great deal about the anatomy of trees. The subsequent chapters, bearing such titles as "When the Sap Stirs," "In the Sweet o' the Year," "Keeping Tryst with Spring," "The Life of the Leaves," "The Work of the Leaves," "In the Waterside Woods," "In the High Woods," are full of intense and living interest for the amateur in woodcraft. She then takes you to "The Hillside Pastures," "The Conebearers and Their Kin," "The King of the Trees," "Trees of Streets, Parks, and Gardens," "The Mellowing Year," and "Seed Time and Sowing."

The author is no perfunctory botanist content to teach the routine of the subject. She has the soul of a poet and a love of and a knowledge of nature which all who lack must envy. She interperses her own poetic prose with appropriate quotations from those who have written in rhyme of her nature world, and her book is a real delight. It is illustrated with many pictures from photographs. It is just the volume to take to the country for the children.

Another book good for the same purpose and issuing from the same publisher is "My Woodland Intimates," by Effie Bignell, who speaks of the living things of the forest as Maud Going does of the trees. That she deals with no remote or inaccessible territory is shown by the fact that most of the "Woodland Intimates" are to be found in a certain grove in eastern New Jersey, although she occasionally transports the reader to the Laurentian mountains of Canada. To us she introduces the robins, the woodpeckers, the chickadees, the rabbits, and squirrels of the woodland—introduces them so vividly and intimately that one almost seems to hear the tapping on the tree trunks, the chatter in the upper boughs, or the flash of the magnificent brush as the beautiful owner springs gracefully from place to place.

The author knows intimately her woodland and all its living things from the locust to the squirrel, and she makes us acquainted with them in the most charming manner.

ANCIENT AND MODERN ENGINEERS.

Their Work Compared by Prof. W. H. Burr of Columbia University.

William H. Burr of the civil engineering department of Columbia university has expanded six lectures delivered there into a book, which he calls "Ancient and Modern Engineering and the Isthmian Canal" (Wiley & Sons, New York). The lectures in their new form are: "Ancient Civil Engineering Works," "Bridges," "Waterworks for Cities and Towns," "Some Features of Railroad Engineering," "The Nicaragua Route for a Ship Canal," and "The Panama Route for a Ship Canal."

The first four are technical entirely, and the general reader who does not understand engineering will not make much of them. The rival routes for a canal across the isthmus he treats in a dispassionate way without apparently favoring either design. He points out the advantages of each route, gives a history of the projects for canals there, goes into mechanical details as to the difficulties and the cost of the work, and furnishes many pictures and diagrams to show what he means. On the whole, however, he thinks the Panama the cheapest and most easily built. At least, that is the impression conveyed, although he holds no brief for either route.

The evolution of bridge building is one of the most interesting chapters of the book, and the work of the ancients in this branch of engineering, as well as in aqueducts and dams, is highly praised. Photographs accompany almost every page of the book.

"Contrasts" a Pessimistic Book.

Florence Henniker, an English writer, is the author of "Contrasts," a book of short stories which John Lane publishes. Miss Henniker has considerable art as a writer, but her view of life is decidedly biased and unpleasant. Some of the stories are pleasant enough, but many of the others leave a disagreeable sensation with the reader. The proportion of tragedy is too great. We imagine that she is suffering from a bad attack of the pessimism of youth. When she recovers the tone of her work will improve.

Michigan Local Option Law Enforced.

South Haven, Mich., April 27.—[Special.]—Carl Hintz and Ed Murray, druggists of South Haven, were sentenced to thirty days in the county jail and $200 fine each in the Circuit court at Paw Paw today by Judge Carr for violation of the local option law. If the fine is not paid in thirty days they incur a sixty days' additional jail sentence.

"THIS IS MY BIRTHDAY." —SHAKSPEARE.

PETTIBONE—Philo Foster Pettibone, president of P. F. Pettibone company—"Commodore Pettibone."

"Well, I'm going to take a half holiday and in the afternoon I'll look at some boats with my wife, and in the evening we shall have some friends at dinner."

That is Mr. Pettibone's program for his birthday.

Mr. Pettibone's favorite amusements are yachting and golf.

"Yachting is my hobby, although I have not done much since my ship wore out."

His idea of happiness is crystallized into:

"Domestic love, good friends, some time for books and play, and to grow old gently and graciously."

"I think I am pretty lucky in escaping things that bore me. I enjoy pretty much everything."

His heroes are:

Socrates, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Senator Beveridge.

Mr. Pettibone is a book lover and a home lover, "with the manner of a student."

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

MISS HELEN JOHNSON TO BE MARRIED ON MAY 20.

Date Is Changed Because Her Fiance, Lieut. Hardenburgh, Is Ordered to the Philippines—Ceremony to Take Place in the Second Presbyterian Church and a Reception to Follow at the Residence of Mrs. George M. Pullman.

So early a date as May 20 for the wedding of Miss Helen Stewart Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo M. Johnson, to Lieut. Raymond W. Hardenburgh, Twentieth infantry, U. S. A., was a pleasant surprise to society and lends new interest to the spring season, as the wedding will be prominent from both a social and military standpoint. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson had planned to have their daughter's wedding take place in June at Winnetka, but Lieut. Hardenburgh has been ordered from the San Antonio post to the Philippines, hence the change in date. The bride and groom will sail immediately for the Philippines.

Mrs. George M. Pullman was visiting at the Johnsons' winter home in Mexico when the change of plans was made, and at once started back to Chicago, bringing Mrs. Johnson and the Misses Johnson in her private car. They arrived last Friday. As Mr. and Mrs. Johnson's new residence at Winnetka is not yet completed the family is staying at Mrs. Pullman's residence, and she is planning to make her young cousin's wedding one notably beautiful, although all the arrangements are being hastily made.

The ceremony will take place in the evening at the Second Presbyterian church, and the bride's uncle, the Rev. Dr. Johnson, formerly pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church of this city, will come from the east to officiate. Miss Johnson's sister, Miss Dorothy Johnson, will be her maid of honor. There will be six bridemaids—another sister, Miss Leslie Johnson, a cousin; Miss Catherine Williams, the groom's sister, Miss Hardenburgh of Philadelphia, and Miss Adelaide Hamilton. The other two are not definitely known yet, as many of the bride's friends are out of town. The men of the bridal party will all be army officers, the groom's friends from both eastern and western army posts. They will wear full uniform. The bridemaids will wear simple gowns of white muslin, and flowers and decorations will be white and green. The officers of Fort Sheridan will also be present in uniform.

The reception will be held at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Pullman, and as a compliment to the military there will be dancing. The wedding will bring many out of town guests, among them the members of the groom's family from Philadelphia.

The invitations were sent out yesterday for the wedding of Miss Narcissa Cox, daughter of Mr. Charles Epperson Cox, to Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip, on Tuesday, May 19. It will be an evening ceremony at Christ church, and a reception will be held at 8:30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's father, 3306 Calumet avenue. At home cards are inclosed for Thursdays, Sept. 17 and 24, at 1667 Madison avenue, New York.

Dr. and Mrs. John B. Murphy of 3308 Michigan avenue will give a reception Thursday evening from 8 till 11 o'clock for Prof. J. von Mikuliez, a surgeon of Breslau, and his daughter. Relatives Seek to Break Will.

A bill has been filed attacking the validity of the first will of Orlando D. Hadsell, who in one of his wills gave his property to the waifs' mission. The complainants are relatives, who allege that Mr. Hadsell was of unsound mind at the time the instrument was executed. The will which is being attacked was executed in 1870 and leaves all of his property to his wife. The will giving his property to the waifs' mission never was admitted to probate. Nearly $50,000 is involved.

DOCTORS' CLUB BARS WOMEN: MIGHT DISLIKE THE SMOKE.

Vote of the Physicians' Organization Is Almost Unanimous—Rejected Ones Declare They Don't Care.

Women are not to be admitted to membership in the Chicago Physicians' club.

This decision was reached last night at a business meeting of the organization at the Sherman house. A ballot was taken on an amendment to the constitution suggested by Dr. John M. Dodson which would allow the gentler sex to participate in the councils of the club. It was defeated by a practically unanimous vote, three members only voting in its favor, among them Secretary L. H. Mettler.

The club members were disinclined to discuss the action. From an unofficial source—in fact, from a woman physician who has attended several meetings of the club as a guest—it was learned that the real reason why the club doesn't want women is because it fears that they will object to tobacco smoke.

The club has three women members, however, and they are inclined to esteem their privileges the more now. They are Dr. Frances Dickinson, Dr. Hickey-Carr, and Dr. Bertha Van Husen. They were members of the South Side Physicians' club, which eight years ago became amalgamated with the present organization.

"Offended? Not at all," said a woman physician who has attended a number of the club meetings. "We don't want to belong to their old club, anyway. We won't have to pay dues now. I notice that they are glad to have us attend their monthly meetings, especially when they want us to take part on the program."

"The Indian Question in the United States" was the subject discussed last night. Addresses were delivered by W. A. Jones of Washington, commissioner of Indian affairs; Dr. G. Frank Lydston, and Dr. Carlos Montezuma.
